1965 CLIPPINGS
LEGIS SESSION & YEAR

FARR

To view scrapbook with all clippings unfolded, please visit Digital Commons @ CSUMB

CSUMB Library

1965

Sac Bee 1/14/65

State Sen. Fred Farr Heads Back for Remapping Fight

By ERIC BRAZIL

State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) headed back to Sacramento today, determined to try to land a seat on the committee which will guide the reapportionment of the Senate.

The Senator, whose 25th district, Monterey County is bound to be merged with at least one other district by July 1, told the Californian he has learned that the 11-member Reapportionment Committee may be enlarged.

"And if it is, I certainly want to be on it," he said.

The 40-member Senate is under a federal court order to redistrict itself in such a manner that each senator represents approximately the same number of persons. Reapportionment will mean the loss of more than a dozen senators by Northern Californian counties. And Northern California's loss will be Southern California's gain; hence the fierce infighting now under way in Sacramento.

Three in One

Political railbirds in Sacramento say that Monterey, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties — each of which is now a separate Senatorial district — may be merged to form a single district. If this plan were adopted, it would throw Farr in against two incumbent Senators, Republican Vernon Sturgeon of Paso Robles and Democrat Alvin Weingand of Santa Barbara.

Sturgeon, a milk distributor who served for several years as a City Councilman and Mayor of Paso Robles, won re-election for a second term easily on Nov. 3, bucking a Democratic landslide for President Johnson. Sturgeon polled 22,914 votes, as against 13,661 for his Democratic opponent, Donald O. Miller.

Sturgeon recently was appointed to a coveted position on the Senate Rules Committee. He is also a member of the Reapportionment Committee, on which Farr seeks membership.

Weingand, a hotel owner, had a more difficult time in turning back the challenge of Republican Tom Halde in Santa Barbara County. He had 46,602 votes, Halde, 38,975.

Farr scored his easiest election victory on Nov. 3 in trouncing Pacific Grove businessman Stephen Magyar, 38,286 to 26,157.

The current rumor in Sacramento is that Weingand would not run for office in a special election if he and Farr, as fellow Democrats, were thrown int the same reapportionment district. But, Farr told the Californian, "if that's so, he (Weingand) certainly hasn't mentioned it to me."

Farr, who is one of the Senate's senior members and chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, appears to favor a reapportionment plan which would involve enlargement of the Senate from 40 to 50 members.

But in the event enlargement won't work, he believes that the proposed Monterey - San Luis Obispo-Santa Barbara county Senatorial district is a pretty reasonable alternative. Farr said that the three counties have a substantial community of interest.

Farr frowned on the idea of reapportioning his district "to the north," i. e. merging Monterey County with Santa Cruz County and part of Santa Clara County. "I don't think we should take in Santa Clara County," he said. "There is no community of interest."

If reapportionment does merge Monterey County with other areas and take it "to the north," Farr will be in the pit against Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville.

Grunsky, an attorney and chairman of the Senate's Educational Committee, has been such a formidable vote-getter in his Santa Cruz County bailiwick that the Democratic party couldn't even find an opponent for him on Nov. 3.

"The squeeze play is on in Sacramento," one of Farr's colleagues told the Californian recently, "and you know who's in the middle — Farr."

Farr, Pattee

MPH 1/15/65

To Support Barker as State Poet

State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) and Assemblyman Alan Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) said today they will nominate Eric Barker of Big Sur for poet laureate of California.

Responding to a suggestion in a Herald editorial, the legislators said they are prepared to carry the anticipated fight for the coveted honorary position to the floors of their respective houses.

"I would very much like to see him poet laureate and I will certainly recommend it. To my knowledge we don't have one, though it was a matter before the Assembly a couple of years ago. I am going to suggest it for Eric Barker has an international reputation as an outstanding poet," Farr said.

Pattee was pessimistic. "This certainly meets with my approval 100 per cent. But it is so controversial. Everybody's got somebody they want for poet laureate of the state.

"George McLain, the old-age pension promoter, has a wife who writes poetry and wants to be poet laureate. When he is not lobbying for pensions, he is promoting his wife for poet laureate," the assemblyman said.

Candidate

Pattee said one of the assemblymen writes poetry and wants to be the state's poet laureate. He is Charles B. Garrigus (D-Fesno), a college professor.

"It is so controversial the rules committee has refused to tackle it, but I will appear before them and ask that Eric Barker be named California's poet laureate," Pattee said.

Barker is a prize-winning poet whose work has been highly praised by other renowned poets.

MPH 1/18/65

Poet Eric Barker Doesn't Want to Be State Laureate

Eric Barker, Big Sur poet whom The Herald suggested as a fine selection for poet laureate of California, a post now vacant, has decided that he does not want the job.

Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee had in preparation a resolution nominating Barker for poet laureate, and State Sen. Fred Farr hailed his choice as a good one.

But poets are different. And Barker, in his own words, ". . . after mulling it over for a long time, staring hard at my cats, and waking at last to a sunny morning," decided that "I don't want to be poet laureate of California."

The Herald suggested editorially that Barker would be a fine choice because he is a good poet, he looks like a poet should look, and reads with a fine voice. The suggestion was immediately taken up by our legislators, admirers of his poetry and many friends.

Apparently Barker feels that he would be forfeiting the followship of many poets by taking the post.

His letter to The Herald follows:

Editor, The Herald:

I hope this letter won't cause any hard feelings and I hope you will publish it because I would like my friends to know, whether they agree with me or not, that after mulling it over for a long time, staring hard at my cats, and waking at last to a sunny morning, that I don't want to be poet laureate of California or anywhere else.

I also want you to know that I am deeply grateful to you for nominating me for this post, and I apologize for not letting you know sooner, but it wasn't something I could decide immediately. There were a few things to consider.

One was that I might be called upon to write a poem for some state occasion as the poet laureate of England (poor devil) is on certain court and national occasions, and being faced with such a task would completely paralyze me. Even if I were offered payment for such a poem I still couldn't do it; the fact that there is no stipend attached to this post isn't one of my reasons for refusing it.

I've been poor all my life and I'm used to it.

I'm finally stepping down because of a near certainty in my mind that by accepting this post I would be forfeiting the fellowship of many poets whom I deeply respect. You see, it's a sad fact, but there isn't much honor in being a poet laureate any more, even in England.

And there has never, to my knowledge, been a poet laureate of California worthy even of the name of poet. And we've had poets in this state to be always proud of, Jeffers for one, and still have, Patchen and Rexroth for two more. Poets, not laureates. I remember Jeffers saying somewhere: "Write and be quiet." Such good advice for a poet!

So again with apologies for my tardy decision and my appreciation for the trouble you and Senator Farr and Assemblyman Pattee have taken in my behalf,

Eric Barker,
Big Sur, Calif.

Sal Cal 1/19/65

Farr Loses Farm Seat To McCarthy

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) received his legislative committee appointments today and learned to his chagrin that he had been bounced from the Senate Agriculture Committee by a Republican.

Farr was re-appointed chairman of the standing and fact finding Senate Committees on Natural Resources and to the Education, Judiciary, Transportation and Elections committees.

He told the Californian that he was "very unhappy" about losing his seat on the Agriculture Committee, for which he had again applied, to Republican Sen. Jack McCarthy of Marin County. McCarthy has a seniority edge on Farr.

"Marin has become a very big agricultural county," Farr said. "I hear they're growing some seaweed on the shores."

Farr said that he was pleased with his new appointment to the Transportation Committee in that it will give him an opportunity to work for esthetic and scenic values and for conservation in connection with state highways.

The senator also learned that he had been denied a seat on the committee that will be working on reapportionment of the Senate. The committee was enlarged, to 13 members, by the addition of Sens. Richard Dolwig (R-San Mateo) and Joseph Rattigan (D-Sonoma.).

Pattee Cites Conditions Necessary to Be Candidate

Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R-Salinas) said today that he would be interested in running for a seat in the State Senate if:

1. A new senatorial district is created by reapportionment that includes both Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, his present Assembly district.

2. State Sen. Donald Grunsky (R-Watsonville), an 18-year Senate veteran, chooses not to run in the special senatorial election, which probably will be held in 1966.

Pattee, in a telephone interview with the Californian from his Sacramento office, said that the four-year term for State Senators appeals to him. "Campaigning every two years for the Assembly is very tough," he said. But he's not going to take any wild electoral chances, for "after all, I have a beautiful Assembly district."

The Assemblyman said he believes that after the smoke clears in Sacramento the reapportioned state senatorial district of which Monterey County will be a part may approximate the boundaries of the 12th Congressional District.

And that would put him at least halfway into the Senate race.

Pattee said that his observations of the Senate this week and last indicate that "party politics have gone down the drain," for the dozen or so Northern California Senators who are scheduled to be reapportioned out of jobs on July 1 "are fighting to save their seats."

Pattee said he'd not run against Grunsky, because the Watsonville legislator is the senior Republican member of the Senate.

Grunsky's problem with respect to redistricting, Pattee said, is that he'd like to be in a new district taking in a big slice of conservative Southern Santa Clara County. But Santa Clara County's present Republican Senator Clark Bradley is reluctant to give up that portion of his distrct, without which, he feels, he'd have a very hard time winning election.

In 1954 Pattee won election to the Assembly by handing Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) his only political defeat in Monterey County.

Sen. Farr Assigned To Highway Group

MPH 1/19/65

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today announced that he has been assigned to the Senate Transportation Committee.

This is a new assignment for Farr and represented a switch from the Senate Agricultural Committee for the Carmel legislator.

Meanwhile, Farr was reappointed chairman of a standing committee on natural resources and chairman of a fact-finding committee on natural resources and as a member of the judiciary, education and elections committees.

Farr said his assignment to the transportation committee, which deals with freeway and highway matters, "could be very important to Monterey County and particularly to the Monterey Peninsula.

"I have long wanted to serve on this committee.

"I can also coordinate the work of this committee with the work of the committee on natural resources in preserving scenic resources. I think that aesthetic factors should be considered in highway design and that many other factors beside benefit ratio to motorists should be considered."

Farr Tax Bill One of Three Fish Measures

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Frank Petersen (D-Ukiah) has filed a bill extending the April 15-Sept. 30 commercial salmon fishing season for two more years.

Petersen's measure was one of three introduced yesterday on the subject of fish.

Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) submitted a bill to continue the privilege tax on handling sardines, Pacific and Jack mackerel, herring and anchovies through 1967. The tax is five cents per 100 pounds.

Sen. Vernon Sturgeon (R-Paso Robles) introduced a bill to abolish present mandatory closures of certain clam - digging areas and leave the closures up to the discretion of the fish and game commission. MPH 1/19/65

New Home

This two-story building at 969 Pacific St., Monterey, is being completely remodeled to serve the research and clinical requirements of the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing. It is to be equipped with the latest in modern research, diagnostic and training equipment for persons handicapped in speech and hearing.

Civic Leaders Participate

Inspecting evidence of construction progress for the new clinic of the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing are, left to right, Charles Page, Monterey attorney and president of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest; State Sen. Fred S. Farr; Lloyd Swanson, director of special services of the Monterey Public Schools; Dr. Joseph E. Turner, president-elect of the Monterey County Medical Society; and, seated, Dr. Gene England, director of the institute. Page, Farr and Swanson are charter members of the board of trustees.

Speech, Hearing Clinic Set Up In Monterey

MPH 2/5/65

The Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing, a non - profit organization formed for the purpose of supporting a full-time program of research, diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation in the field of speech and hearing disorders, will open a fully equipped clinic at 969 Pacific St., Monterey, next month.

Dr. Gene England, who holds a PhD degree in speech pathology and audiology, has been named as director of the institute, and will be assisted by a staff of speech and hearing specialists.

The board of directors, elected last September, consists of Dr. Jack L. Mahoney, otologist; State Sen. Fred S. Farr; Mrs. Hans von Richter, vice president .of the Monterey Society for Crippled Children and Adults Inc.; Lloyd Swanson, director of special education services in the Monterey Public Schools; Charles Page, attorney and president of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest, and Rev. C. E. Wilson, chaplain at Robert Louis Stevenson School.

Numbers in Need

The U. S. Department of Public Health's bureau of statistics and the most recent White House conference on health statistics both pointed out that approximately 10 per cent of any area's population is in need of speech and-or hearing services. On this basis, the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing estimates a present need for services from 20,000 persons.

The need was substantiated in a recent study conducted by the Monterey County Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its state counterpart. The Monterey County Medical Society is reported to have investigated and approved the Monterey Institute's program, which is expected to produce numerous advances in the field of diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation, which will be made available to practitioners throughout the country.

The closest present clinic for such diagnosis and treatment is at Stanford University.

Aims Cited

It is the aim of the Monterey institute clinic to return handicapped adults to productive work and to help handicapped children reach levels of speech necessary for social adjustment. Its services are to be available to all persons requiring attention, regardless of income, and on referral from their family physician.

The institute plans to relate closely to the Gateway Center for retarded children, the Tri - County School for Deaf and Hard of Hearing, the Monterey County Office of Education, the Human Resources Research Office at the Presidio of Monterey, the Naval Postgraduate School, area hospitals and other agencies. A professional advisory board will represent both general practitioners and specialists. Lay representation on the boards is planned to provide business experience.

Olden Times

MPH

10 YEARS AGO
Feb. 22, 1955

Fred Farr, Carmel attorney, said he definitely would not be a candidate in the May 3 special election to fill a vacant State Senate seat.

* * *

20 YEARS AGO
Feb. 22, 1945

Monterey councilmen were to decide whether the Millington property at Webster and Houston streets should be used for a mortuary or bought by the city.

30 YEARS AGO
Feb. 22, 1935

Robert Bratt of Seaside put a ball 1 foot 7½ inches from the cup as The Herald's hole-in-one tournament opened on the Pacific Grove golf course.

* * *

40 YEARS AGO
Feb. 22, 1925

Twenty - six Western Addressograph Sales Co. representatives gathered at the Highlands Inn in that hostelry's very first convention.

Newton Minow, Former FCC Chairman, to Speak

Sal. Daily. 1/28/65.

Newton Minow, former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, was to address more than 500 delegates to the Audio Visual Education Assn. conference today at Asilomar.

Minow, now executive vice president of Encyclopedia Britannica, was scheduled to speak on "Television and Education."

The three-day conference brings together audio-visual experts from throughout the state.

The conference began today with a series of tours to historic sites on the Monterey peninsula.

The group was also to tour the Defense Language Institute, West Coats, in Monterey to view audio-visual techniques used by the Army in Language instruction. On Friady, from 11 a. m. to noon, the DLI will put on a demonstration of advanced A-V techniques at Asilomar.

Monterey County is acting as the host county for the conference. Giving the welcoming remarks today to delegates was Ed Coffin, superintendent of schools.

Other speakers during the conference will be State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Prof. Stephen Corey of Columbia University's education department.

Ord Task Force Maps Strategy For Trip East

MPH 2/5/65

Cheered by the announcement that Gov. Edmund Brown's chief health administrator is recommending resumption of basic training at Fort Ord, a four-man Peninsula delegation today prepared to leave for Washington.

Group members intend to talk to legislators and officials in the Department of the Army to support the Army's bid to reopen the highly-valued training camp to recruits.

The delegation, including A. G. (Tim) Michaud, Elwood J. Wilson, O. W. (Bill) Irwin and Lowell Morse, is scheduled to fly to the capital Tuesday and to return Friday. They are members of the newly-formed Military Relations Council of Monterey County.

Michaud yesterday talked with Maj. Gen. George E. Underwood Jr., U. S. Army chief of information, in Washington. Michaud said Underwood told him that the delegation would be welcome and that the trip would be helpful.

On Monday, Michaud said he again would confer by phone with Underwood. At that time, Underwood will advise the delegation of the hours of appointments with Army Secretary Stephen Ailes and Chief of Staff Harold K. Johnson.

Senator Kuchel

An appointment already has been set up for 10:30 a.m. Wednesday with U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

Paul Ward, state administrator of health and welfare, yesterday said he would welcome a resumption of recruit training at Fort Ord (suspended last fall because of meningitis) provided effective disease control measures are implemented. He added that, "I have every reason to believe every possible control and preventive measure will be taken." The statement approved by the governor, was requested by State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel).

The Peninsula delegation held a briefing session this morning with Maj. Gen. Edwin H. J. Carns, commanding general, Fort Ord.

Only Pattee's Assembly District Is Large Enough

Monterey County is entitled to .48 of a congressman, .505 of a state senator and 1.01 of a state assemblyman on the basis of the 1960 census, the Assembly Committee on Elections and Reapportionment reported recently.

Although Sen. Fred Farr's 25th District, Monterey County, ranks 16th in population among the 40 state senatorial districts, its population falls far below the 1960 norm of 392,930. Estimated population of the county now is 220,000.

Sen Farr, a Carmel Democrat and one of the upper house's senior members, presently is as deeply involved as any senator in working out a reapportionment bill. The Senate is under court order to reapportion itself on a population basis by July 1.

On the other hand, Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee's 34th District, comprising Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, has more than 300,000 people in it and is the third largest of the 80 Assembly Districts. The 1960 norm for Assembly district population was 196,465.

Pattee, a Republican, is a member of the Assembly Committee on Elections and Reapportionment.

Congressman Burt L. Talcott R-Salinas, represents a district which, according to the Assembly committee report, ranks 29th in size among the state's 38 Congressional districts. The 12th District is comprised of Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties. Its population of about 400,000 is slightly below the 1960 norm of 413,610.

Sam Farr

Frustration And Joy in PeaceCorps

By JOHN WOOLFENDEN

"You often feel as if you are beating your head against a wall," said Peace Corps volunteer Sam Farr.

"Then a little boy with no shoes, but with a smile all over his face and one egg in his hand, comes to offer you the gift, which means a real sacrifice to his family.

"To see the smile, and know the appreciation of that family for what you are doing, is enough to give a charge to your spirit.

"That sort of a reward more than offsets any frustrations."

Senator's Son

Sam recently was home in Carmel for a visit with his parents, State Sen. and Mrs. Fred S. Farr shortly before his mother's death.

Sam is assigned to Medellin, the second largest city and industrial center of Colombia. With three other volunteers—two girls, and a boy from Sacramento—he has been working in the Barrio Castillo, a poor sector of the city, where some 40,000 of Medellin's total population of about 1 million are crowded into 4,000 homes.

Their job is to help to develop natural leaders in this sector, through juntas, elective bodies, which will undertake such goals as building schools, installing a sewer system, "even though it extends for only three or four blocks and the work has to be done on weekends, since most of the people work in one or the other of Medellin's 1,600 factories — textiles, beer, cigarettes, etc.

"We are a sort of middlemen—trying to make the rich realize the problems, and trying to help the poor to help themselves."

Topping Cans

Farr first became interested in the Peace Corps in the summer of 1962 when, at the end of his junior year at Willamette University, Oregon, he went with a Berkeley roommate, Steve Crane, to work in the Johnson Wax factory in Buenos Aires at 27 cents an hour, putting tops on cans on the assembly line. They lived with a family in the suburbs, traveled as much as possible, and began to realize how fortunate they were to have homes in California.

MPH 2/16/65

Peace Corps in Action

Sam Farr, son of State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel, is shown with some of the children of Medellin, Colombia, with whom he has been working as a Peace Corps volunteer. At the right are some of the adobe-type bricks which were made at the site and used to build a community center.

"Perhaps my interest goes back even farther than that," he said. "When I was a junior in Carmel High School I went to Europe with an American Friendship group. After the two experiences, I decided to apply to the Peace Corps after graduation from college."

From September 1963 to January 1964, Farr took an intensive Spanish course at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies. He had made application to the Peace Corps while at Willamette, taken the examination and asked for service in Latin America. In February of last year he started a three-month training course at Columbia University, New York City.

At the end of the three months, Farr's group had shrunk from 65 to 46.

Of the 46, 23 went to Colombia, 23 to Venezuela. After a 10-day leave in Carmel, Farr left for Bogota, June 4, for a one-week orientation session.

Contract Projects

Administration of some of the Peace Corps' projects is contracted to other organizations such as CARE and the American Cooperative League, Farr explained. Sam's own work was to be under the CARE management.

He soon learned some of the problems involved.

A community center was the principal objective of the people of the Barrio Castillo, who, with the Peace Corps quartet, labored weekends with a cimba ram, a hand compressor, to make an adobe type of brick with dirt and straw. After seven months, the building was complete and a big inaugural was planned, with city officials attending, and a performance of songs and dances and one-act plays. It looked as if the community center was off to a grand start.

Takes Key

"Then for two months it wasn't used at all," said Farr. "It seems that the woman who headed the junta and who had been given the key, had decided to take a vacation and wouldn't trust the key to anyone else.

"It's not enough to put in the physical project. You've got to show how to use it and teach the responsibility that goes with it.

"It's no use to build a school if no teacher is available, as has happened. The heart of the problem, of course, is education — to create a total awareness of what needs to be done."

"You live in a fishbowl 24 hours a day," he commented. "It may be just as important to spend some time at night with a man at a small bar, listening to his problems, as to talk to his wife in the morning while she's doing the laundry or to go look after the kids during the afternoon.

Learn Limitations

"The biggest frustration is to learn your own limitations, because you never know what you may be called upon to do. And the rewards may be entirely different from what you expect. I don't want to sound negative. I've made a host of new friends and enjoyed it all, and I'll be happy to be back there."

Farr's most vivid recollection is of last Dec. 16, when the Novena — 9 days before Christmas— started, and Barrio Castillo decided to build a pesebre, or creche, on the grand scale with everything live — people and animals. The manger was built of straw and sticks in a somewhat restricted area, which became a little crowded when a five-man radio team arrived to set up its equipment.

Then the children arrived with their dogs, cats, goats, sheep, ducks, each child having been warned by its mother not to let go of the pet lest it be stolen. So every child, holding its animal, had to be crowded into the pesebre.

No Room at Inn

The governor arrived with his entourage, to judge the performance, and space had to be found for them.

The choir arrived late, and had learned the wrong songs.

Joseph and Mary arrived even later, and literally no room could be found for them at the inn.

As the governor was making his speech, the cow which Farr had personally escorted to the pesebre, suddenly went wild, started lashing out at everything in sight and ended by chasing Farr down the hill as 500 people grew hysterical with laughter.

It's something they, and Sam Farr won't soon forget.

Carmel Pine Cone 1/14/65

What Shall We Name The Baby?

Board of education members, last night, were concerned with matters similar to those that face families. These were:

Are we buying the best furniture for the price? What shall we do with the money from the sale of the old house? Are our children safe walking to school? What are they learning in school? And what, oh what, shall we call the new baby?

Trustees decided that the best bargains in furnishings for the large group teaching facility at Carmel High School were received from American Seating Company; C. Patchett and Company; A-V Electronics Company; Coast Visual Company; Photo & Sound Company; and Pacific Film Library.

For $6,656.68, the board will receive 36 stacking chairs, 160 swivel tablet armchairs, eight tables, eight table top lecterns, one electrically operated projection screen, four tape recorders, one transcription player, three projection tables, one filmstrip and slide projector and two 16 millimeter projectors.

Whether or not to use some of the $550,000 received from the sale of Sunset School for building changes at the high school and intermediate school (present Carmel Junior High) which would improve the premises for learning and instructional purposes received considerable discussion.

Major General James H. Phillips (USA ret.), a member of the audience, took exception to such use of the Sunset sale proceeds.

He objected to any "frittering" of the Sunset money on minor improvements which might result in insufficient funds for new school construction when needed. He was informed that the Sunset money had been earmarked by the board for "capital improvements only."

Considering the latter allocation, Chairman Dr. Robert Newton asked Superintendent Medill Bair to present, at a future meeting, specific improvements at both schools that might fall within this classification.

Informed by San Luis Obispo district office of the State Division of Highways, in a letter, that a traffic survey had revealed no need for safety signals at the intersection of Highway One and Atherton Road, the board decided to carry the safety of children walking to school to higher authorities, also enlist the support of State Senator Fred Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee.

Considerable attention was given by the board to tentative programs of study in 1965-66 at Carmel High School and the junior high when it becomes a five through eight grade intermediate school in September.

The fact that art was not a required course in the high school curriculum was deplored by three trustees, Mrs. Herbert Blanks, Dr. Hilton Bialek and Steven Sassoon.

Chairman Newton was "strongly opposed to adding any more required courses." Superintendent Bair thought it better that this subject be taught as a desired rather than a required course. Final adoption of the courses in the two schools will come at a later meeting.

And then the board of education got round to naming the new baby.

Proposed at a former meeting was that the intermediate facility be named Hatton School after the family which formely owned the school site at the entrance to Carmel Valley. Last night, Eben Whittlesey urged the school board to honor Carmel's famous poet, the late Robinson Jeffers, by giving the school his name.

Superintendent Bair suggested that present junior high and Sunset students be asked to submit names for the new school. This met with enthusiastic board approval. The board also decided that high school students should be asked to submit names for the large group teaching facility on their campus.

"It has been my experience," Mr. Bair stated, "that the finest names are developed by kids."

MPH 1/5/65

NEWS Comments

Great Concept Is Great — If He Makes It Stick

Lyndon Johnson's State of the Union message last night left us with mixed emotions.

There were those who thought he would be soft on the part of the world

TED MORTICIANS
y Invitation
Pacific Grove MORTUARY
ed 1904
Thomas L. Paul
. Sawyer
60 Years of Dedicated Service ice facilities, a hospital and nity institu-
y to render an ice every hour
nd day—and 7
And no one is in time of need circumstances.
munity obliga-
onsibility to re faithfully als are essity
IONAL SELECTED MORTICIANS
INSURANCE
PHONE ANYTIME
PARK
Insurance Agency
373-2717
Representing Preferred Risk
Mutual Ins. Co.

A Family Newspaper For The Entire County

LARGEST WEEKLY N

Carmel, Pacific Grove, Mon

VOL. 2 NO. 9 MARCH 3, 1965

Mon Everybody's Family SECTION

edited by Mark Goodman

"A Doctor

EDUCATIONAL TV

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS & ADULTS WILL BENEFIT PROGRAMS ENRICHED GOV. BROWN GIVES FULL SUPPORT

A bill developed by the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Education to extend educational television programs to hundreds of thousands of students and adults in seven California cities was introduced today by Senator Fred S. Farr, of Carmel, Monterey County, and Assemblyman John P. Quimby with the support of Governor Edmund G. Brown.

The bill will provide grants to local school districts of up to $.50 per pupil for each student enrolled in an educational television class. There is $1.5 million in Phase 2 of the governor's budget for the program.

"A pilot educational television project authorized by the 1963 Legislature and in operation in San Bernardino for nearly two years proved the effectiveness of this state program," the governor said.

"I congratulate Senator Farr and Assemblyman Quimby for the work they have done on this bill. It has my full support and I urge its passage by the legislature."

Senator Farr, chairman of the Senate Fact Finding Subcommittee on Instructional Television, conducted hearings which led to the bill. Assemblyman Quimby sponsored the legislation which set up the pilot project.

Assemblyman Quimby pointed out that educational television stations must be supported by private and public grants because they do not have commercial programs.

"This program of grants to school districts will indirectly help support our educational television stations, most of which need financial assistance if they are to provide top-flight programs. We should see an improvement and enrichment of in-school and general cultural programming as a result of the state of grants."

The state became formally involved with educational television in 1961 with creation of a Television Advisory committee and a Television Coordinator in the Department of General Services. Dr. Lawrence Frymire is the coordinator.

In 1963 the legislature passed Assemblyman Quimby's AB 9 at the special session. It provided a 25-cent-per-pupil grant to the San Bernardino County School District.

"Preliminary figures from the pilot project in San Bernardino reveal that the number of viewers more than doubled during the life the project," Frymire said.

Turn to Page 7

SENATOR FARR

"Nearly 100,000 pupils in San Bernardino now enjoy the benefits of improved instruction through television. With approximately only 25 percent of California's student population now making use of televised instruction, it is obvious that the state must make every effort to extend this important opportunity to new areas."

The governor said that Dr. Frymire and the Television Advisory Committee currently are working on a master plan for a statewide educational television network. An engineering study will be made this year. Legislation to create the network probably will be introduced next year.

"With the current expansion program in educational television provided by the federal Educational Television Facilities Act of 1962, the state should be in an excellent position next year to begin to extend televised instruction and educational programs into every county and community in the state.

Olden Times

10 YEARS AGO
March 1, 1955

A week after saying he wouldn't run, attorney Fred Farr accepted the Democratic nomination for a state senate special election on May 3.

* * *

20 YEARS AGO
March 1, 1945

Ernest K. Bramblett, mayor of Pacific Grove for eight years, said he would seek a fourth two-year term in the April 9 municipal election.

30 YEARS AGO
March 1, 1935

Actor Walter Hampden, famed brother of Carmel highlands artist Paul Dougherty, addressed the Carmel Social Credit Group in Sunset Auditorium.

* * *

40 YEARS AGO
March 1, 1925

King Alfonso of Spain, scheduled for a trip to the United States in late summer, was expected to spend several days on the Monterey Peninsula.

State Senator Lauds Peace Corps Workers

Monterey Peninsula Herald
3/10/65

Farr Finds Latin America Friendlier

By JOHN WOOLFENDEN

"Yankee, go home," "Gringo, go home," are phrases no longer heard in much of Latin America.

Thanks to the Peace Corps, friendliness to the United States is spreading daily. In Colombia and Costa Rica, the visitor is especially impressed by the spirit of cooperation with the Peace Corps volunteers and by the development of community leaders who are taking over from these volunteers and permitting them to move on to other projects.

Despite the killing of one California volunteer by a trigger-happy guard in Venezuela, the general feeling toward these volunteers is of heartfelt gratitude, State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel declared today following his return from a trip which took him to Colombia, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras and Mexico City.

New Orleans

As chairman of the legislative committee of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, Farr attended sessions in New Orleans early in February.

When the meetings were concluded, he flew to Bogota and then to Medellin, Colombia, where his son Sam is a Peace Corps volunteer. Sam had been home in Carmel on emergency leave the previous month at the time of his mother's death after a long illness, but the senator had not advised him in advance of his proposed trip to Colombia.

"I simply knocked at the door of his room in the Baric Castillo in Medellin and said 'Como te va?' " the senator recalled today. "Needless to say, we had a wonderful reunion."

Spent Week

Father and son had a week together at the home of a Colombia family whose son, Alfonso Ospina, is a student at Santa Clara University. Alfonso's grandfather was a president of Colombia.

During this time, Sen. Farr visited the community center which Sam and a partner had helped build.

"I was particularly impressed by the cooperation which the Peace Corps is getting," he reported. "I have vivid memories, too, of a health center where babies were being registered and weighed and treated for tuberculosis and intestinal diseases. CARE packages of dried milk and cracked wheat were in evidence, and there was no doubt as to where they came from, as 'U.S.' is stamped on them in large letters, with details of CARE's program printed in about 14 languages.

"Malnutrition is evident with these people, who exist largely on corn and a very little meat, and frequently contaminated water.

More Successful

"I have a feeling that the volunteers who are working in the rural areas are more successful than those in the cities. In one such area, Santuria, we met two girls, a Stanford graduate and a Vassar graduate, who have been specializing in child care and nutrition. They either walk or ride horseback to all sorts of out-of-the-way spots. But their objective is to so organize their project that the local people can take it over.

"The Vassar girl plans to marry a Peace Corps volunteer working in Chile. The Stanford girl has a scholarship to the University of Chicago, where she will take advanced courses in nutrition. They will leave behind a friendly, clean and proud people capable of helping themselves."

Educational TV

In Bogota, Farr met U.S. Ambassador Covey Oliver and inspected an educational television center where Colombians have been taught by Peace Corps personnel to become producers and directors.

"I saw three taped programs on science and mathematics which were to be transmitted in Spanish to the classrooms of some 500,000 Colombian children," Farr said. "The receiving sets have been provided by AID, but within seven months Colombia will supply 50 per cent of the cost."

In San Jose, Costa Rica, Farr visited his law partner, Laurence Horan, now on leave of absence as a Peace Corps director and making his home there with his wife and four children. The two partners traveled by train over the mountains to Limon, where the United Fruit Co. has extensive holdings and where 25 per cent of the population is Chinese. Due to lack of roads, transportation may be by plane, train, truck, canoe or horseback.

Malaria Spot

In this area, some 4,000 lives had been lost due to malaria. Now the Alliance in Progress is tearing down slum dwellings and putting up housing projects which rent for the equivalent of $10 per month. The new buildings are actually four bare walls but provide running water and electricity, Farr stated. The people make their own interior additions.

After a day and a half in Limon, Farr and Horan traveled on to San Miguel where Ron and Susan Hodson, graduates of Michigan State, had arrived just two weeks earlier but were already at work installing a water system and arranging for tuberculin tests of dairy herds on a cattle ranch where they were living. They were preparing to build a community center and Mrs. Hodson had started classes in child care, sewing and English.

Next, in Pintada, Farr and Horan watched a soccer game organized by Peace Corps volunteer Bill Krauss of Los Gatos, who had also arrived just two weeks earlier. The three of them slept in a 9 by 7 foot room and made good use of mosquito netting.

To Las Fortunas

Farr and Horan next flew to Las Fortunas, thence back to San Jose, where they visited U.S. Ambassador Ray Telles, former mayor of El Paso, who expressed great enthusiasm for the Peace Corps.

The Farr itinerary then took in Guatemala City, Antigua, Chichicastenango and Mexico City, where he visited Ambassador Fulton Freeman of Carmel Valley to discuss the bracero program. When Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz does make his certification for a renewal of Mexican labor for the U.S., everything will be geared and ready to move at the Mexican end, Farr quoted Freeman as saying.

"But the Mexicans say that they won't certify anyone to be paid less than domestic workers. The rate will probably be $1.40 per hour," Farr added. "Meanwhile, the pressures on Wirtz are building up."

Know Peninsula

Farr stated that he was constantly amazed by the number of Latin Americans who knew about the Monterey Peninsula and were familiar with the work of Ansel Adams.

His greatest surprise came when he was talking in Costa Rica to Clarence Fifield, a Negro schoolteacher of English, certified by San Francisco State and Michigan State. Upon learning that the senator was from Carmel, Fifield produced some of his own pictures of Carmel, where he had visited.

MPH 3/11/65

Conservation Proposals By Farr Committee

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate today had before it a wide-ranging report containing proposals for more conservation in the forests, beauty on the highways and recreation by the sea.

The Senate Interim Committee on Natural Resources, headed by Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), released the report yesterday.

Based on studies since 1963, it also covered such subjects as oil and abalone.

The report contained these major recommendations:

1—Freeway detours around both Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park and Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park.

2—A "crash program of fire hazard reduction, fire prevention education and fire law enforcement."

3—Park Commission veto power over freeway routes through parks.

4—A mandate to the Highway Commission to consider natural resources in routing highways.

5—The launching of a state parkway system, where stretches of road include the development of adjacent park corridors for scenery and recreation.

6—A $2 million boost for small boat harbor construction, to be financed through cancellation of the present optional refund of motor vehicle fuel taxes paid on fuel used for boats.

7—Consideration of expanding abalone fishing by removing some diving restrictions and opening up some new areas to fishing.

8—Beefed-up state geological studies.

9—A "continuing review" of the multi-billion dollar oil operations off Long Beach.

In its recommendations on freeways and parkways, the committee simultaneously stressed park protection and motoring pleasure.

New Twist

In a new twist, the conservation oriented report had a good word for the highway commission, which chooses freeway routings. It said the commission has heeded legislative mandates in the past, and needed only legislative direction to give the proper attention to resources.

Farr accompanied release of the report with a bill to launch a parkway system. He said the stretches of parkway would be built, hopefully with federal aid, through the center of scenic wide corridors that would be developed into parks with lookouts, picnic and camping facilities, and trails.

The section of the report on forest fires stressed prevention. It noted that some 230,000 acres valued at more than $20 million burned last year.

Harbor Funds

The proposal for accelerating boat harbor development would double present small craft harbor funds to $4 million a year.

In suggesting further study of the possibility of expanding the commercial abalone fishery, the report blamed growing numbers of divers, not the disappearing sea otter, for dwindling abalone catches.

The committee took credit for gaining the state up to $300 million additional from Long Beach oil operations through its earlier recommendations on contracts and bidding.

Along with the report, Farr released his own recommendations on redwoods. He called for a national redwoods park plus expansion of state redwood park holdings, with compensation for any losses to local economies in the redwood area.

Farr Committee Seeks More Conservation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate today had before it a wide-ranging report containing proposals for more conservation in the forests, beauty on the highways and recreation by the sea.

The Senate Interim Committee on Natural Resources, headed by Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, released the report Wednesday.

Based on studies since 1963, it also covered such subjects as oil and abalone.

The report contained these major recommendations:

—Freeway detours around Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park and Jedediah Smith Redwoods State Park.

—A "crash program of fire hazard reduction, fire prevention education and fire law enforcement."

—Park Commission veto power over freeway routes through parks.

—A mandate to the Highway Commission to consider natural resources in routing highways.

—The launching of a state parkway system where stretches of road include the development of adjacent park corridors for scenery and recreation.

—Consideration of expanding abalone fishing by removing some diving restrictions and opening up some new areas to fishing.

—Beefed-up state geological studies, particularly to aid in identifying features that may be hazardous to construction.

—A "continuing review" of the multi-billion dollar oil operations off Long Beach.

In Monterey County, the report reveals, 634,537 acres, or 29.83 per cent of the county's land area of 2,217,360 acres, is in public ownership. The federal government is the largest single land owner, with its 588,388 acre holdings comprised primarily of the 300,907 acres under the jurisdiction of the United States Forest Service and the 221,612 acres of Department of Defense property. Monterey County itself owns 25,087 acres. The state of California owns 13,674 acres. There are 4,810 acres in incorporated cities, 1,459 acres owned by school districts, and 1,118 acres owned by special districts.

In its recommendations on freeways and parkways, the committee simultaneously stressed park protection and motoring pleasure.

In a new twist, the conservation oriented report had a good word for the Highway Commission, which chooses freeway routings. It said the commission had heeded legislative mandates in the past, and needed only legislative direction to give the proper attention to resources.

Farr accompanied release of the report with a bill to launch a parkway system. He said the stretches of parkway would be built, hopefully with federal aid, through the center of scenic wide corridors that would be developed into parks with lookouts, picnic and campaign facilities, and trials.

The section of the report on forest fires stressed prevention. It noted that 230,000 acres valued at more than $20 million burned last year.

Sac Calif.
3/11/65

Senator Farr Announces Exam for Maritime Academy

Seaside News Sentinel 3/10/65

State Senator Fred S. Farr today announced an examination for young men in Monterey County who wish to become nominees for admission to the California Maritime Academny in August, 1965. Examinations will be held in both Santa Barbara and Palo Alto on April 17, although the College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) is an acceptable substitute.

The applicant with the highest passing score on the test will become the nominee of Senator Farr. Others with passing scores may be admitted if vacancies exist within the quota.

The California Maritime Academy, near Vallejo, provides in three years approximately the same education as a four-year college. Further information may be obtained from the Dean, California Maritime Academy, Vallejo.

Farr pointed out that the students must pay their own room and board as well as certain other fees, and that those interested should contact him at the State Capitol, Sacramento, as soon as possible.

SEN. FARR'S BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Fred Farr Tuesday introduced a bill to expand classroom education television, making permanent and statewide the present program and increasing state aid. Sal Cal 3/3/65

Sal Cal 3/12/65

Farr Introduces Ten Separate Bills at Capitol

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) has been a busy man this week, introducing 10 separate pieces of legislation.

The Farr bills would ask federal aid in establishing a redwood national forest or national park in California, direct continuous study of effective utilization of fish and wildlife resources, prohibit acquisition of any state park land for state highway purposes without consent of the State Park Commission, authorize long range plans for soil conservation and revise the laws relating to mines and geology, as well as effect several technical changes in existing laws.

Farr Submits Two Bills to Save Redwoods

MPH 3/10/65

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Legislation designed to preserve more of Northern California's redwoods was introduced today by Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel).

A resolution asked the President, Congress and the Secretary of the Interior "to move swiftly" and establish a redwood national park in the state's north coastal section.

Another bill would require the highway commission to present alternate route costs when considering a highway that would cut through state parks.

STATE WON'T TOLERATE 'HOODLUM ACTIVITIES' San Jose Mercury.

Lynch Serves Notice On Hell's Angels

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch released a report Monday describing the Hell's Angels as an "outlaw" motorcycle group with a heavy crime record, lurid sexual initiation rites, and a bad need for baths.

"The publication of this report serves notice on Hell's Angels that law enforcement will not tolerate their hoodlum activities in California," Lynch said.

The report outlined plans for intensified surveillance and enforcement methods to be used against the Hell's Angels and other "disreputable" motorcycle groups.

Lynch said the report, the result of a six-month investigation of the Hell's Angels made at the request of Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) "details for the first time the statewide operations of the hoodlum group."

The investigation was touched off, the attorney general said, after two girls, 14 and 15 years old, claimed they were raped last Labor Day by five to 10 members of the Hell's Angels gang on the beach at Monterey. The men later were freed.

The report said the group was organized at Fontana in 1950 and the San Bernardino chapter remains the "mother" organization. Heaviest concentrations are in Southern California and the San Francisco Bay Area.

The report said the 446 reported members around the state have criminal records totaling 874 felony arrests, 300 felony convictions, 1,682 misdemeanor arrests and 1,623 misdemeanor convictions.

The report said the hoodlum activities of the Hell's Angels occur most frequently at lower class bars and on "runs" to smaller cities where the cyclists take part in gang assaults, gang rapes, gang fights and property destruction.

Lynch said many reports from local law enforcement agencies, who helped with the investigation, described exhibitionistic initiation rites for new members of the Hell's Angels.

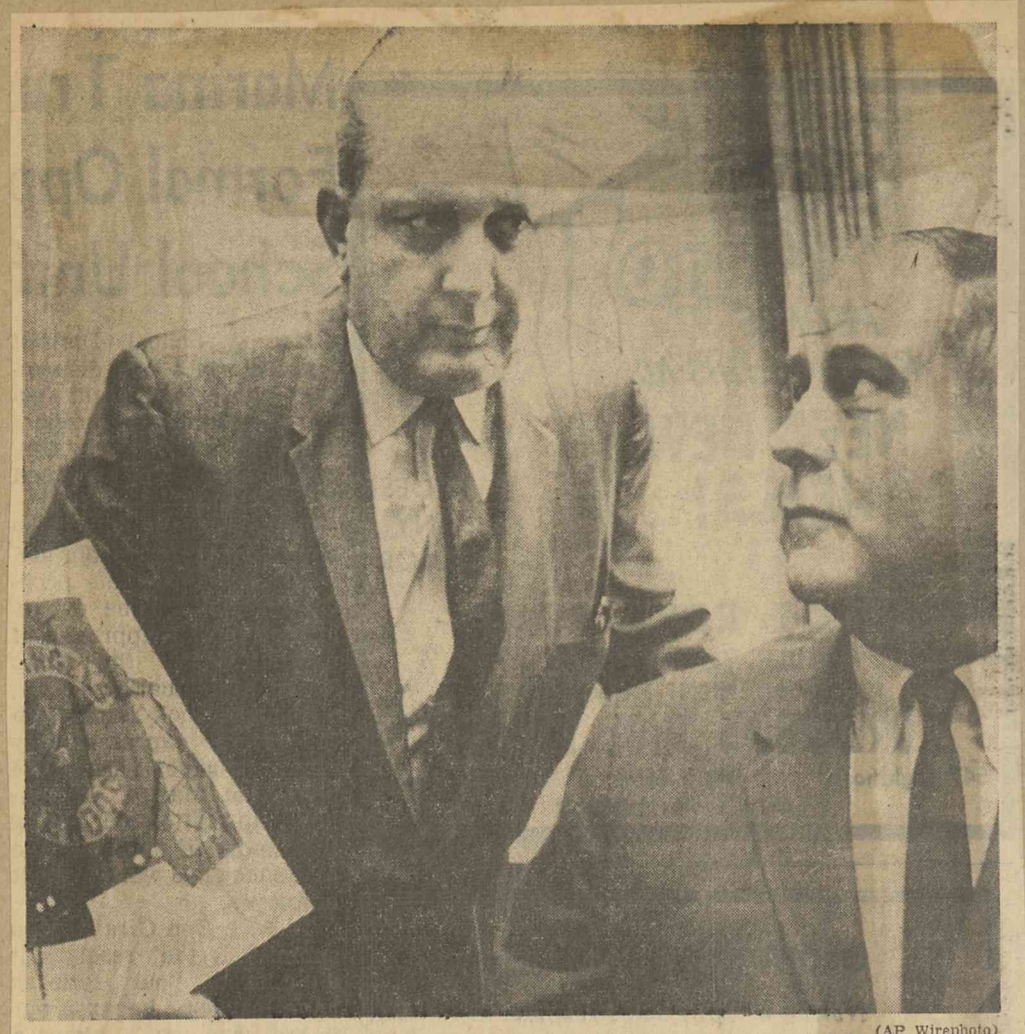

"It is alleged that any new member must bring with him to the meeting a woman or girl, termed a "sheep," willing to submit to sexual intercourse with each member of the club," the report said.

Lynch gave a list of reported assaults and sexual attacks by members of the Hell's Angels, often followed by intimidation of victims or witnesses to a degree that made prosecution unsuccessful.

These included beatings, group rape, and one case where members of the Angels stopped traffic in a town and "opened car doors and attempted to pet and paw female passengers."

Lynch listed as other "outlaw groups" the "Stray Satans," the "Galloping Gooses," the "Commancheros," the "Cavaliers," the "Outsiders," the "Coffin Cheaters," the "Satan's Slaves," and "The Iron Horsemen."

He said they were "not typical of the average motorcycle rider in California" affiliated with such legitimate organizations as the American Motorcycle Assn.

(AP Wirephoto)

Investigate Club

MPH 3/16/65

State Sen. Fred S. Farr, right, and O. J. Hawkins, assistant director of the Department of Justice, look over some of the photos on Hell's Angels activities submitted by the department to the California Legislature. The photographs accompany a report on the motorcycle club which took six months to compile.

Crackdown by State

Hell's Angels Warned

By AP and UPI

SAN FRANCISCO Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said today that the Hell's Angels — motorcyclists whose emblem is a skull wearing a helmet — have a long criminal record and warned "that law enforcement will not tolerate their hoodlum activities in California."

In a report, after a six-month investigation, Lynch said:

"They must learn to live peacefully in society. They will no longer be allowed to threaten the lives, peace and security of honest citizens of our state."

The Hells Angels investigation was initiated following a request from State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel), prompted by the alleged gang rape of two teen-age girls in Monterey on Labor Day weekend last year. Farr was asked by County Supervisor Tom Hudson to launch a thorough inquiry into the background and activities of the hoodlums, and today planned to discuss the report with Hudson and consider the need of any added legislation to curb the outlaw motorcycle group.

Joint Probe

The report was gathered with the help of the Highway Patrol, 22 district attorneys, 15 sheriffs and 67 police chiefs. It said the 446 members of the Hell's Angels have criminal records totaling 874 felony arrests, 300 felony convictions, 1,682 misdemeanor arrests and 1,023 misdemeanor convictions.

"Probably the most universal common denominator in identification of Hell's Angels is their generally filthy condition," the report stated.

"Investigating officers consistently report these people, both club members and the female associates, seem badly in need of baths."

A capsule of the club's history as given in the report: Originated in 1950 at Fontana. Charters for local groups issued by the "mother" organization at San Bernardino. Members are Californians except for clubs at Phoenix, Ariz., and Portland, Ore., and a chapter in New Zealand. Heaviest concentrations are in Southern California and the San Francisco Bay area.

The report said their activities included gang assaults, gang rapes, gang fights, destruction of property, credit card forgery, narcotics offenses, motorcycle and auto thefts.

The report outlined plans by Lynch for new intelligence and identification to be used on a statewide basis against the Hell's Angels. He said the plans would involve cooperation of police and sheriff units, the Highway Patrol and the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and investigation.

The report said the hoodlum activities of the Hell's Angels occur most frequently at lower class bars and on "runs" to smaller cities—where the cyclists take part in gang assaults, gang rapes, gang fights and property destruction.

Intimidation

Lynch said numerous cases were reported where prosecution failed because of intimidation of witnesses who refused to testify against the Hell's Angels.

Lynch said many reports from local law enforcement agencies, who helped with the investigation, described exhibitionistic initiation rites for new members of Hell's Angels.

"It is alleged that any new member must bring with him to the meeting a woman or girl, termed a 'sheep,' willing to submit to sexual intercourse with each member of the club," the report said.

It also said that in some instances the initiate, or other members of the club, reportedly took part in sexual acts with the girl in front of the whole group.

Lynch said to the extent that perversions take part, they "appear to be a means of attracting attention, being different, and performed primarily for the shock impact on others." He said the Angels consider these actions as "showing class."

Lynch's report in no way indicated motorcycle groups in general. He said there are a number of legitimate motorcycle groups, some of which have thwarted disruptive attempts by the Hell's Angels. He also said that among the Hell's Angels, 250 accounted for the reported felony arrests and 151 for the convictions.

Lynch listed as other "outlaw groups" the "Stray Satans," the "Galloping Gooses," the "Comancheros," the "Cavaliers," the "Outsiders," the "Coffin Cheaters," the "Satan's Slaves," and the "Iron Horsemen."

State Activities Told

Sal Calif. 3/16/65

Hell's Angels Found 'Outlaw' Cycle Group

A six-month investigation of Hell's Angels, initiated by State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), finds them an "outlaw" motorcycle group with a bad crime record, lurid initiation rites and a bad need for baths.

Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch released the report Monday and warned that "publication of this report serves notice on Hell's Angels that law enforcement will not tolerate their hoodlum activities in California."

Sen Farr made the request after an alleged gang rape of two teen-age girls in Marina by Hell's Angels members on Labor Day week-end, 1964. (Charges against the four accused rapists were subsequently dismissed.)

The report, outlining plans for intensified surveillance and enforcement methods to be used against Hell's Angels and other "disreputable" motorcycle groups, "details for the first time the statewide operations of the hoodlum group," Lynch said.

The report said the group was organized at Fontana in 1950 and the San Bernardino chapter remains the "mother" organization.

It said the 446 reported members around the state have criminal records totaling 874 felony arrests, 300 felony convictions, 1,682 misdemeanor arrests and 1,023 misdemeanor convictions.

The report said the hoodlum activities of the Hell's Angels occur most frequently at lower class bars on "runs" to smaller cities — where the cyclists take part in gang assaults, gang rapes, gang fights and property destruction.

Lynch said numerous cases were reported where prosecution failed because of intimidation of witnesses who refused to testify against the Hell's Angels.

Lynch said many reports from local law enforcement agencies, who helped with the investigation, described exhibitionistic initiation rites for new members of Hell's Angels.

Must Bring Woman

"It is alleged that any new

ANGELS Page 2, Col. 3

member must bring with him to the meeting a woman or girl, termed a 'sheep,' willing to submit to relations with each member of the club," the report said.

It also said that in some instances the initiate, or other members of the club, reportedly took part in acts with the girl in front of the whole group.

Lynch said to the extent that perversions take place, they "appear to be a means of attracting attention, being different, and performed primarily for the shock impact on others." He said the Angels consider these actions as "showing class."

Lynch also gave a list of reported assaults and attacks by members of Hell's Angels, often followed by intimidation of victims or witnesses to a degree that made prosecution unsuccessful.

These included beatings, group rape, and one case where members of the Angels stopped traffic in a town and "opened car doors and attempted to pet and paw female passengers" while the Angels' girls "lay in the middle of the street where they went through suggestive motions."

In describing characteristics of the group, Lynch said that "probably the most universal common denominator in identification of Hell's Angels is their generally filthy condition.

"Investigating officers consistently report these people, both club members and the female associates, seem badly in need of baths."

Farr Scores Rumors Of Prison Camp Site

MPH 3/19/65

Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today informed The Herald that he has received assurances that reports of a new plan to place a prison conservation camp at Piney Creek in the Arroyo Seco area are false

Farr said there is "absolutely no foundation" to reports that the state once again is considering construction of such a camp at Piney Creek.

He said he has received letters from Walter Dunbar, state director of corrections, and State Forester Francis H. Raymond, assuring him that the state has no intention of reviving plans for the controversial camp.

Plans Dropped

The Piney Creek campsite was under consideration in 1963, but the plans eventually were dropped after residents of the area protested. Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) aided in the fight against the proposed camp.

In his letter to Farr, Dunbar said, "We have checked with the headquarters of the Division of Forestry in response to a recent report and we are advised that they have no knowledge of any plan to purchase private land for the relocation of the proposed Piney Creek conservation camp."

Dunbar told Farr that his office has requested officials at Soledad Correctional Facility to work with representatives of the Division of Forestry to inform people in the Arroyo Seco area that the rumors are untrue.

In his letter, Raymond said neither his office nor also voted to accept $2,963 tions had suggested reopening the issue. He said that neither department "can find the source of such a rumor."

According to Raymond, the state presently is studying a number of alternate locations for the camp, but so far a suitable site has not been found.

Raymond said that, when a site has been selected, state officials will confer with Farr to obtain his views and those of his constituents.

Farr Introduces Bill for State

MPH 3/20/65

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) has introduced a bill authorizing contracts between the State Department of Mental Hygiene and local governments for mental health services.

Farr said the bill would "enable state and local mental health agencies to work in close partnership in the development of services." Typical uses of the authority granted in the bill (SB 763) are partnership arrangements between the Department of Mental Hygiene and local health agencies to provide care and treatment for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

Farr Bill Would Coordinate Health Services

MPH 3/22/65

SACRAMENTO—State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) has entered a bill in the legislature authorizing contracts between the State Department of Mental Hygiene and local government for mental health services.

Farr said the bill "would enable state and local mental health agencies to work in close partnership in the development of services."

In addition to providing partnership programs for the care and treatment of the mentally ill and retarded, the bill also would allow the state to initiate demonstration projects with county government and to provide temporary services to help local operations get started.

Quiet March

2,000 At Rally In Monterey

MPH 3/15/65

By EARL HOFELDT

Some strode. Some toddled. Some shuffled.

They walked the half-mile from the Custom House to Colton Hall in Monterey, treading on the specter of white supremacy 2,000 miles away.

They were residents of the Monterey Peninsula, of all colors and religious beliefs, taking part in yesterday's Alabama protest march.

More than 650 persons were in the marching column as it filed past the Pacific Building, heading south on Calle Principal.

Many more joined the parade after it was under way. Additional hundreds gathered on the Colton Hall lawn for the brief program dedicated to the American men and women who have suffered in the current Selma, Ala., racial crisis.

About 2,000

Monterey Police Chief Frank Marinello estimated the total crowd at approximately 2,000.

The demonstration, one of many held in American cities in the West, North and East, was peaceful and orderly.

It was carried out under bright, blue skies, fringed with clouds on the horizon.

Yesterday's demonstration was far different from the "Get Out of Viet Nam" rally a few weeks ago in Carmel. The demonstrators yesterday by and large were family people, well-dressed and cleanly-dressed and obviously representing a broad cross-section of the Peninsula.

Marchers carried placards which graphically told the purpose of the protest: "Unless All Men Are Free, No Man Is Free;" "We Mourn the Rev. James Reeb;" "Protesting the Shame of Selma."

Mrs. Jehanne Salinger Carlson of Carmel, mother of former U. S. Sen. Pierre Salinger, carried a sign reading, "All Men Are Created Equal."

There were a few in the march who wore the uniform of unkemptness — the shaggy-haired set — who carried Viet Nam placards and other signs departing from the demonstration theme. One such person's sign read "Injustice: Seaside, Selma, Viet Nam." Another's sign inquired, "Why Are There No Black Policemen or Firemen in Monterey?"

Apologize

Members of the clergy and other organizers of the march apologized for the presence of this group.

Monterey Mayor George Clemens said, "They had no business here. They got into the parade after it started. This was an event of great dignity, devoted to a great cause and this handful did nothing but hinder that cause."

The parade began sharply at 2 o'clock and reached city hall 20 minutes later.

Marching abreast in the first rank were George E. Ridgway, vicar of St. James Episcopal Church; Rev. Robert Clark of Monterey Methodist Church; Rev. H. H. Lusk of Bethel Baptist Church of Seaside and Maj. Sherman Smith (USA ret), president of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Also at the head of the parade was 2-year-old Carol Ridgway, who toddled a distance but was carried for most of the stretch by her father.

Greeter

Rev. Ridgway greeted the assemblage on the city hall lawn and introduced the first speaker, Mayor Clemens.

Clemens said, "I cannot help but compare the march from our Custom House to the city hall Friendly Plaza with the marches in Alabama. Here we march in peace for prayer and for the constitutional right to vote for others, not for ourselves.

"We assemble here in dignity and humility to express righteous indignation for the brutal and inhuman treatment of our fellow Americans in Alabama."

Minimum Protection

Clemens noted that the Monterey demonstration required only "minimum police protection." The mayor, who is not seeking reelection this year, thanked the clergy and NAACP officials who worked with him and the city on behalf of civil rights during his two years in office.

The mayor presented a petiton to President Johnson, urging the President to use "all moral and legal suasion to stop the mockery of justice." He urged everyone to sign it.

Clemens also brought messages from the Sisters of Ave Maria Convent and the Sisters of St. Joseph's Convent of Monterey, who expressed regret for not being able to attend but who pledged to spend a one-hour vigil of prayer and reparation in protest of "the violence and brutality in Alabama."

Prayer

Rev. Lusk then led the group in prayer after which Smith read a letter from an aide to Dr. Martin Luther King who said that King encourages demonstrations "all over the land" on behalf of "those in Dallas County" seeking the right to register and vote.

A wire was read from State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) in which he said he was delighted that the people of his district were raising their voices against "the terrible mishandling of human beings."

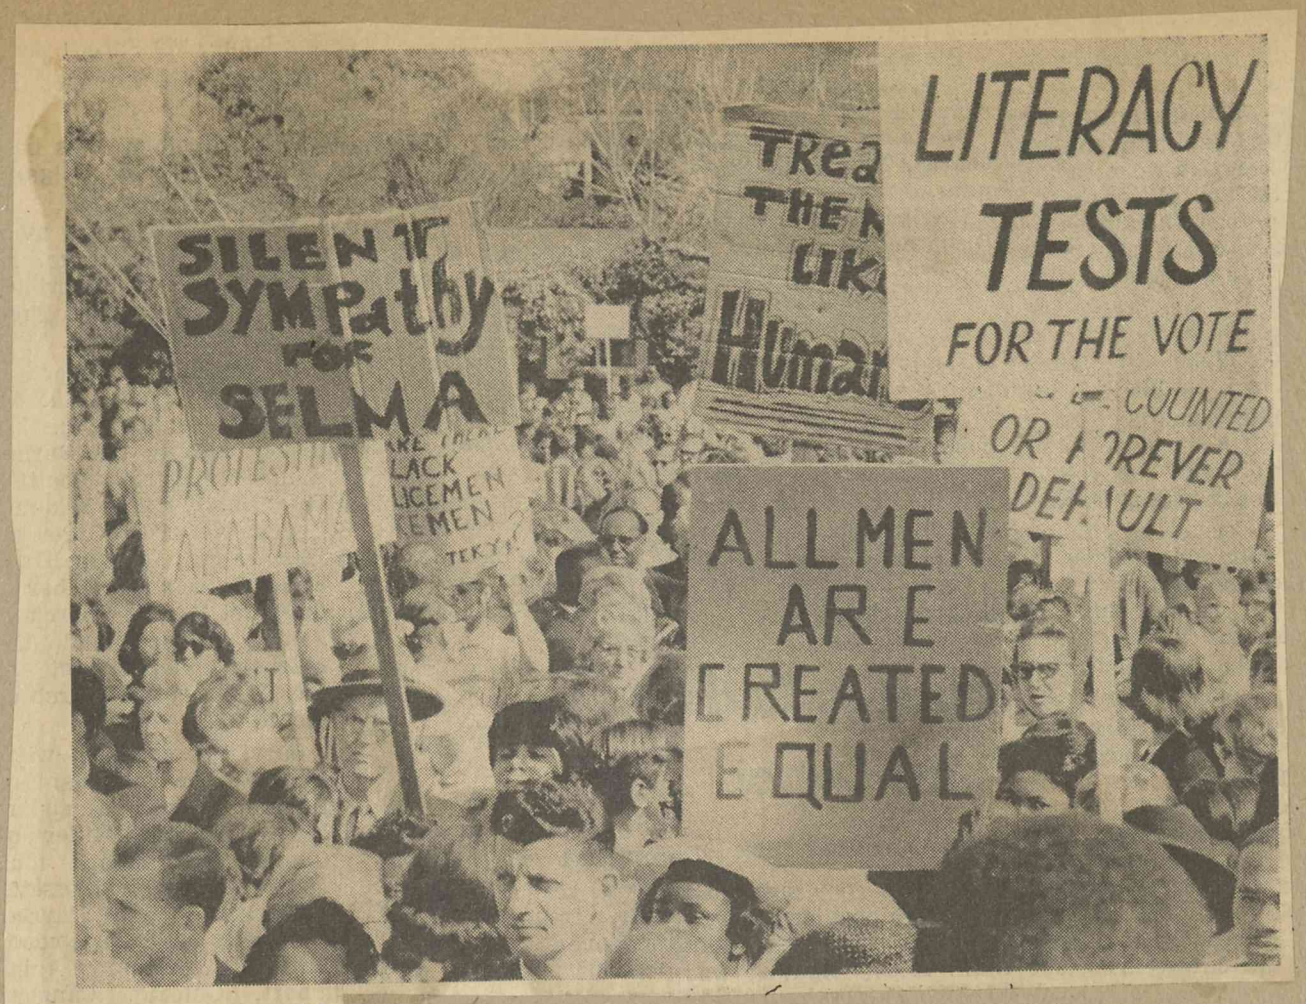

Rev. Paul Baird of the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey paid tribute to Rev. Robert O'Brien of the Peninsula Unitarian Church who has gone to Selma along with a group of Northern California ministers.

Benediction

Benediction was by Rev. John M. Jensen of San Carlos Catholic Church.

Several Peninsula political leaders were present. In addition to Clemens, they included Monterey councilmen Gerald T. Fry and Angelo DiGirolamo; Seaside councilmen Lou Haddad and Stephen Ross and 5th District Supervisor Tom Hudson.

L. M. (Sparky) Pollard, a candidate for mayor of Monterey, made the march. His announced opponent, Minnie Coyle, did not attend but said today she felt the cause of the demonstration was "wonderful."

(Herald photo)

MPH 3/15/65

Protest

People and placards mass in Monterey's Friendly Plaza yesterday for a quiet protest to the mistreatment of Negroes and whites in Selma, Ala. The march and rally in Monterey drew an estimated 2,000 persons. More pictures on Page Five.

Grunsky, Farr Submit Bills For Over-Boundary Voting

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Santa Cruz County State Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, Monday introduced a bill to permit electors in some areas to vote across county boundaries when voting for members of county boards of education.

SB 853 is designed to permit all the electors of a joint school district—a district with territory in two or more counties—to vote for members of the county board of education that has jurisdiction over their schools.

"This is a technical problem that comes about when unification wipes out the elementary school boundaries of a joint union high school district, "Farr said. "When this happens, the county of jurisdiction for the elementary districts shifts to the county of jurisdiction for the unified district. This shift in jurisdiction places some of the electors in the territory that comprised the elementary districts under a new county board of education."

The bill is of particular interest to voters in the newly-formed Pajaro Valley Unified District, which is under the jurisdiction of the Santa Cruz County Board of Education, but is made up of territory in parts of Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey counties.

(Herald photo)

Project Claims Old Trees

A stand of eucalyptus trees, long a landmark on Salinas highway near the Hilltown Bridge crossing of the Salinas River, has been cut down under orders of the State Division of Highways. The trees were felled as part of a project which will provide a new river crossing for the highway, eliminating the old and hazardous Hilltown Bridge.

Take Salinas Route From Freeway Plan, Supervisors Urge

MPH
3/19/65

Peninsula supervisors Tom Hudson and Beauford (Andy) Anderson last night launched a drive to take the Salinas highway out of the state freeway system.

The action came after a bristling two-hour study session in the Monterey Council Chambers into the alignment of the proposed freeway south of Monterey Peninsula Airport.

During the session, 5th District Supervisor Hudson engaged in sharp verbal exchanges with Ralph Lejonhud, assistant district engineer, state division of highways and Monterey Mayor George Clemens.

Meanwhile no agreement was reached on any of three alternatives for freeway routing and interchange location. Mayor Clemens closed out the meeting by saying that the various public agencies involved would have to discuss the matter further on their own.

Questioned

Hudson and Anderson, the 4th District supervisor, questioned whether any freeway was needed at all along the line of the Salinas highway.

Following the session, they said they were jointly sending telegrams to State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) requesting early meetings with the legislators to consider removal of Route 68 (the Salinas highway) from the state freeway system.

The supervisors both suggested during the meeting that if a freeway is needed between Monterey and Salinas, it could be developed via Reservation road between Salinas and Marina and the Highway 1 freeway.

This would allow retention of Salinas highway as a scenic highway. But Lejonhud told them, "This (Route 68) is part of the state expressway-freeway system. Our planning has to be on the basis of a full freeway.

"Our hands are tied in that regard."

Agreements

Lejonhud said that the City of Monterey, City of Del Rey Oaks and the County of Monterey would have to sign freeway agreements for the section of proposed freeway in question, between Josselyn Canyon road and a point just east of Canyon Del Rey.

To this, Hudson said, "I want to tell Mayor Clemens and Mayor (Jim) Wilson (of Del Rey Oaks) that I think we should stop and slow down before we execute any more freeway agreements."

He told Lejonhud that state engineers have been using the same approach for years, that they quote statistics showing that freeways are safer and less expensive. At the same time, they give no consideration to the local suggestion that perhaps some other type of road construction would do as well while preserving natural landscape.

Hudson said that Monterey County has a great history in conservation and preservation; that its billboard controls, anti-litterbug legislation, scenic easements and scenic highway concepts are national landmarks.

Against this background, Hudson said the highway representatives intrude upon the community, "mesmerize" it and force "destructive" freeways upon the people.

Lejonhud told Hudson, "That's a low blow, Tom. We are trying to work with the county. We are not trying to shove anything down anyone's throats."

He reminded Hudson that the route for the Salinas freeway, except the portion under debate, was adopted in 1958.

Objected

Hudson said it was done over his objection. At that time (before reapportionment), Hudson said he represented 50 per cent of the county's people. Yet, he said, the state engineers went ahead with the route "and I call that ramming it down our throats."

He also said, "If that's a low blow, then that's a low blow which we will have to strike for a scenic highway."

Clemens got into the tangle by telling Hudson to "cut it out." He told Hudson to stop the personal abuse of Lejonhud and not to impose on everyone's time at the meeting.

Hudson said he had earlier made it clear that his criticism was not "personal."

Later when Hudson suggested that the Navy someday might abandon its facility at the airport and that the airport entrance could be relocated on the Navy's side, Clemens told Hudson his comments were "ridiculous," "hypothetical," "having no bearing."

Hudson said after the meeting that the idea wasn't ridiculous at all.

Representatives of Monterey, Del Rey Oaks, the airport board, the schools, property owners and other interested parties attended the meeting which had been called by Clemens.

One of the alternative routes would cut through the site of a proposed Holiday Inn by the airport on the north side of the present highway. The second would take several homes from the south side. The third would sweep between the Holiday Inn and the homes by locating a proposed airport entrance interchange one-half mile to the east. Chairman Alton Walker of the airport board said the relocated entrance would "ruin" the airport.

HEMMED IN—Upon debarking from plane in background, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz (arrow) ran into plenty of questions from newsmen at Salinas Municipal airport Wednesday. On four-day "grass roots" inspection of California farm labor, Wirtz holds impromptu press conference on flight line after arriving here 2½ hours late. State Sen. Fred Farr is at left of Wirtz, and Farm Labor office manager Louis Braun at right rear. (Californian photo)

Farr, Pattee Fly in for Wirtz Tour

MPH 3/25/65

SALINAS — State Senator Fred Farr (D-Carmel) and Assemblyman Alan Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) arrived at Salinas airport yesterday afternoon in a private plane from Sacramento to await the arrival of U. S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

After their arrival, the two senators spoke briefly with reporters and both agreed that there will be a crisis of major proportions in the Salinas Valley strawberry industry if Wirtz does not authorize the importation of the 5,100 foreign workers requested by the farmers.

Farr and Pattee attended the news conference which Wirt hezld with Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday and said that, in their opinion, the secretary will grant the request submitted by the Salinas Valley farmers.

However, Farr added that he thinks "the secretary wants to take a very thorough look and talk to everybody" before he makes his decision. He said he feels a number of workers smaller than requested will be approved by Wirtz.

"I think these meetings are going to prove something," Pattee said. "I had a closed mind when I went into this thing, being a Republican . . . But I think now he (Wirtz) is going to help."

Due to Wirtz's late arrival in Salinas, Pattee — who had a speaking engagement in Sacramento last night — left the airport by plane a few minutes before the secretary's plane touched down.

However, Farr remained at the airport as part of the group which welcomed Wirtz.

Senator Farr Opposes Move To Revive Piney Honor Camp

K.C. Rustler 4/1/65

According to Senator Fred Farr an effort is being made by the State Department of Corrections to revive the proposal to place an honor inmate prison camp on Piney Creek in the Arroyo Seco area. Farr has sent a letter to Francis Raymond, state forester, stating his opposition, and to Walter Dunbar, director of the department of corrections.

The letter—

"I am advised by some of my constituents that an effort is now being made by the Department of Corrections to revive the conservation camp issue at Piney Creek in the Arroyo Seco area.

"I feel that my constituents have spoken loudly and clearly on this issue, and after giving it every consideration, including making a visit to the camp at Crestline, they rejected the proposal.

"I therefore feel that the issue should not be revived, and that if a camp is to be located in Monterey County, every effort should be made towards finding a location other than Piney Creek or the Arroyo Seco area. My constituents are in complete opposition to the location of a camp at Piney Creek ,and so are Assemblyman Pattee and I."

In Salinas

Wirtz Gets Views on Farm Crisis

MPH 3/25/15

By STAN CLOUD

SALINAS—The first day of U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz's fact-finding trip to California on the farm labor crisis ended shortly before midnight last night in Salinas with the secretary describing it as an "exceedingly illuminating day."

Beyond that, however, Wirtz had little to say on the question of whether or not he will allow the use of supplemental foreign farm laborers in the vegetable and strawberry fields of the Salinas Valley.

He maintained a calm demeanor throughout, apparently equally oblivious to union threats of a farm strike if supplemental labor is used, and to the farmers' threats that they will move their operations out of the country if their demands are not met.

Wirtz flew into Salinas from Stockton yesterday—three hours late, but smiling—and began almost immediately a series of meetings with farmers, labor leaders and businessmen who are locked in mortal combat on the foreign labor issue.

The secretary's four-engine C-54 plane arrived at Salinas Airport shortly after 5 p.m. An itinerary published Tuesday had the arrival scheduled for 2 p.m., but meetings in Stockton delayed Wirtz's departure.

Accompanied by Undersecretary of Labor John Henning, other top officials and a separate plane-load of newsmen, Wirtz was greeted at the airport by State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), representatives of the Growers Farm Labor Assn. and about 75 members of Local 78-A of the United Packing House Food and Allied Workers Union.

Many of the union members were carrying hand-lettered placards, urging the secretary to "stand firm," meaning that he should not authorize the importation of foreign laborers. They burst into loud applause as Wirtz emerged from his plane.

After he had greeted

(Continued on page 4)

(Continued from page 1)

many of the union members with individual handshakes and made a brief statement to radio, television and newspaper reporters, Wirtz was taken by car to the Salinas office of the U.S. Department of Labor where all but one of last night's meetings were held.

Immediately upon arriving at the office, Wirtz went into a meeting with Jack Bias, executive vice president of the Growers Farm Labor Assn. and other representatives of the farmers.

Press Out

Originally, the meeting was to have been open to the press, but at the last minute Wirtz announced "he concurred" in a suggestion that newsmen be excluded.

After the 45-minute meeting, under questioning by reporters, Bias denied that the meeting was closed at his request. "It was a mutual decision," Bias said. "There was a lot of confusion with people filing into the room." He did not elaborate.

Asked if the secretary was receptive to the case he and the other representatives of the growers had made, Bias answered that "the secretary is a gentleman and he gave us a fair hearing."

He added that "the growers — if they're going to stay in business — need supplemental farm labor."

About 7 p.m. — immediately after the meeting with growers — Wirtz sat down with labor representatives. This time, the conference was open to the press.

Among those who testified at the meeting were Gilbert Simonson, West Coast director of the United Packers Union AFL-CIO, who told Wirtz that his union "will strike the Salinas Valley if there's any importation of labor."

He said that in 1953, 3,500 domestic workers were displaced by braceros in the Salinas Valley and at the same time the prevailing wage in the area — for U.S. citizens — was cut from a high of $1.62 an hour to 70 cents an hour.

One-third of the unemployed in California worked in agriculture prior to 1955, Simonson said.

"The growers haven't had one good word to say about American workers," he said. "They call us winos and social misfits." He charged that Negroes have been systematically discriminated against by farmers who do hire domestic laborers.

Simonson noted that farmers have claimed that U.S. workers won't perform "stoop labor" in the fields and then pointed out that "Americans mine the mines and build the roads in this country, but they want a decent wage."

He said that neither the growers nor the state has performed a "real job of attempting to recruit workers" and that when citizens are hired they are "harassed" until they quit.

Other labor leaders who testified during the meeting were Clive Knowles, research director of the California State Council of Carpenters and a member of the Citizens Committee for Farm Labor of Berkeley, and Bennett Mann, director of the Farm Workers Assn. of West Oakland.

Wirtz's meeting with labor officials ended shortly after 8 p.m., at which time the secretary and his entourage motored to the Hyatt House in Salinas — without a break for dinner — to meet with top executives of businesses related to agriculture.

Mexico Trip

There, Wirtz heard — among others — Robert Mouser, president of the California Canners and Growers Cooperative, say that his firm is sending people to Mexico in April to investigage the possibility of moving the cooperative's farming operations out of the U.S.

Another executive, Phil Morty, president of the Tri-Valley Processing Cooperative, said his firm is considering a similar move.

Basically, the executives took a stand identical to that which has been taken by the farmers themselves.

In addition, one labor spokesman, Bud Kenyon, of the Warehouse and Teamsters Union, told the secretary that his union is supporting the call for imported supplemental labor. He said the union has found it impossible to get "real manual laborers from the domestic market."

Wirtz told O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council of California Growers, that he would like to meet with representatives of all sides in Washington next week. Fillerup said we will attempt to arrange such a meeting.

In general, labor leaders feel that the so-called crisis will be solved when the farmers offer a reasonable wage, adequate housing and other benefits in a "genuine" effort to attract U.S. laborers.

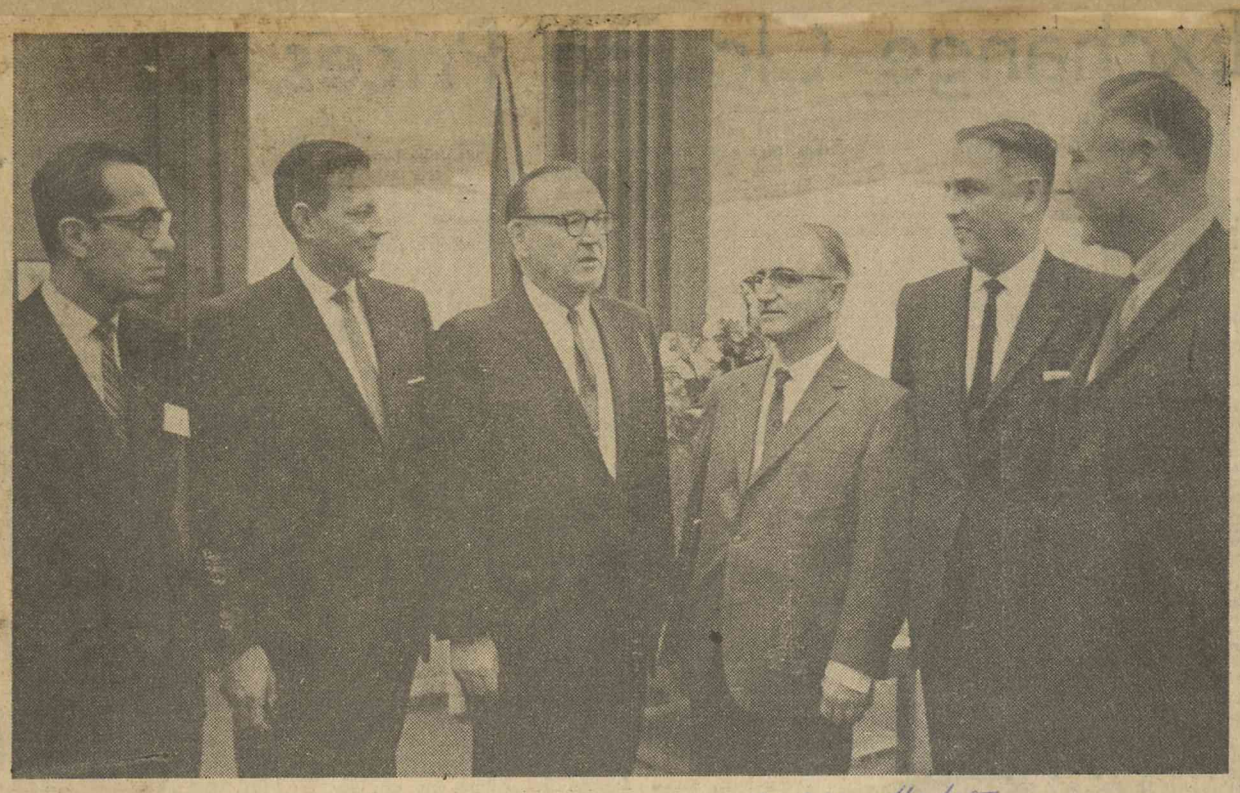

The growers, on the other hand, contend that they have — and are — making "every effort" to recruit Americans, but with no success. Hence, the recent request for 5,100 supplemental laborers which was submitted to the federal government by the Salinas farmers.

At the end of his meeting with the executives, Wirtz — who still had not taken a break for dinner, though it was almost midnight — held a brief news conference.

He told reporters that he "would not be in a position of expressing (his) reactions" to what he had learned for several days, and possibly not until after the further meetings in Washington which he suggested.

Repeatedly during the evening Wirtz asked those who were testifying "what can be done" to resolve the differences between the two diametrically opposed groups. Asked during his news conference if he had found the answer, Wirtz answered, "I would feel that I've made some progress toward where the right answer lies."

This morning Wirtz toured many of the farms and labor camps in the Salinas area and then departed at 10 a.m. for Fresno where he was to begin a whole new series of meetings at 10:30 a.m.

MPH 4/9/65

Colombian Visitors

A group of Colombian educators and officials met in Sacramento Tuesday with Gov. Edmund G. Brown and State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel). Shown, from left, Congressman Octavio Arizmendi; program specialist Simon Gonzales with the Ford Foundation; Gov. Brown; Gov. Mario Aramburo of Antioquia, Colombia; President Ignacio Velez of Antioquia University and Senator Farr. The Colombian delegation is on a month-long tour of California, under Ford Foundation sponsorship, to gain a better understanding of education in the United States.

April 7, 1965 MARINA TRIBUNE Page 7

SENATOR FARR REPORTS

7

FARR INTRODUCES MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Senator Fred Farr (D., Carmel) today introduced Senate Bill 763 authorizing contracts between the Department of Mental Hygiene and local government for mental health services.

Farr said the bill would "enable state and local mental health agencies to work in close partnership in the development of services." Senator Joseph Rattigan (D., Santa Rosa) and Senator Frank Petersen (D., Ukiah) are co-authors of the measure.

Typical uses of the authority granted in S. B. 763 are partnership arrangements between the Department of Mental Hygiene and local health agencies to provide care and treatment for the mentally ill and mentally retarded. The bill also establishes a basis for the state to initiate demonstration projects with county government, or to provide time-limited services to help local operations get under way.

Accident Commission Opens Salinas Office

San Jose Mercury 4/13/65

SALINAS—The California Industrial Accident Commission has opened a branch here, the 22nd in a chain from San Diego to Eureka. The office is at 307 Soledad St.

Ceremonies marking the opening of the branch were held at a banquet Friday at which State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) a long-time supporter of such a branch, was speaker.

Named referee in charge of the office was Claude A. Anderson, 49. Anderson was a member of the legal staff of the State Compensation Insurance Fund for nine years before taking over the Salinas branch.

The new office will serve Monterey, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties.

Anderson said the work load has increased to such a point that it requires a full time referee in this area.

Farr Reports Crank Calls to Carmel Police

MPH 4/17/65

Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) reported to Carmel police yesterday that he received two "crackpot telephone calls," apparently from the same person, protesting his support of a Negro for the Monterey Peninsula College board of trustees.

Farr asked police to watch his home during his absence, inasmuch as the caller appeared to be a crank, rather than an ordinary constitutent.

The calls were received at 3:43 and 3:55 p.m.

Thursday, April 8, 1965 SALINAS CALIFORNIAN-

Farr Bill Proposes Scattering Remains

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Cremated remains could be scattered over the ocean under a bill introduced by Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel. It would have to be done from a height of at least 5,000 feet and at least three miles off shore. A similar proposal was successfully resisted by segments of the funeral industry in past sessions.

Farr Backs Public Sales Act at Hearing

MPH 4/13/65

RENO (AP) — California Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) says the zoning requirements of the public sales act are "the widest and best policy that could be followed."

Farr, chairman of the California Senate Committee on Natural Resources, testified at an Interior Department hearing on proposed regulations implementing the public sales and multiple use laws passed by the 1964 Congress.

He spoke in favor of both measures at a hearing conducted by Karl S. Landstrom, assistant to Interior Secretary Stewart Udall.

One act provides sale of large tracts of public domain to cities and counties and private individuals. The other would provide multiple-use management of the rest of the public domain by the government.

Farr said residents of his Monterey County were satisfied with having 50 per cent of their area owned by the federal government.

He said Monterey County commissioners favored the provision making zoning a requirement before the federal government sells public lands to political subdivisions.

"Many areas of California have not been used wisely, but this provision will guard against abuses," Farr said.

State and federal government agencies should "encourage county and local governments to take a far-forward look in planning," he said.

Outlines Plan

Farr outlined the $2 million California Development Plan, which includes a 5,000 - mile scenic highway program.

He said California was the first state to develop a scenic highway program. The state plans to continue by developing a scenic parkway system.

"Most of these highways go through public lands, which the state has improved by clearing lands beyond the rights-of-way of blight," Farr said.

There is a fallacy, he said, that county units fear the state system. "Often county commissioners come to us and ask us to include their roads in our scenic system, because they know it will enhance their local economies."

Farr called the state development plan "the most comprehensive study made of public land holdings. Now we know exactly what we have, county by county."

Talcott, Farr To Talk at Salinas Event

MPH 4/17/65

Rep. Burt L. Talcott (R-Salinas) and State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) will be guest speakers Wednesday night when The Salvation Army celebrates its 100th Anniversary with a Centennial Dinner at the Hyatt House in Salinas.

Tom Hudson, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, will be the master of ceremonies at the dinner which is open to the public.

According to Capt. Thomas E. Greholver of The Salvation Army's Salinas office, which was established in 1894, tickets to the dinner may be purchased at the door at a cost of $4 per ticket. The dinner is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The Salvation Army, founded in England in 1865, is an international organization operating in 86 countries. Established in the United States in 1880, The Salvation Army operates as a religious and charitable non-profit organization throughout the country, with 8,551 centers of operation offering a widely diversified program of social service.

Sen. Farr Proposes Aid Fund

Sal Calif. 4/23/65

A bill to authorize a $3 million Davis-Grunsky grant to the City of Salinas and Monterey County for recreation features of the proposed Alisal-Gabilan Watershed Project has been submitted to state Legislature.

Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, introduced the bill at today's session in Sacramento.

The legislative move follows a decision of the Board of Supervisors last Monday to join the City Council in an application for recreation funds.

Election Seen

The board stipulated, however, that formation of a recreation district as a revenue source for an estimated $50,000 annual maintenance bill must be decided by an election.

The recreation features are part of a $17 million flood control-water conservation proposal for the Northern Salinas Valley. The proposed dam would form a lake five miles from the center of Salinas and northeast of the Monterey County Hospital.

Application for $3 million in recreation funds may be futile because when the board took its action, in a joint meeting with the City Council, supervisors were reluctant to have their districts included in a recreation district.

A public hearing on the flood control aspects of the project has been set, at the request of Supervisor Arthur Atteridge of Salinas, for May 3 at 2 p.m.

Sen. Farr Hopes For Speedy Toro Park Acquisition

Sal Cal 4/22/65

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today said he hopes for speedy acquisition of a park site in the Toro Park area.

Farr said he was pleased that the State Park Commission has approved using the proceeds of the sale of bonds under the Beach, Park, Recreational and Historical Facilities Act of 1964 to acquire 2,400 acres at the mouth of the Big Sur River for a park.

And, he said, "the next major acquisition I hope we can acquire is the proposed park in the Toro area. In 1964 the legislature passed my resolution calling for a feasibility study of the property as soon as possible.

"In addition to state park bonds that may be available for this purpose, Monterey County may be eligible for assistance under the Federal Open Space program and also from funds available to states under the Federal Land and Water Conservation Users fund," Farr said.

Farr, chairman of the Senate's Natural Resources Committee, has won a reputation as the legislature's leading conservationist.

Farr Tells Benefits to State From New Social Welfare Plans

MPH 4/23/65

SACRAMENTO —State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) reports in his weekly newsletter that the people of California and Monterey County will benefit from social welfare programs urged by President Johnson.

He said that with the recent passage by the House of Medicare, and its almost certain passage by the Senate, "we may well soon see a further concept of governmental responsibility toward the distressed."

Farr said that the federal school aid bill, providing $1.3 billion for improving elementary and secondary education, should make California a large recipient of benefits.

"While the greatest proportionate benefits will be received by the poorer states having a high proportion of families with annual incomes of $2,000 or less, the wealthier states such as California will emphasize upgrading education in the poorer districts."

Farr also lauded the State Park Commission for approving use of state bonds to purchase from Nature's Conservancy some 2,100 acres of the Molera property at Big Sur.

SENATOR FARR REPORTS

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT TO BE ACCELERATED

Marina Tribune
4/28/65

Senator Fred S. Farr (D) Monterey, Chairman of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources has submitted the committee's report to the Legislature detailing its recommendations and other comments on several subjects including an appraisal of the boating facilities plan prepared under contract for the Small Craft Harbors Commission.

The committee has recommended procedures to accelerate the development of harbors of refuge, to provide for a more orderly placing of boating facilities, and to increase income to the state fund from which monies are loaned or granted for boating facility development.

The committee recommended that "all of the boat fuel taxes accruing to the Motor Vehicle Fuel Fund be transferred annually to the Small Craft Harbor Revolving Fund."

Whereas the revolving fund receives $2 million annually from boat fuel taxes paid into the Motor Vehicle Fuel Fund, the natural resources committee reported "it is estimated that the true amount which should be transferred approximates $4 million. Therefore, some $2 million actually attributable to boat fuel taxes is being utilized in highway construction."

The committee also recommended that the provisions be repealed which permits refunds of boat fuel taxes if the full amount of such taxes are transferred to the Small Craft Harbor Revolving Fund to aid in meeting boating needs since "such developments are of benefit to all boaters and it is therefore inequitable to permit such refunds!"

The report further recommends that a portion of the state boating fund to earmarked for the development of boating facilities in conjunction with state water projects if the fund receives all boat fuel taxes.

A major change in the law recommended by the Senate natural resources committee is to permit the State Division of Small Craft Harbors to assume the role as "local sponsor" for joint federal-state harbor of refuge projects, so that such needed refuges for ocean going vessels as Shelter Cove in Humboldt County can be completed. Current law requires local jurisdiction to repay loans for such harbors, and many counties do not have a tax base sufficient to guarantee repayment.

The committee's legislation would require repayment of state costs of such harbors of refuge by local jurisdiction when revenues from harbor operation exceed maintenance and operation costs.

The committee also recommended that the Small Craft Harbors Commission provide the Legislature with a list of locations showing priority of needs for different types of boating facilities.

Senator Farr noted that the committee favored designation of the Division of Small Craft Harbors as the agency of state government which should be responsible for the coordination of boating facility development within the state so that the state could be of specific consulting aid to other state and federal programs and those of local government and private industry in the development of those facilities which would meet the greatest needs of the boating public.

Members of the committee are Senators Carl Christensen, Vice Chairman; Stanley Arnold; John Begovich; Paul Lunardo; John McCarthy; Eugene Nisbet; Virgil O'Sullivan; Frank Petersen; Aaron Quick; and Alvin Weigand.

---

Soledad Bee 4/28/65

Farr Amendment to Clear Way for Application for Local Farm Labor Housing

Wm. F. Brashears, executive director of the Soledad Housing Authority, will be in Sacramento Thursday at a conference relating to farm labor housing which has been called by Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The session was called to "discuss the coordination and cooperation of a farm-worker housing program and a potential solution to the availability of decent housing for migrants and other farm workers."

Possibility of additional farm labor housing here, through federal assistance, has been making news for the past ten days.

Councilman Bob McCandliss, who jumped on the bandwagon for housing money from the Economic Recoverey Act, learned in Sacramento that "anti-poverty" funds are for use in erecting emergency housing for "flash peak" harvest help.

After investigating the anti-poverty proposal, McCandliss agreed that it is not in line with what the Soledad Housing Authority has in mind for replacement of the existing 74 sub-standard units at the Farm Labor Camp off Benito Street.

Not only that, McCandliss was happy to learn that he entered the picture at the same time that the authority cleared a major hurdle in its quest for financial assistance through the Farmers Home Administration.

A brief 35-word amendment to a Farm Labor Center Law introduced by Senator W. Stiern in 1963 was placed in the legislative hopper last week by Senator Fred Farr clarifying Soledad Housing Authority's status. Through an oversight in the Stern bill, Soledad was not listed among certain housing authorities which would move from a "low rent" classification to a farm labor housing classification enabling them to seek guaranteed low interest loans under sections 514 or 516 of the Housing Authority Act as amended in 1961.

If Farr's amendment is passed, as expected, it means that the Soledad Housing Authority can immediately re-submit its loan application.

The first application was made in January of 1964. The local Housing Authority appeared to pass with flying colors on need (it has a 98% occupancy rate) and on structural condition since the present units are classed as "shelters". Final point is the area's undisputed agricultural location.

However, referring back to a local 1957 election, the structures were termed "low rent" housing and directors found themselves, along with authorities in other areas, unable to qualify for the money which is available under the Farmers Home Administration. The Stiern bill took care of everyone but Soledad which was inadvertantly omitted.

During the past year, Walter J. Monasch, consultant in Housing and Community Development, a governor's appointee, Congressman Burt Talcott, Assemblyman Alan Pattee and Senator Fred Farr are among those who have lent their full assistance in clearing the red tape that would make Soledad eligible for either of two types of loans available to the authority for standard home construction for farm labor families.

The authority has over 30 acres within the city limits so property is no problem. All present structures would be demolished if building funds become available.

Tieburg Will Visit Salinas Tomorrow

Salinas Calif. 4/29/65

(See Picture, Story on Page 21)

State Employment Director Albert Tieburg will visit Salinas Friday and tour the Salinas Valley's strawberry fields, where a fast-ripening $15 million crop is imperiled by a shortage of pickers.

Tieburg is scheduled to arrive at Salinas Municipal Airport at 10 a. m. with State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), at whose suggestion he decided to take a first hand look at the strawberry situation.

And, as the tempo of the strawberry crisis quickened, the State Farm Labor Office in Salinas announced that it has received "several orders from berry growers who would like to employ students (boys or girls) over 16 to work on the weekends."

Advises Students

Louis Braun, Farm Labor Office manager, said that students interested in strawberry picking should report to the office at 219 East San Luis St. At 6:30 a. m. Saturday. They will be referred to growers for employment. Some bus transportation to work will be available, Braun said. Students who have their own cars are asked to bring them.

The current minimum wage for strawberry picking is $1.40 per hour. When the volume of ripe berries picks up, Braun said, many growers are prepared to institute a 75 cents per tray piece rate, which will enable pickers to earn more than the hourly minimum. (The 1964 piece rate was 50 cents per tray.)

Monterey County was first in the state in strawberry production last year. At the peak of the season, 5,400 workers were employed picking strawberries, and most of them were braceros.

Use Authorized

U. S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz this week authorized the use of 340 Japanese and Filipino nationals and 1,063 Mexican braceros in the Salinas Valley strawberry harvest. The braceros haven't entered the country yet, and not all the Japanese and Filipinos have gone to work. (The latter were placed on standby, or non-working, status by Wirtz on Jan. 15. Many of them are reportedly scattered about the state "on furlough.")

In announcing Tieburg's visit, Sen. Farr told the Californian that he considers the strawberry situation "a terrible thing." He said he has been informed that some strawberry growers are contemplating plowing under a substantial portion of their crops.

And, in a somewhat related development, the chairman of the special farm labor panel which last Saturday recommended certification of the use of 2,500 foreign workers in California, told the Californian he wasn't at all sure that the panel would be able to convene for further investigative hearings on labor needs.

Hearings Planned

Prof. Benjamin Aaron of UCLA, panel chairman, said that there "definitely" will be further hearings in the Salinas area. But "whether they will be conducted by the panel or by a panel-appointed hearing officer, I can't say at this time." He said that he and his fellow panelists, Dr. Arthur M. Ross of the University of California at Berkeley and Daniel G. Aldrich Jr., of the University of California at Irvine, are having great difficulty meshing their schedules.

"We all have commitments that cannot be thrust aside," Aaron said. "It is likely that we will rely on one or more hearing officers."

Aaron said he anticipated another farm labor hearing in Salinas next month, "but just when, I can't be sure."

State Employment Chief Deplores Rotting Crops

MPH 4/30/65

SALINAS — "It's terrible," State Director of Employment Albert Tieburg said this morning as he inspected strawberries rotting on the ground in Salinas Valley for lack of pickers

With State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel), Tieburg inspected fields of Salinas Strawberries Inc. In one field of three-year plants with over-ripe berries there were no workers.

"What makes the situation even more alarming is that negotiations with Mexico for 1,500 braceros already authorized by U.S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz have bogged down. Mexico has not been willing to sign an agreement, though Wirtz told me in February that negotiations would take only a few days. I have knowledge that they have been working on this several weeks," Tieburg said.

Tieburg said he will invite Wirtz to visit Salinas again in a week or two so that he can see the situation for himself.

He also visited an asparagus farm near Salinas and saw a huge field of ready-to-cut asparagus with only 30 workers in it.

Farr and Tieburg flew back to Sacramento in a private plane at 1 p. m. after inspecting the fields for three hours.

SALINAS, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 30, 1965 24 PAGES TWO SECTIONS 10 CENTS

To Tell Wirtz Situation Critical

Tieburg Appalled at Valley Labor Need

State Employment Director Albert Tieburg visited the strawberry fields of the Salinas Valley and was appalled, but not particularly surprised, by what he saw.

Tieburg told the Californian that, upon returning to Sacramento, he is going to sit down and write Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz a letter saying that the need for foreign field workers in the Salinas Valley is critical.

He also said that, on the basis of what he saw today, "I sure would" certify the need for several thousand more foreign workers during the Valley's harvest season.

"There was no question in my mind at any time that you needed the 5,100 workers you requested down here," the tall, bald, plain-spoken Employment Director said. "And I know that 5,100 isn't going to be enough."

Wirtz has permitted the use of 2,500 foreign workers in California in the past week, and 1,500 of these are ticketed for the Salinas Valley. But the 1,063 Mexican braceros authorized here are still on the other side of the Rio Grande.

And, Tieburg said, "Mexico isn't willing to sign an agreement yet" to allow the braceros to enter California. "I'm unhappy about the whole situation," he said.

Tieburg, accompanied by Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr and supervisors Harold Henry of King City and Beauford (Andy) Anderson visited three ranches operated by Salinas Strawberries.

At the 535 Hagerman Ranch on Encinal Road, Tieburg saw third year berries that haven't yet been picked and which are growing overripe and rotting on the vine.

$1 Million Investment

Clancy Wilson, field superintendent for Salinas Strawberries, said that the Hagerman Ranch represents a $1 million investment by the company. "We haven't picked one berry yet," he told Tieburg. "The loss

TIEBURG Page 2, Col. 6

YOUR COUNTY SEAT DAILY NEWSPAPER

SALINA

Consolidation Salinas

NINETY-FOURTH YEAR—NO. 103

'EASY, FRED!'—State Employment Director Albert Tieburg, right, warns State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, to take it easy stooping over after Tieburg found picking strawberries hard work during field tour today. Sen. Farr and Tieburg toured area strawberry crops this morning, looking over fast-ripening strawberries imperiled by labor shortage. Supervisor Beauford Anderson tastes a berry in center of picture.

Report
thwest

SOS AT CAPITOL—Mrs. Ted Addison, center, is shown presenting some of the 200 cartons of SOS strawberries at the State Capitol in Sacramento Thursday to Monterey Countys' representatives. From left, State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, Mrs. Addison and Assemblyman Alan Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra. The berry cartons urged politicians to help "Save Our Strawberries." The berries were air shipped to the capitol by Salinas Strawberries.

Sal Calif. 5/7/65

Thursday, May 6, 1965 SALINAS CALIFORNIAN—7

Farr, Pattee Rap Hudson's Knuckles on Harvest Crisis

Tom Hudson, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, received a rap on the knuckles from the county's two state legislators today.

Hudson last Monday asked Gov. Edmund G. Brown to declare Monterey County an economic disaster area, because of the labor crisis in the strawberry fields of the Salinas Valley. He also said that the state ought to permit the use of convict labor to help harvest the strawberry crop. And he asked State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee R-Salinas, to attend a board meeting on May 10 to discuss the farm labor problem.

Farr and Pattee wired Hudson that:

"Inasmuch as both of us will be tied up with legislative activities on Monday . . . it will not be possible to appear before before the Board of Supervisors regarding your investigation into the berry crop disaster."

Further, Farr and Pattee said, "We do not know just what you expect to accomplish by this meeting. We are doing everything possible here in Sacramento to assist local growers. The problem lies in Washington with (Labor) Secretary (W. Willard) Wirtz. Gov. Brown has pleaded with the Secretary for additional supplementary labor and has asked those labor groups which feel no foreign labor is necessary to now come forward and furnish workers to relieve the crisis."

And, as for the use of convict labor, Farr and Pattee said that "for the past month (the California) Adult Authority has been expediting early release dates of selected inmates who will be admitted to parole and thus would be eligible for harvest work in specialty crops as parolees, not as inmate labor. It is against the law to use inmates in private employment. The disaster to which you referred (last Monday) and for which inmates were used in the northwest was in connection with flood damage to bridges, public facilities and levee repairs."

After telling Hudson, in a politic manner, to mind his own business, Farr and Pattee closed by saying: "As always we as legislators stand ready to be of help to Monterey County and to our growers in this present agricultral crisis."

Monterey Aid And Fire Calls

A resuscitator squad of the Monterey Fire Department administered in halation to William E. Glenn of 2221 Fremont St. when he had difficulty breathing at 9:53 a.m. yesterday. He are based on land use. Thus a crop failure could lead to major reductions in farm valuations, which in other property would have to assume.

* * *

And if growers are forced out of California — there is talk already of moving strawberry production to Mexico, the mountain to Mahomet, so to speak — what then?

We think it's time officials, housewives and the rest of us start getting concerned, and let Wirtz know it.

FTKA

The governor was busy last night savoring the heady brew of Democratic unity at a benefit dinner, so he probably missed hearing one of Wirtz' willing hands try to pass the buck back to the growers.

* * *

Their fault, it seems, was that when the rug was pulled out, they banged their heads on the floor and couldn't get up quickly enough to salaam in the direction of Washington.

If there is any question in the governor's mind about who needs what, why doesn't he fly down to see for himself? We think that Senator Farr, who has the governor's ear, should make it a first order of business to change the governor's mind.

As Chairman Tom Hudson pointed out when the board of supervisors extended the invitation earlier this week, floods threatening equal damage would bring inspecting officials flying in from all directions.

Passing thought: Where is Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman in all this? Isn't he charged with protecting U. S. agriculture?

* * *

In case there is any doubt that Monterey County is in trouble, remember that it was first in the nation in strawberries, let-

(Continued on page 2)

MPH page 1 5/11/65

Farr Urges 'Care' on Refinery

State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today urged the Monterey County Planning Commission to proceed with care in deliberating Humble Oil Co's application for a refinery at Moss Landing.

The commission will hold a public hearing into the critical and controversial issue at 8 o'clock tonight in Salinas City Hall at Lincoln and West Gabilan streets.

A large attendance from the Monterey Peninsula is expected.

Farr, who is in Washington, D. C., to accompany Lady Bird Johnson and others on a scenic two-day tour of Virginia, wired this message:

"I am advised Monterey County is one of the few California counties still having what clean air industries desire. Before granting use permit at Moss Landing for Humble Oil refinery hope you will thoroughly satisfy yourselves after extensive investigation location of oil refinery will not result in air pollution which may deprive clean air industries' use.

"I am presently in Washington where Monterey County highly respected as one of the most beautiful and desirable areas in our nation. I know you will protect the best long range interest of our county without discouraging those industries most adapted to our needs and interests."

Farr Changes Wording on Redwoods

MPH 5/7/65

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) plans to revise his resolution endorsing a national redwoods park in order to meet some objection from northwestern California.

Farr announced his intentions after his natural resources committee heard testimony on the measure yesterday.

The resolution seeks to put the legislature on record in favor of a "great" national redwoods park. Farr said he might delete the word "great" in an effort to allay some fears.

He said he also was considering adding language to make it clear that the park should not harm local interests and residents of the north coast redwood area.

A national redwoods park currently is being considered at the federal level.

Monterey Peninsula Herald
Friday, May 7, 1965. 10

Fred Farr on Tour With Lady Bird

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today announced that he will leave for Washington tomorrow to take part in Lady Bird Johnson's two day scenic tour of Virginia on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Farr received a personal letter from the First Lady inviting him to join the tour, intended to spotlight roadside beauty points which offer economy vacations to Americans.

Mrs. Johnson wrote: "I understand from Mr. Laurance Rockefeller who also will be going along that you are one of the pioneers of the highway beautification field.

"It would add to our pleasure and knowledge to have you go with us."

The 700-mile tour will include a visit to Thomas Jefferson's home at Monticello; an overnight stop to see the Barter Theater in Abingdon and a trip to the Peaks of Otter in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey will accompany Mrs. Johnson. Other leaders of the tour will include Rockefeller, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and Rex Whitten, federal highway administrator.

Rockefeller is chairman of a May 24-25 White House Conference on Natural Beauty.

Sal. Cal. 5/7/65

Sen. Farr Invited by Lady Bird

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr has been invited by first lady Mrs. Lyndon B. (Lady Bird) Johnson to accompany her on a bus trip along one of Virginia's scenic highways on May 11-12.

Sen. Farr is one of a select handful of conservationists and roadside beautification experts invited for the trip. Others are Laurence Rockefeller, chairman of the White House Conference on Natural Beauty, Interior Secretary Stewart L. Undall and Federal Highway Administrator Rex Whitten.

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wife of the vice president, is also making the trip, a 7-00-mile affair, which is to incude a visit to Thomas Jefferson's home, Monticello, near Charlottesville, Va., and a trip to the Peaks of Otter in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Purpose of the trip is to spotlight some roadside beauty points in Virginia which offer economy vacations for American families. It is also intended to draw attention to the May 24-25 conference on natural beauty.

In her invitation to Sen. Farr, Mrs. Johnson referred to him as "one of the pioneers of the highway beautification field."

Farr Returning From History Tour

MPH 5/12/65

Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) was to fly back to Sacramento to attend an afternoon session of the State Legislature today after an all-day tour of historical sites in the East with Lady Bird Johnson.

"A really wonderful trip" was the way he described his participation in the First Lady's Landscapes and Landmarks Tour.

Other members of the tour included the wives of all the President's cabinet members with the exception of Mrs. Dean Rusk; Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Rockefeller — he is president of the President's Conference On Natural Beauty, to which Farr is to be a delegate; and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Whitten.

Whitten is director of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Farr revealed that Highway 1 will soon be designated as California's first scenic highway, and that Whitten is expected to come to Monterey County in June to dedicate it.

Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey was also a member of the tour.

Yesterday's tour started with a personal greeting and send-off from President Johnson. The group boarded a bus and as a first stop, visited the Scottish village of Dumfries, Va. At noon they lunched at Montecello, home of Thomas Jefferson. The meal, Farr reported, consisted entirely of the favorite foods of Jefferson.

Mrs. Johnson's tour through Virginia was to boost tourist travel in America, and highway beautification — two of her pet projects.

Sac Bee 5/20/65

Senate Passes Huge Backward Home Aid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Wednesday approved a massive program to aid some 700,000 school children from backward homes, despite protests from one senator who questioned the existence of such youngsters.

The bill was among several education measures that advanced on the Senate side of the legislature.

The big "compensatory education" bill, sponsored by Sen. J. Eugene McAteer, D-San Francisco, went to the Assembly on a 32-4 Senate vote after a rare personal debate between McAteer and Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose.

McAteer said the measure would appropriate $4 million in state funds but trigger $73 million in federal money to help children from poor homes overcome their backwardness and get an adequate education.

He said a pilot program had proved the effectiveness of compensatory education, which includes such things as remedial teaching, language assistance, field trips and cultural activities. He estimated 700,000 children between three and 18 could be helped.

Bradley, opposing the measure, said it "just doesn't make sense" that California could spend billions a year for education and still have 700,000 disadvantaged children.

He also charged the bill would mean a gradual loss of local control in school districts and a shift to "some bureau in Washington."

McAteer said he was "astonished" to hear Bradley qeustion that "this type of child lives in California."

"It's obvious Senator Bradley has not been on the east side of his own county. There are thousands of them there— children who are not in the mainstream of American society," he said.

Bradley asked, "Are you implying that there never has been good education in California until someone thought of this program?"

"I suggest you really don't know what conditions are in your own county," McAteer replied. "I implore you to go out into the country and take a look."

Three other Republicans joined Bradley in voting against the bill —Sens. John G. Schmitz, Tustin; Jack Schrade, El Cajon, and Stan Pittman, Orville.

The Senate also passed to the Assembly, 33-0 a bill containing a formula for distributing $50 million to junior colleges for construction.

The monye was in a bond issue approved by the voters last November. The bill, by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, allocates it mainly on a basis of enrollment projects and financial need.

The Senate also sent to the Assembly a bill by Stiern appropriating $20,000 for acquisition of a site for a Kern County State College.

The Senate Education Committee approved and sent to the Finance Committee bills advancing vocational training, educational television, and new state colleges for three counties.

One bill, by Sen. Thomas M. Rees, D-Los Angeles, authorizes "regional occupational centers" that would be eligible for federal vocational training money.

Another, by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, would give California's seven educational television stations an $800,000 boost from the state matched by the sum from school districts whose pupils are enrolled in televised classes.

The committee cleared three bills authorizing state colleges for San Mateo, Contra Costa and Ventura Couties— a first step toward appropriating money. However, it refused approval to a bill by Rees seeking another state college for Los Angeles County on grounds it conflicted with recommendations of the coordinating council for higher education.

MPH 5/14/65

Farr to Talk Thursday to World Affairs

State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel will relate his experiences during a tour of Peace Corps installations in Colombia and Costa Rica, at tomorrow's annual election meeting of the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula, to be held in the music room at Carmel High School at 8 p.m.

In February, Farr spent a week in Medellin, Colombia, with his son Sam, a Peace Corps volunteer; visited Ambassador Covey Oliver in Bogota and inspected the educational television work being done there with Peace Corps assistance; then visited his law partner, Laurence Horan, who is on leave of absence as a Peace Corps director in San Jose, Costa Rica.

The two partners traveled to various parts of Costa Rica, after which Farr visited Guatemala City, Antigua, Chichicastenango and Mexico City, where he called on Ambassador Fulton Freeman of Carmel Valley.

The council, in addition to hearing Farr, will name a new board of trustees and select its programs for the forthcoming year.

Hundreds to Convene in Monterey

MPH 5/14/65

JACL Meeting Sunday

Dr. Stanford Lyman, sociologist, and State Sen. Fred Farr will be the principal speakers at the second quarterly meeting of the Northern California Western Nevada District Council of the Japanese American Citizens League Sunday at the Mark Thomas Inn.

Several hundred JACL members are expected to be present for the all day session, which includes a golf tournament in the morning. Sessions begin at noon.

Dr. Tom Taketa is the district council chairman and will preside at the meeting. The meeting is under the direction of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the JACL, however, of which Mike Sanda is president and Mas Yokogawa and Aki Sugimoto are meeting chairmen.

Plan Youth Group

Early afternoon activities include business sessions and a chapter youth advisors' workshop. Speaker will be Alan Kumamoto, national JACL youth director.

Kumamoto, 25, is an active member of the Hollywood JACL board. He is preparing for the establishment of a youth organization under the national JACL which is now operating on an intermin basis. He also administers the JACL scholarship program. He is a graduate of sociology from Loyola University of L.A. and a candidate for master's degree at USC.

Cultural Heritage

Following a coffee break, the second half of the afternoon session will be devoted to a joint adult and youth meeting on the topic of "Cultural Heritage," with James Murakami, chairman.

Speaker will be Dr. Stanford Lyman, sociologist, whose topic is, "The Nisei Personality." Dr. Lyman is a professor at Santa Rosa State College and an authority on Japanese culture.

The remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with a joint adult and youth panel discussion on the "Junior JACL program."

Fred Farr Speaker

The evening quarterly meeting banquet will begin at 6 p.m. with Paul Ichiuji as master of ceremonies. The welcome to Monterey will come from Kay Nobusada, president of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor George Clemens of Monterey.

Presentation of awards will be made for council activities.

Speaker of the evening will be Fred Farr, California State Senator from Monterey County.

President Sanda urged all local JACL members to attend the meetings and banquet. "It will be an interesting and educational meeting," he said.

Vin MBL Track ... of Year'

(Julian P. Graham Studio photo)

ners

ed with R. R. Winters of ational Golf Tournament re.

y Ends

rsomes

nan System of alternate shots was employed for Saturday's final round.

Archer and Winters trailed El Lowery and Theodore Danforth by seven up to eight up going into Saturday's round.

10 up — (7 up, 3 up) — Ray R. Winters, Hillsborough - J. Addison Thomas, Prairie Village, Kansas;
9 up — (5 up, 4 up) — Downey Orrick, S.F. - William P. Dougherty, Woodland.
8 up (8 up even) — Edward E. Lowery, S.F. - Theodore Danforth, Locust Valley, N.Y.
7 up — (5 up, 2 up) — Thomas J. Davis Jr., Hillsborough - Hillyer Brown Jr., Burlingame.
5 up — (3 up, 2 up) — Alistair C. Hall, S.F. - C. M. Hall, S.F.; (4 up, 1 up) — Gen. F. L. Anderson, Woodside - John G. Brooks, Santa Monica; (3 up, 2 up) — Frank Tatum, S.F. - Roy Hills Sr., Atherton.
4 up — (5 up, 1 down) — Stanwood A. Murphy, S.F. - Gerald Brush, Piedmont; (even, 4 up) — Robert N. Avery, Hillsborough - William Knowles, Hillsborough; 4 up, even) — E. W. Littlefield, Burlingame - Aubrey G. Rawlins, S.F.
3 up — (1 down, 4 up) — W. Burleigh Pattee, Woodside - John Metcalf, S.F.; (3 up, 6 down) — Henry L. McIntyre, Hillsborough; (4 up, even)— E. W. (1 up, 2 up) — Roger D. Lapham Jr., S.F. - Alestair Furman III, Greenville, S.C.
2 up — (even, 2 up) — Charles S. Winston Jr., Chicago - James G. Alfring, St. Louis, Mo.; Cortlandt T. Hill, Pebble Beach - John M. Spencer, Woodland; (1 up, 1 up) — Shreve M. Archer Jr., Pebble Beach - W. Dobson Kilduff, S.F.
1 up — (3 up, 2 down) — Charles de-Brettville, Woodside - Bernard Ridder, San Jose; (1 up, even) — John L. Bradley, Hillsborough - Richard E. Hyde, Hillside; (even, 1 up) — Fred C. Talbot Jr., Pebble Beach - Martin T. Wiegand Jr., Washington, D.C.
Even — (2 down, 2 down) — Benno C. Schmidt, New York - James L. Murphy, S.F.; (1 up, 1 down) — Arthur C. Stewart, Pasadena - Raymond E. Lee, Beverly Hills; (1 down, 1 up) — Allen Griffin, Pebble Beach - James Murray, Rome, Italy; (4 up, 4 down) — J. Arch Butts, Pebble Beach - Tom Dwyer, S.F.; (2 up, 2 down) — Dr. George S. Campion, S.F. - Dr. Robert L. Smith Jr., S.F.; (3 up, 3 down) — Herbert Fleishhacker Jr., S.F. - Turner McBaine, S.F.
1 down — (2 up, 3 down) — Justin Dart, Beverley Hills - Gen. E. R. Queseda, Washington, D.C.; (1 up, 2 down) — James B. Black Jr., S.F. - Morse Erskine, S.F.
2 down — (1 up, 3 down) — John M. Robinson, L.A. - William G. McKnight, N.Y.
3 down — (1 down, 2 down) — Leonard Firestone, Beverly Hills - Freeman Gosden, Beverly Hills; (3 up, 6 down) — Calvin Wheeler, Pebble Beach -

HERALD Sports
BOB BULLOCK, Sports Editor
Monterey Peninsula Herald Monday, May 17, 1965. 10

Nottenkamper Leads Way Into Semi-finals . . .

Family Final Foiled In P.G. City Golf

Hopes for a "family finale" in the 1965 Pacific Grove City Golf Championships were thwarted yesterday.

The only quarter-final survivor of the two family combos was Chris Andrews of Pebble Beach.

Chris defeated young Dale Lewis on the 20th hole, but brother Marty Andrews lost two up to defending champion Andy Nottenkamper in the other bracket. And, the Tomasello tandem was wiped out—father Joe Tomasello lost to Richard Hill one up and son Vince fell before Larry O'Leary one up.

For the first time in the tournament history, all four quarter-finals went to the final hole.

The semi-finals are slated next Sunday at 8:15 a.m. on Pacific Grove Golf Course. Pairings are Nottenkamper - O'Leary and Hill-Andrews.

Chris Andrews, last year's runner-up, had a comfortable three - up lead at the end of the first nine. However, young Lewis played the back nine in a two-under-par to even the match.

Not one of the players could equal par on the narrow Pacific Grove links.

The Junior Flight semi-finals include one member of the Montreey High golf squad (Charles Kahr) and three members of the Pacific Grove High team (Gary Turner, Steve Johnson and Bob Berg).

Finals are slated Sunday, May 30, with the championship flight at 36 holes and the other flights at 18 holes.

Championship Flight — Andy Nottenkamper def. Marty Andrews 2 up, Larry O'Leary def. Vince Tomasello 1 up, Richard Hill def. Joe Tomasello 1 up, Chris Andrews def. Dale Lewis 20th.
Cypress Flight — Paul Schenberger def. Stan Nelson 1 up, Lou Guertin def. George Price 1 up, Tim McCoy def. Tom Herrmann 5-4, Tom Verga def. Vince Bruno 4-3.
Redwood Flight — Bruce Ingels def. Tony Salmeri 1 up, Tim McGuire def. Bob Surridge 4-3, Paul Verga def. Vic Messerli 19th, Allen Foulkes def. Wayne Fortman 4-3.
Oak Flight — Wes Lewis def. Henry Veloz 4-3, Truman Pass def. Paul Jansen 1 up, Ken Feliciano def. Ed Neel 1 up, Stan Cox def. Joe Salmeri 21st.
Pine Flight — Elie Ducharme def. Irv Franklin 7-6, Tom Drakes def. James Nevis 1 up, Rex McKinney def. Daniel Mares 1 up, John Chavis def. Richard Allen 3-2.
Junior Flight — Gary Turner def. Mark Frolli 1 up, Steve Johnson def. Richard Garcia 3-2, Bob Berg def. Vince Cardinale 3-1, Charles Kahr def. Jim Russo 4-3.
STARTING TIMES SUNDAY
(Starting times next Sunday — Championship 8:15 a.m., Cypress 7:30 a.m., Redwood 7:30 a.m., Oak 7:30 a.m., Pine 7:45 a.m. and Junior 7:45 a.m.)

Mrs. Robert McDonald Wins Tournament . .

Playoff Set Tomorrow In MPCC Women's Golf

An 18-hole playoff for qualifying honors in the Jane Patterson Handicap Golf Tournament is scheduled tomorrow at Montery Peninsula Country Club.

Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. Arthur Kent and Mrs. Hulet Smith shared the medalist honors in qualifying May 7 with 68 scores.

The scores were Mrs. McDonald 81-13—68, Mrs. Kent 94-26—68 and Mrs. Smith 76-8—68.

Mrs. McDonald went on to win the match play tournament with a victory over Mrs. E. R. Muhs in the finals last Friday at MPCC.

There also was a three-way tie for low putts on qualifying day. Mrs. Smith, Mrs. R. L. Armstrong and Mrs. E. H. Rhineshart used 29 putts apiece

Another playoff for the putting crown will be held on the putting green to determine the leader.

First Flight — Mrs. Nick LaSorella def. Mrs. R. L. Armstrong.
Second Flight — Mrs. C. J. Hunt def. Mrs. Ben Rees.
Third Flight — Mrs. L. E. Kinsle def. Mrs. E. H. Singleton.
Fourth Flight — Mrs. R. W. Barton def. Mrs. E. P. Moore.
Fifth Flight — Mrs. D. S. Ball def. Mrs. L. A. Hearne.
Sixth Flight — Mrs. Jack Rockwell def. Mrs. Earle Kaplansky.
Seventh Flight — Mrs. George Dovolis def. Mrs. C. W. Harvey.

(Arthur McEwen photos)

ds Work of JACL

recreation plans for California. Beside him, left to right, are Dr. Tom Taketa, district chairman who presided over the conference, Paul Ichiuji, master of ceremonies, and Mayor George Clemens of Monterey.

something must be done to conserve areas for recreation.

President Johnson is pushing many conservation measures, the first of which, the National Wilderness Bill, is now law. He also is setting up a land and water conservation fund of $125 million and a department of outdoor recreation, Farr said.

On highway and roadside beautification the President is seeking a strong program that will set aside 3 per cent of all road money for roadside beautification, the Carmel Democrat stated.

"I am proud of Monterey County. It is one of the most conservation - minded counties in all of California," Farr said.

SPORTS FANS!
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

MPH 5/21/65

Farr Says He'll Fight To Restore Sur Funds

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today promised a fight to restore funds for state acquisition of 2,140 acres at Big Sur.

The senator also reported that he will serve as chairman of a panel on scenic roads and parkways during the White House Conference on Natural Beauty to run from Sunday through Tuesday in Washington.

Farr said he will attempt to change the minds of members of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee which this week refused to approve purchase of the former Molera Ranch property to allow an expansion of Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park.

He said he also will fight for the project on the Senate side. He said the Big Sur project would be one of the most unique in the country and of tremendous benefit.

Farr said the White House Conference on Natural Beauty also would be attended by other Monterey County residents including Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings of Big Sur, Will Shaw of Carmel and County Planning Director Ed DeMars.

The senator said the following persons would serve on his panel:

George B. Hartzog, director of the National Park Service; David Levin, director of scenic road studies, Bureau of Public Works; Kevin Lynch, professor of planning at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Edward G. Michaelian, county executive of Westchester County, N.Y., president of the National Association of Counties; Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis) and Mrs. Ralph A. Reynolds, executive vice president of the California Roadside Council.

Laurance Rockefeller will be chairman of the conference which will draw 800 persons from across the country.

Farr Bill on Housing Loan In Committee

The bill introduced by State Senator Fred Farr last month which would allow Soledad Housing Authority to become eligible for either of two federal housing loans is still in committee.

Wm. F. Brashears, executive secretary for the local authority, was in Sacramento on Thursday and expects to go back to the state capitol again this Thursday while the committee reviews the 35-word amendment to an existing bill that had inadvertently omitted Soledad Authority when it was passed some time back.

The local authority hopes to replace the "condemned" farm labor camp housing if money becomes available.

Soledad Bee 5/26/65

Soledad Bee May 26, 1965

REGULARS at Every Pinnacles Picnic are Joe and Lucy Binsacca and a varying number of their family. They chatted with Senator Fred Farr, another regular picnic visitor who has shown a genuine interest in recreational development of the scenic west side. The Binsaccas always set up an elaborate camp and settle down to spend the entire day.

Sal Cal 5/24/65

Scenic Route For Pinnacles Is Proposed

The Soledad Chamber of Commerce called upon the Monterey County Board of Supervisors today to join in a resolution asking the entrance to the Pinnacles be included in the scenic route system.

Percy Dunlap, speaking for the Chamber told the board that inclusion of Highway 146, which covers 12 miles of access to the national monument, would mean federal funds for improvement of the park.

He said the road improvement could lead to more improvements at the west side site of the Pinnacles, which, until now, has gone undeveloped while the east side has received all the benefits.

Plans for the west side, according to Dunlap, include 25 campsites, water, road improvements inside the park area and a fulltime ranger.

A resolution adopted by the chamber, and asking for the scenic road, is being supported by State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, Dunlap said. The resolution was referred by the board to Road Commissioner Bruce McClain and Planning Director E. W. DeMars for review and recommendations.

Ask Scenic Tag for Pinnacles Highway

MPH 5/25/65

SALINAS —The Soledad Mission Chamber of Commerce yesterday asked the County Board of Supervisors to adopt a resolution urging that Highway 146, which leads from Soledad to the Pinnacles National Monument, be included in the scenic highway system.

The request was made by Percy Dunlap, acting on behalf of the chamber of commerce, who said the scenic highway designation for the 12 miles of highway leading to the monument will help make possible the granting of federal funds for development of the west side of the Pinnacles.

He said the chamber is proposing the development of 25 camp sites in the area, as well as an adequate water supply, road improvements inside the park and the hiring of a full-time ranger.

At present, most development at the Pinnacles is on the east side.

Federal funds will not be available, however, unless Highway 146 is included in the scenic highway system Dunlap said.

He informed the board that State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, has promised support for the idea in the legislature.

After Dunlap presented his case the board referred the proposed resolution to Planning Director Ed DeMars and Road Commissioner Bruce Mc Clain for their suggestions and recommendations.

Sal Cal 5/26/65

Senate Ag Committee OK's Bill by Farr

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Agriculture Committee has approved and sent to the Finance Committee a measure requiring approved toilets and handwashing facilties in fruit or vegetable harvesting operations.

The requirement would pertain to operation where five or more employes are working two hours or longer a day. The bill was authored by Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel.

MPH 5/24/65

Conference

A More Beautiful America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson today opened the White House Conference on Natural Beauty with a call for Americans to wipe out ugliness in the land and produce "a more beautiful America."

In prepared remarks at the start of the two-day conference that she helped inspire, the First Lady said, "In the catalog of ills which afflicts mankind, civic ugliness and the decay of our cities and countryside is high on America's agenda."

More than 1,000 business, farm, labor and government leaders were invited to participate in the conference, which plans to present recommendations to President Johnson tomorrow. Johnson has asked for "sound, economical and imaginative" programs to beautify the nation.

Attending the conference from Monterey County are State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel), Mr. and Mrs. Nat Owings, Will Shaw and Ed DeMars, county planning director.

Challenge

She said that one of the most pressing challenges for individuals today is the "depression and tension" resulting from the sight of a world that is not pleasing to the eye.

"Ugliness creates bitterness," she said. "Ugliness is an eroding force on the people of our land."

"We are all here to try to change that," said the First Lady who planned to join in several of the panel discussions. "This conference is a step to the solution, and I think a great one."

Mrs. Johnson said the immediate problem is how the nation can best fight ugliness where all depends on individual action and there is no artistic control.

"There is a growing feeling abroad in this land that ugliness has been allowed too long, that it is time to say 'enough' and to act," Mrs. Johnson said.

The First Lady said that "perhaps the most important part of this conference is to help remind our people that the beauty of their land depends upon their own initiative and their will."

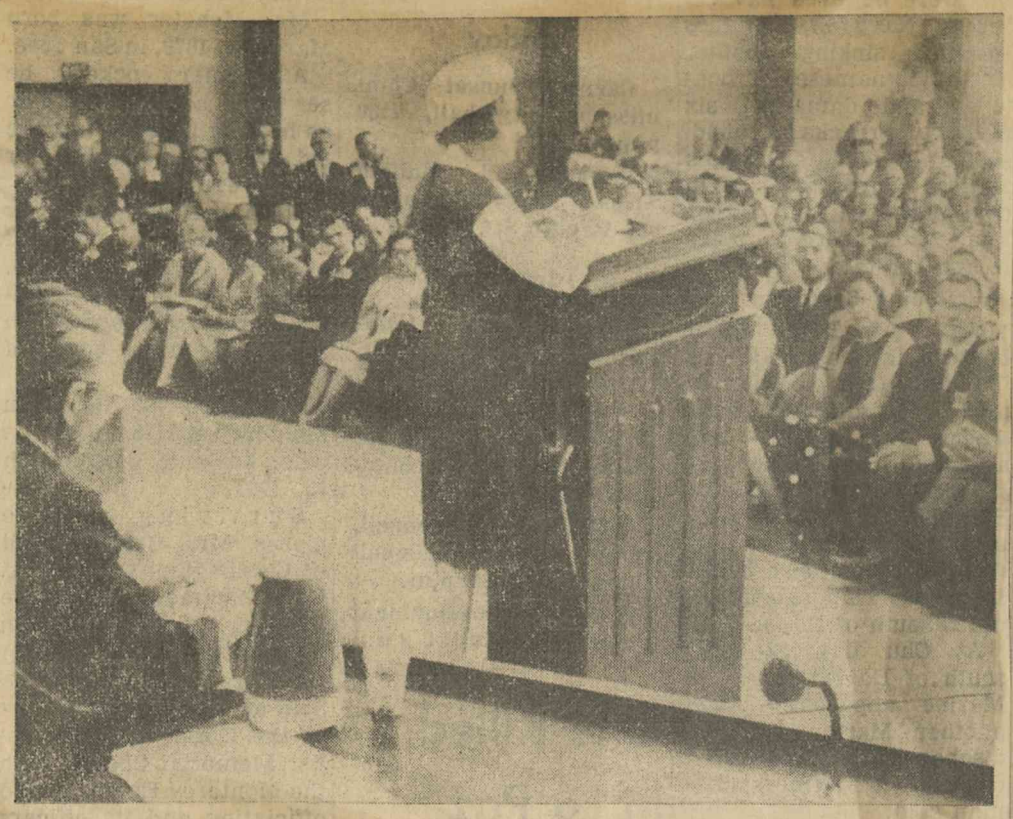

"Natural beauty may be a national concern and there is much that government can do and should do," she said, "but it is the individual who not only benefits, but must protect a heritage of beauty for future generations.

National Will

"There are no autocrats in our land to decree beauty: only a national will."

Conference chairman Laurance S. Rockefeller told the meeting, "Our task is to produce specific ideas and come up with solutions" for the preservation and conservation of the nation's natural assets.

Rockefeller said that several things are needed to implement a national beautification program: More research, better coordination among local, state and federal agencies, more money for present programs and more conferences.

(AP Wirephoto)

Talks of Beauty

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson addresses the opening session today of the two-day White House Conference on Natural Beauty in the State Department auditorium. Seated at left is Laurance S. Rockefeller, chairman of the conference.

Will Rebuild

"Over the next 40 years . . . (Americans) are going to rebuild this country almost literally," he promised. "Natural beauty must be an integral part of our national life."

Rockefeller is chairman of Rockefeller Center, Inc., and president of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

In other remarks, Sen. Philip A. Hart said a key part of the beautification program would be the acquisition of shoreline sites for recreational purposes.

The Michigan Democrat added that Congress would have to fashion legislation to require "state and local land use planning to protect the natural beauty in some depth."

Second

Weather Forecast

Fair with night and morning fog.

High temperature yesterday 56; low last night 49. See page 12.

VOL. LXXVI, No. 115.

MPH 5/14/65

NEWS

than Laurance.

Anyone who has visited Jackson Hole, south of Yellowstone Park, can appreciate his love for making the best of what nature provided. There are other

Our service is available whenever and wherever required. No distance is too great, no service too small for us to service completely.

Serving the Monterey

WALLIN — Delta A. Wallin, May 12, 1963. Resident of Carmel and Pacific Grove 10 years. Mother of Mrs. Chester Mulder, Pilot Rock, Oregon; William Lent, Bakersfield; Jack Lent, Van Nuys, California. Also survived by 13 grandchildren. Funeral services were held from the Paul Funeral Chapel Friday, May 14, 1965, at 2 p.m. Burial followed in El Carmelo Cemetery, Pacific Grove. The Paul Mortuary in charge of funeral arrangements.

Sal Cal 5/21/65

Five County Residents to Attend White House Meet

Five Monterey County residents are scheduled to take part in the White House Conference on Natural Beauty next Monday and Tuesday in Washington, D.C.

The conference participants will be State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, who is chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee; Will Shaw of Carmel, director of the Foundation for Environmental Design; Ed DeMars, Monterey County planning director; Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur, vice chairman of the State Highway Advisory Committee; and his wife, Margaret, who is a member of the State Park Commission.

Farr will be chairman of a panel discussion on scenic roads and parkways Monday afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

Farr told the Californian that he plans to discuss the proposed county park in the Toro area with Edward Crafts, director of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Department of the Interior. "He seems to be interested in it," Farr said. "It's the kind of thing the bureau should be interested in, because it's a large piece of open space near two growing urban areas," he said.

Participants in the panel to be chairmanned by Farr will be George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the Natural Park Service, Department of the Interior; David Levin, director of the scenic roads study for the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Commerce; Kevin Lynch, professor of planning at MIT; Edward G. Michaelian, county executive of Westchester County, N. Y.; U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Ralph Reynolds, executive vice president of the California Roadside Council.

ides, Sun and Moon

| | LOW | | HIGH | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2:59 am | 0.1 ft | 8:58 am | 4.1 ft |
| 2:23 pm | 0.9 ft | 8:44 pm | 5.7 ft |
| 3:41 am | -0.5 ft | 9:53 am | 4.2 ft |
| 3:09 pm | 1.2 ft | 9:12 pm | 6.0 ft |

| Sunrise | Sunset | Moonrise | Moonset |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5:53 am | 8:22 pm | 4:02 am | 5:02 pm |
| 5:51 am | 8:23 pm | 4:32 am | 6:11 pm |

SECTIONS — TEN CENTS

j Bill

MPH 5/26/65.

LBJ Requests Action

U.S. Billboard, Junkyard Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress today to ban billboards and unsightly junkyards along busy highways. And he sought funds for highway beautification.

In a letter to officials of the Senate and House, Johnson put forth these sweeping and controversial proposals one day after the close of a White House conference on natural beauty.

The President said the nation's highways offer the greatest promise and opportunity for beautification.

"By acting to bring beauty to our roads, by making nature and recreation easily accessible," he said, "our highway system can become immensely more valuable in serving the needs of the American people."

He told Congress conservation "must make an effort to put beauty within reach of those who live in our cities, and make it a part of the daily life of every American."

That amounts to a restatement of the central theme of the natural beauty conference.

The most controversial of the presidential recommendations was his plan to control outdoor advertising.

No Billboards

"In general," he told Congress, "such controls would require that no advertising signs be erected in areas within 1,000 feet of the pavement and visible to the passing motorists. Existing signs would have to be removed by July 1, 1970."

Johnson said that, if Congress agrees, no states could receive federal highway aid after Jan. 1, 1968 unless they control bill-

(Continued on page 4)

◇ ◇ ◇

Sen. Farr Reports to Conference

Winding up the agenda of the White House Conference on Natural Beauty last night, delegates sent an urgent wire to California Gov. Edmund G. Brown urging that he call a California Conference on Natural Beauty, according to State Sen. Fred S. Farr.

Farr said the White House conference ended with a stirring message from President Lyndon B. Johnson in the East Room of the White House. "It was probably the finest message on natural beauty ever delivered by a president," said Farr.

California figured prominently in all of the 17 panels of the conference, Farr said, particularly Monterey County. Monterey County citizens who attended the conference, besides Farr, included:

Ed DeMars, Monterey County planning director; Nathaniel Owings, Big Sur architect and member of the State Recreation Com-

(Continued on page 2)

LBJ Asks Beauty on U.S. Roads

(Continued from page 1)

boards along interstate and primary roads — the most heavily traveled highways. Billboards still would be permitted, however, along routes zoned or used primarily for commercial or industrial purposes.

In proposing controls over junkyards, Johnson said:

State Control

"I recommend that as a condition of receiving federal aid, states must exercise control along the entire interstate and primary systems. No new junkyards could be established within 1,000 feet of the pavement and visible to the motorist. Existing junkyards would have to be effectively screened or removed by July 1, 1970."

The President said some states might lack adequate police powers to control outdoor advertising and junkyards.

"Where this is the case," he said, "the federal government would be authorized to pay its share of the cost of purchase or condemnation."

In submititng a package of four bills Johnson was doing just what the,1000 delegates to. the natural beauty conference wanted.

Johnson, who called the two-day conference, wound it up with a big reception at the White House and a lengthy speech pronouncing his own dedication to the cause of natural beauty.

Chairman Laurance Rockefeller and four panelists had reported to the President some of the scores of recommendations for expansion of scenic highways, protection of waters, reclaiming lands and wildlife and a need to educate Americans on nature's beauties.

Follow Ups

Johnson said he wants governors to follow up with similar conferences in every state. Two are scheduled in California and Massachusetts. The President said he aimed "to keep the fruits of this enormous effort from being dissipated."

"I intend to make full use of your work," he told the delegates at the White House, "and I hope local officials in every state will do the same."

Johnson told about his bills, saying: "We have not been idle while you were working." He said he was determined that the government be "a model and a pacesetter in this field."

Sal Cal 5/26/65

Farr Offers Scenic Road Plan to LBJ

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr Tuesday night presented a four-point plan for improving the scenic beauty of American highways to President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and 800 participants in the White House Conference on Natural Beauty.

Farr was one of four panel chairman selected to make presentations at the gathering, which not only filled the East Room of the White House, but overflowed into four other rooms.

The Senator said that it is about time that the American motorist was given a "beauty break."

Farr proposed:

—"Substantially strengthened" billboard control to ban billboards on interstate and primary highway systems, except in those areas zoned for industrial and commercial use.

—That a portion of federal funds now used for secondary roads be channeled into scenic roads and parkways.

—A series of White House "recognition awards" for the best rural scenic and urban esthetic highways, to be designated as the President's "Highways of the year."

—More federal funds for development of scenic highways.

Farr chaired the conference's panel on scenic highways.

Presents Proposals

Sal. Cal. 5/26/65

Johnson Asks Cleanup Laws For Highways

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress today for legislaiton to erase auto junkyards and billboards from the nation's highways and make travel more scenic for American motorists.

In a letter to the House Speaker and Senate President, Johnson said he was transmitting a package of four bills designed to beautify the 250,000 miles of interstate and primary highways.

Two of the bills would strengthen controls on outdoor advertising and junkyards within view of motorists.

The President proposed that states — as a condition to receiving federal highway grants after Jan. 1, 1968—control outdoor advertising along sections of highways not zoned or used, predominantly for commercial or industrial purposes.

Would Require Removal

In general, such controls would require that no new advertising signs be erected in areas within 1,000 feet of the pavement and visible to passing motorists. Present billboards would have to be removed by July 1, 1970.

While paying tribute to advertising as having "an important and valuable" role in American life, Johnson said: "It is neither in the interests of the advertising industry or the nation, to permit a further decrease of our dwindling natural beauty."

To screen junkyards from the motoring public, Johnson recommended that federal aid be barred unless states exercise control along the entire interstate and primary systems. No new junkyards could be established in the 1,000-foot restricted area and existing junkyards would have to be screened or removed by July 1, 1970.

"we must recognize, both in the case of junkyards and outdoor advertising, that some states lack adequate police powers for control," Johnson said. "Where this is the case, LBJ the federal government would be authorized to pay its share of the cost of purchase or condemnation."

Page 2, Col. 3

Asks Broader Power

The President called for broader authority to use federal-aid funds on a matching basis to pay for landscape and roadside development. Under this authority, rest and recreation areas could be acquired for use by the traveling public, he said.

Johnson also proposed that states be required to use 3 per cent of their federal-aid funds to acquire land alongside highways for enhancing scenic beauty. For some years, he said, states have been permitted to do this but have used the authority only rarely.

Another proposal was that each state be required to use one-third of federal aid now received for secondary roads to construct scenic roads, and access to scenic and recreational areas, and to provide landscape and roadside development along interstate highways.

Johnson said that beautifying side roads "will add immensely to the value of our highway system" by providing access to lakes and forests, picnic and historical areas, beaches and mountain trails.

He said it will "add an entirely new dimension of pleasure and recreation and spiritual satisfaction to the existing goals of our road program."

In the next fiscal year, Johnson said, an estimated $3.9 billion will be spent on federal-aid highways. He called this "an investment in the future of America."

The President proposed spending a potential $220 million a year on the highway beautification program. This would include up to $120 million brought in by the 3 per cent state use requirement and $100 million for county and city officials to build rest areas, scenic drives and recreation sites.

Highway One

'Scenic' Dedication Is Planned

MPH 5/29/65

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today announced that ceremonies to dedicate Highway 1 south of Carmel as an official state scenic highway will be announced soon.

He said that Gov. Brown and Rex Whitton, director, U.S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington D.C., are expected to attend.

The senator also announced that the California Advisory Committee on a Master Plan for Scenic Highways has reached agreement upon criteria, standards and procedures to determine the designation of an official scenic state highway.

In reaching agreement, the committee acted to recommend Highway 1 in Monterey County as the state's first official scenic highway.

Farr said the committee's recommendations must be acted upon by the California director of public works as the committee's functions are advisory only.

Farr said the "criteria, standards and procedures are designed to be used in joint state and county or city efforts to protect roadside scenery and to develop the highways in accord with the best concepts of scenic highways."

Monterey County's Highway 1 has been used as a pilot to demonstrate standards.

The scenic highway advisory committee and the scenic highway program were created under legislation authored by Farr in 1963.

Committee members are Supervisor Harry P. Schmidt of Merced County (chairman); Nathaniel A. Owings fo Big Sur, Robert E. Grunwald of Hanford; Richard M. Leonard of San Francisco, Dee W. McKenzie of Sacramento, Edwin S. Moore of San Francisco and C. Perry Walker of Manhattan Beach.

Farr's Senate Colleagues Give Vote of Thanks

MPH 4/3/65

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel today was given a vote of thanks by the State Senate for his recent key role in the White House Conference on Natural Beauty.

Senate Resolution 218, introduced by Sen. James Cobey of Merced, commended Farr for having been honored by the conference, in being named one of four persons to make a personal report of its findings and recommendations to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

The State Senate extended further thanks for his having represented California so ably and with such distinction, pointing out that immediately following the conference, the President had incorporated Farr's report in his recommendations to Congress.

Senate Defeats Farr Move to Create Redwood National Park

MPH 5/31/65.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate defeated a resolution Saturday calling for the federal government to establish a Redwood National Park in northwestern California.

The vote was 20 to 12 against the proposal by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel.

"This is a blind approach to acquiring a redwood park," commented Sen. Carl L. Christensen, D-Eureka. Christensen said that if a national park were established in his Humboldt County district it would make additional inroads into the timber industry.

Forestry is the main livelihood of the area, Christensen said, adding that the unemployment rate is currently 13 per cent. He said that 53,000 acres of the county are already in state redwood parks.

"The only reason for this resolution is so that conservation groups can point with pride at their accomplishment and ask for more contributions," Christensen said.

Christensen reported the boards of supervisors of Humboldt, Del Norte and Mendocino counties opposed a redwood national park. Farr remarked that he received a petition signed by 1,500 Humboldt County residents supporting the park.

"People get emotionally wound up about redwood trees," said Sen. Randolph Collier, (D-Yreka, who represents neighboring Siskiyou County. Collier objected to a national park, citing the restriction it would place on use of the land.

"You just try to take your dog for a walk in a national park," Collier said.

Farr Hasn't Given Up Fight for National Park

Sac. Cal. 6/1/65.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, hasn't given up the fight to establish a national redwood park in California.

Farr, commenting on the recent Senate defeat of his resolution memorializing the federal government to move swiftly to establish the park, today said he hopes "that the President and Congress will not construe the defeat—as an action representing the majority feeling of the citizens of this state."

Farr said that "national and international interest as well as the interest of California's citizens was ignored in the Senate's action. . . .I am confident that such interest will be respected on the national level, where this matter may be considered objectively outside of the arena influenced by a single self-industry interest."

The senator blamed defeat of his resolution on the forest products industry, "which is harvesting the 2,000-year-old redwood giants at an alarming rate. . . .I still maintain that the pressures exerted by the forest products industry to defeat this measure are in direct contravention to the recreation potential of the north coast counties and the boost to the economy of that depressed area when the fast-fading redwood saw lumber industry will come to an abrupt close as the last redwood giant in private ownership is felled."

Farr's Move For U.S. Redwood Park Defeated

Sac Cal 5/31/65

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The State Senate has rejected a resolution seeking a federal redwood park in California. Strong opposition was voiced by legislators from the redwood country.

The Senate, in an unusual Saturday session, defeated, 20-12, the measure by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, urging the President and Congress to create the park.

Sen. Carl L. Christensen, D-Eureka, conceded that talking against redwoods was like speaking against "God and country." But he told the upper chamber there were "more than enough redwood trees for everyone." He said the state had 53,000 acres in redwood parks in his county alone.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D- Yreka, also opposed the measure, despite Farr's contention that within 40 years the last old growth redwoods now in private ownership may have fallen to lumbermen.

San Jose Mercury 6/2/65

Senate OKs Measure Requiring Toilets

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate Wednesday voted unanimously to require toilets in the farm fields for the dignity of workers and the sanitation of food.

The bill by Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) went to the Assembly on a 29-0 vote. He said it had been worked out with agricultural interests so that there was no opposition.

The measure requires farmers to provide one toilet and one handwashing facility for each 40 workers in a field where food is grown or harvested for human consumption. It requires the facilities to be within a five-minute walk of workers.

Enforcement is placed with local health officials with the assistance of county agricultural commissioners. A violation would be a misdemeanor.

Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz expressed shock at the lack of toilet and handwashing facilities when he inspected California's farm labor situation and found one field where a woman had to walk a mile over fences to a toilet.

Field Toilet Bill Lags Here; OK'd by Senate

Sac Cal 6/4/65.

While the State Senate has voted unanimously to require toilets in the farm fields, similar approval is lagging on the Monterey County government level.

The sanitation bill, for the dignity of workers and the sanitation of food, is by Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel. It went to the Assembly this week on a 29-0 vote.

The measure requires farmers to provide one toilet and one handwashing facility for each 40 workers in a field where food is grown or harvested for human consumption according to United Press International.

It requires the facilities to be within a five-minute walk of the workers.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors, seeking opinion on the bill, referred it on May 10 to the Health Department, Agricultural Advisory Committee, Farm Bureau and Grower-Shipper Vegetable Association.

To date only the Health Department and the Agricultural Committee, both official county bodies, have replied. Nothing has been heard from the Farm Bureau or Grower-Shipper Vegetable Association.

The Health Department replied it was in favor of the bill, and the Agricultural Committee submitted a semi-favorable reply with minor variations to the bill passed by the Senate.

On June 7, at the board's next regular meeting, a public hearing will be conducted. It is expected the board will take a position on the bill at that time.

The bill was instigated after Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz' visit to the Salinas Valley, and his expressed shock at the lack of toilet and handwashing facilities in the fields.

Under Farr's bill enforcement is placed with local health officials with the assistance of county agricultural commissioners. A violation would be a misdemeanor.

Letter Box MPH 6/2/65

What's YOUR Opinion?

Another Monument?

Editor, The Herald:

This is an open letter to Senator Fred Farr:

"We all appreciated your excellent work in preserving the beauty of our state. Some people enjoy the scenic highways and some just enjoy strolling along the beach. Others are attracted to quaint little shops or the fine dining wharf.

"The State of California owns the land at the very front entrance to our wharf. They collect rent from the owner of this historical restaurant, formerly called 'Pop Ernst's.' For many years, it has been known as 'Cerrito's at the Wharf.'

"The state is intending to buy this pretty building, only to tear it down at great expense. In its stead, the state plans to erect a costly monument in memory of Commodore Sloat.

"The irony of it all, is, the state has been crying the blues that they need more and more money from us taxpayers.

"It is well known that the restaurant in itself is an historical landmark. It is well kept and is an asset to the entrance of our wharf. I'm sure the tourists agree that it is very attractive.

"Sen. Farr, go down to the wharf, try to envision a cement monument there, and then drive over to the Presidio and there you will see a Commodore Sloat monument. So why do we need another one?"

DOLLY COLGATE,
Monterey.

Farr Prepares Smog Bill in Legislature

MPH 6/4/65

SACRAMENTO —State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) today announced he will attempt to enter legislation next week to allow a county to form an air pollution control district before a smog condition exists.

Under present law, a pollutant situation must exist before a county can take steps to form a control district.

Farr said this morning that Assemblyman John T. Knox (D-Richmond) has a bill which appears suitable to carry the amendment.

At a late hour today, the senator said, "I am going over to see Knox right now and see if I can get permission to amend the bill."

According to the state health and safety code, a board of supervisors may create an air pollution control district if evidence shows that "the air is so polluted as to become injurious to health, etc."

Following the use of the word "polluted" in this sentence, Farr proposed to add the words "or is likely to become so polluted."

If he is successful in attaching the amendment to the Knox bill, Farr said it likely will be heard before the Senate Committee on Local Government around the end of next week.

Monterey County interests are seeking establishment of the district before the county acts upon a request for a Humble Oil Co. refinery at Moss Landing.

Favorable Action on Anchovy Reduction Bill

MPH 6/11/65

SACRAMENTO — A bill allowing the taking of anchovies for reduction purposes was reported favorably by the State Fish and Game Committee yesterday, according to Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel.

The bill, authored by Assemblyman Vincent Thomas of Los Angeles, would allow a catch of 15,000 tons of the fish north of Point Conception and 100,000 tons south of the point.

All fish taken must be over 5 inches, according to provisions of the bill, and in southern waters they must be netted at least 2 miles offshore. These provisions are designed to protect the bait industry.

A scientist for the fish and game commission testified the take would represent only 5 per cent of the anchove population in the area to be fished and that about 60 per cent of the population dies each year of old age.

Permission to fish for anchovies for reduction into fish meal long has been sought by the commercial fishing industry and a means of providing employment for the survivors of the once-great sardine fishery.

Present at yesterday's hearing were Frank Manaco, president, and John (Bricky) Crivello, manager of the Monterey Seine and Line Fishermen's Union.

Manaco testified and was the only witness to be applauded by both members of the committee and the large audience at the hearing.

State Senate Memorializes Sister Kieran

MPH 5/31/65

SACRAMENTO — The State Senate has voted a resolution expressing regret upon the recent death of Sister Kieran Hanifan, sister superior and principal at the Santa Catalina School for Girls in Monterey.

The resolution described Sister Kieran as a person of great warmth and charm, universally loved and having a cultivated mind. It credited her with the expansion of the school facilities since 1950.

The resolution was entered by State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel.

Monterey Peninsula Herald
Saturday, June 5, 1965. 18

County Representatives Praise White House Beauty Conference

SALINAS — Representatives of Monterey County, who attended the White House Conference on Natural Beauty May 24 and 25 in Washington, have returned with high praise for the conference and the expectation of substantial benefits to the county.

The conference was attended by County Planning Director Ed DeMars, nationally - known architect Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur and his wife, Margaret, State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and author and former diplomat Nicholas Roosevelt, also of Big Sur.

Other experts in the fields of planning and conservation, as well as local, state and federal government leaders, attended the conference from all over the country.

First Lady

A frequent visitor to conference sessions was Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. The final session was held in the White House May 25.

Both DeMars and Farr were ebullient on their return from Washington.

"I thought it was an excellent conference," DeMars said. "It served a real purpose in making the scenic conservation program popular."

Farr agreed. "It was tremendous," he said. "California made great contributions to the entire conference. Californians were on their feet, making comments and suggestions. The President's reaction was splendid and the reaction around the country was exceedingly good."

Farr was selected by the conference's general chairman, Laurance Rockefeller, to serve as chairman of the panel on scenic roadways and parkways.

Example

The Monterey County Coast Master Plan, with its provisions for scenic highways, was the only graphic display presented to the panel as an example of local planning in the field.

"This was one of the few and probably the only current example of a local scenic highway program that was submitted to the conference," DeMars said.

Yesterday, the State Senate unanimously adopted a resolution submitted by Sen. James A. Cobey, D-Merced, commending Farr "for representing California so ably and with so much distinction" at the conference.

DeMars is scheduled to report on his activities at the conference to the board of supervisors next Monday. Neither Roosevelt nor Owings was available for comment on the conference.

Both Farr and DeMars agreed that probably the most significant development to come out of the conference so far as Monterey County is concerned was the list of recommendations on highway beauty which the President submitted to Congress last week.

Highways Panel

The recommendations originally were presented to the President by Farr in his capacity as chairman of the scenic highways panel.

The recommendations were for:

1 — The elimination of billboards within 1,000 feet of interstate or primary highway systems in areas not zoned for commercial use as a condition of federal aid. All existing billboards would have to be removed by July 1, 1970.

2 — A state requirement prohibiting the further establishment of junk yards within 1,000 feet of interstate, or primary highway systems or within the visibility of a motorist, as a condition of federal aid. Junk yards already in operation would have to be screened from view prior to July 1, 1970.

3 —The mandatory use by states of 3 per cent of federal aid to beautify roadside landscapes and to develop rest and recreation areas for traveling motorists. Under current law, the "3 per cent" program is voluntary for the states. California does not participate.

4 —A requirement that each state use one-third of federal aid to construct scenic roads, to construct roads leading to scenic and recreation areas and to provide landscaping along highways which receive federal aid.

Significant First

Farr noted that California "has a most significant first" as regards the last recommendation with the authorization of Highway 1, south of Carmel, for inclusion in the state's scenic highway system. He said he will meet with Gov. Brown on other aspects of the conference this weekend.

Farr and the County Board of Supervisors have worked for several years to get Highway 1 included in the scenic system.

Another recommendation submitted to Congress by the President, which DeMars said "could be of very real importance to Monterey County," calls for 1.2 million acres of surplus military land in the U. S. to be made available to local governments and the park service this year for the development of recreation land.

DeMars said the secretaries of defense, interior and agriculture already are working closely on the preparation of the project.

Fort Ord Land

He said there is a possibility that, under the program, Monterey County could obtain for park purposes a small portion of Fort Ord which will be cut off by the Salinas-Monterey freeway.

A total of 16 panels, similar to the one Farr headed, held meetings during the two-day conference, dealing with such matters as highways, billboard control, suburban development, underground utilities and scenic parks.

DeMars said he attended several of the panel meetings which had relevance to problems faced by Monterey County. He said he also took time out to discuss with federal officials the possibility of obtaining federal aid under the Land and Water Conservation Act for the county's proposed 4,756-acre park along the Salinas-Monterey Highway.

He said he also benefited by visits to Eastern highway systems — such as the George Washington Memorial Parkway in Virginia — and cluster housing developments.

When the conference and his own fact-finding tours had ended, however, DeMars said that, although he had learned a great deal, he returned convinced of one thing.

As he put it: "In many of these programs, Monterey County is in the forefront."

Sen. Farr Is Honored At Confab

Local 6/13/65

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Fred Farr, D.-Carmel, today was honored by his Senate colleagues with the passing of a resolution commending him for his key role at the White House Conference on Natural Beauty.

The resolution expresses the appreciation of the Senate for Farr's efforts in behalf of the state of California and the nation, efforts which have claimed national recognition and have been translated into legislation pending before Congress to insure that the beauty of America will be revealed to motorists nation-wide.

Farr's role as chairman of the conference panel on scenic roadways and parkways was cited in the resolution. The senator was appointed to the position by conference general chairman Laurence Rockefeller, in recognition of his pioneering accomplishments in the preservation of natural beauty, which have been used as bases for a study on scenic roads and parkways now being conducted by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The resolution also recognized the fact that Farr was further honored by the White House Conference on Natural Beauty for his designation as one of the four conference delegates to report in person the conference's findings to the President, Mrs. Johnson and Vice President Hubert Humphrey. "All Californians may well be proud of Sen. Farr's major role," stated the resolution, "which further complimented the leadership exemplified by California in all fields of national interest." The resolution was introduced by Sen. James Cobey of Merced.

MPH 6/7/65

Brown Calls Conference On Beauty

By EARL HOFELDT

Relaxed and happy, Gov. Edmund G. Brown last night ended a two-day visit on the Monterey Peninsula featuring an appearance at Monterey's Merienda on Saturday.

While here, the governor announced that he plans to call a governor's conference on natural beauty to be held in the fall — possibly at Hearst Castle at San Simeon.

He also said:

1 — That he thinks the governor of California should attend the Merienda (city's birthday party) every year. . . . "and I will tell you this, that I will come back every year, as long as I am invited and am in office."

2 — That the "Can of Worms" freeway fight in Monterey had a "profound" effect on freeway planning in California.

3 — That he plans to appoint a blue-ribbon bipartisan commission to see what can be done about cutting the costs of political campaigns in California.

Merienda

The governor and Mrs. Brown arrived in the state plane, Grizzly II, just before noon Saturday at Monterey Peninsula Airport and were driven to the Merienda.

In the event marking the 195th anniversary of Monterey's founding, Brown addressed more than 600 persons in Memory Garden of Pacific Building and served as official escort to La Favorita — Miss Julie Campbell, daughter of Superior Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell of Carmel.

Following the Merienda, Brown played golf at Monterey Peninsula Country Club. He had to quit after 16 holes in order to reach a Democratic reception in his honor at the Hotel Casa Munras. Following the reception, he attended a small dinner at Larkin House State Historical Monument.

Cypress Point

Yesterday morning, after staying overnight at the Casa Munras, the Browns attended 9 o'clock mass at San Carlos Church, then went to Cypress Point for a round of golf.

Brown's golfing partners yesterday were Associate Judge Daniel Schumacher of the appellate court in San Francisco; Superior Judge Jack Eyman of San Francisco and Alfred Stern of Atherton, chairman of the State Park Commission.

Last night, Gov. and Mrs. Brown had dinner at their favorite dining spot on the Peninsula — DeVaughn's Restaurant on Cannery Row. At the dinner were Stern, State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, Carmel architect Will Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings of Big Sur.

Conference

After the dinner and upon arrival at the airport for the return flight to Sacramento, Brown announced the conference on natural beauty.

He said it will implement the White House Conference on Natural Beauty, held last month in Washington upon the call of the nation's First Lady, Lady Bird Johnson. Sen. Farr attended the Washington conference as did Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Owings, Nicholas Roosevelt of Big Sur and County Planning Director Ed DeMars.

The state conference will seek to determine what new, specific steps can be taken to improve and protect the appearance of California. Brown said the conference will be held in the fall and that San Simeon has been suggested as a site.

Farr, at the governor's side and a bit more guarded in his statements than the governor, said that "it might be a bit too early to say San Simeon."

Thrilled

Farr and the senator's two daughters, Francesca, 22, and Nancy, 17, were aboard as the Grizzly II whisked away. The girls were to spend last night in the Executive Mansion and, according to Farr, were "really thrilled about it."

In an interview Saturday, Brown said he was glad that the freeway is under way on the Peninsula after many years of controversy.

Recalling the fight led by Monterey attorney Elwood J. Wilson and the Citizens Parkway Committee against the former "Can of Worms" design for the Salinas highway-Fremont street interchange, Brown said:

"Your Can of Worms really has caused a reexamination of freeway planning in the state.

"It had a profound effect.

"You accomplished something by your fight. You highlighted the need for consideration of beauty in freeway planning."

'Too Early'

Brown said it is "too early" to comment on whether he will seek reelection next year (although Sacramento observers regard him as a cinch to run).

This turned Brown to the length and cost of political campaigns. He said, "If there were any legal way of limiting campaigns, I would like to do so not only because of the wear and tear upon the candidates but the wear and tear upon the general public.

"The cost of campaigning in California is beyond all bounds and it is beginning to be a case of a candidate having to start running for reelection as soon as he is elected."

Brown then told of his plan for a bi-partisan commission to look into the problem of campaign length and costs.

Tradition

Chatting at the reception at the Casa Munras, Brown said he thought it would be a fine idea for the governor to make a tradition of coming to the Merienda.

During a pep talk to 50-75 guests who paid $10 per person to attend, Brown said that next year, with its state elections, "will be a year of decision."

Describing accomplishments of his two terms, Brown said "It would be truly tragic if the No. 1 state in the Union became a Republican state after all the things we (Democrats) have done . . ."

Brown lauded Farr as a "truly great senator." He also praised Mrs. Talcott Bates of Monterey, one of his appointees to the State Board of Education.

Secretary

While aside for a moment on Saturday with Farr, Brown was asked if Farr wouldn't make a fine Secretary of the Interior.

Brown blustered for an instant, then said, "But I need Fred in the Senate." Farr came to the rescue saying, "I think that Stewart Udall is doing a fine job as secretary, don't you, governor?" Brown granted that he did.

The dinner at Larkin House was sponsored by the Larkin House Advisory Committee, created in the will of the late Alice Toulmin. Guests: Gov. and Mrs. Brown; Judge and Mrs. Schumacher; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborne; Farr; Stuyvesant Fish; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Davis; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Michaud and Rear Adm. and Mrs. Edward J. O'Donnell.

(MacDougal King photo)

Senator's Daughters

Francesca Farr, left, and her sister, Nancy, daughters of State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, chat with a good friend of their father's—Gov. Edmund G. Brown—during a reception Saturday night at the Hotel Casa Munras in Monterey.

Friends Who Can Help

Gov. Edmund G. Brown meets in Monterey with friends who will be helpful if he runs for reelection next year. From left, State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel; Brown; Irby E. Bourriague of Felton, Democratic candidate for Assembly last year; and Dr. Robert Bowersox of Monterey, chairman of the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee.

tain from service during World War I, and in the middle 1920's served as chief zoologist to the R.R.S. Discovery expedition to the Antarctic, making a study of plankton, his specialty.

During the next three months the 135-foot traveling classroom will visit the Tonga Islands, Cook Islands, Tahiti, Line and Hawaiian Islands before returning to the home port of Monterey.

In August Mrs. Fry and Mrs. Haderlie, with their children, will fly to Hawaii to greet the Te Vega when she sails into Honolulu.

Sir Alister, Dr. Fry and Dr. Haderlie leave Monterey Airport tonight on the first leg of their exciting trip.

(Brooke Elgie photo)

Dr. Rolf Bolin, Sir Alister Hardy, Dr. Fred Fry and Dr. Eugene Haderlie.
(They'll roam the South Seas in the TeVega).

Summer With The Underprivileged

An interesting summer working with underprivileged children in the south or east is in store for 16-year-old Gregory Dahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Dahl of Pebble Beach.

Greg, who graduates from Verde Valley School, in Artellan, and Ken Van Hagen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Fraties are back on the Peninsula after five years spent in Caracas, Venezuela, where Gail was employed. The couple will move soon to Carmel, but with an eye on making Carmel Valley their future home.

Gail has just completed a year at USF where he has one more year to complete a law degree, and Diane and their four daughters occupied the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawson, on Paso Mediano.

Both natives of Carmel, Gail and Diane have spent many years in foreign lands since their marriage. Their daughter Valerie was born in Melbourne, Australia, during a two year stay there; Jessica, in tante-granddaughters, Pamela and Barbara Hately of Pebble Beach.

The Griffins have engaged Ernie Hecksher's orchestra from San Francisco to play at the reception and dance. Pam and Barbara are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hately Jr. Pam, by the way, leaves June 22 for a summer in Europe, traveling with a group of young people from the San Francisco area.

The Griffins left this week for two months abroad. Their grandsons, Duffy O'Gara of Monterey and Theodore Goossen of New York, will join them in Cannes and accompany them on a three weeks' cruise in the Mediterranean. After the cruise they will go on to Rome, then will spend two weeks in Amsterdam. The Griffins and Duffy will visit in London before returning home but Theodore will fly to Central America to join his mother, Mrs. E. C. Goossen, who is there doing some work on her thesis for her doctorate in anthropology.

Wedding In The Southland

Mr. and Mrs. James F. van Loben Sels of Carmel

Robert Hennigan Goes to USAFA

Robert Hennigan of Chico, grandson of Vesta A. Boudreau of Monterey, has been appointed to the Air Force Academy from the Second Congressional District.

The young man, who graduates this month from Chico High School, is rated as a Civil Air Patrol pilot and an Air Force small arms expert. In CAP he has served as squad commander and group cadet advisory council chairman. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Hennigan (Barbara Campbell), whose marriage was solemnized in June of 1946 in St. John's Chapel at Del Monte.

weekend fishing and visiting at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Olson in Oakland.

bigger, during Mr. Ingham's administration, which lasted until 1945. First, he selected an excellent teaching staff. Second, he started the first high school summer session in California, in 1934. Third, he pioneered in securing insurance for high school athletes, and later, for school pupils in general.

The summer session was noted for its fine instruction in marine biology and music. Philadelphia violinist Sascha Jacobinoff, conductor of one of the early Carmel Bach festivals, was one of the music instructors in those early days.

From 1945 to 1948 Mr. Ingham served as superintendent of the Pacific Grove schools, and in 1948 went back, in a sense, to one of his early interests, school athletics when he was appointed commissioner of high school athletics for all of California.

Now retired, though not really "retired" — he is on the county board of education — he and Mrs. Ingham live in Del Monte forest. At the moment though, they are embarking upon an interesting summer in New York City, having exchanged homes with a New York couple. As a life member of the National Education Assn., Mr. Ingham will attend meetings there and they will go to plays, concerts and, of course, the fair. "Last summer it was the Sierras; two years ago a trip to the officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Fort Ord Officers' Club.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. Cmdr. Robert R. McArthur and Mrs. McArthur, former Monterey residents who last week moved to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Robert McBurney of Pacific Grove are the bridegroom's parents.

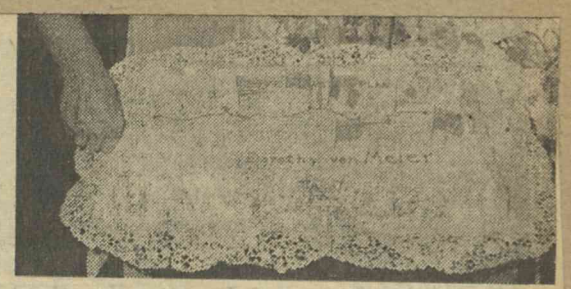

Mary Beth wore a street-length white lace dress and carried a prayer book trimmed with red roses and white carnations.

She was attended by Mrs. Virginia Lowell of Marina. Jack Williams of Seaside was best man, and Jerry Knutson of Monterey seated the guests.

The new Mrs. McBurney is a graduate of Monterey High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College during the fall 1964 semester.

Her husband attends MPC and works at the Seaside Safeway store.

The young couple are making their home at 825 Casanova Ave., Monterey.

(John R. Willian

Bon Voyage

"Travel Master Plan" was inscribed a cake frosted with a map of the wor and the route thereon that Mrs. Julian v
Meier, Carmel Planning Commissi chairman, will take on her forthcomi round-the-world trip. The bon voyage pa ty was given her last Sunday by Mr. a
Mrs. Floyd Adams of Carmel.

FOR YOUR BEST CAR
SEE
CHUCK PARS
at the
USED CAR LOT
ROLLER CHEVRO
375-6175

brooke elgie

natural light photograph children and young pe

your inquiry invited 373

LA PLAYA HOTEL
CARMEL

Dining wi
Continen flair
and a

"Les agradezco sinceramente el gran honor que tengo de haber sido elegida para La Favorita.

May you enjoy yourselves. And, viva Monterey."

Julie flew from the University of Oregon,

Monterey's Birthday Merienda-1965

Pictorial Peninsula Week-End

Monterey Marks 195th Year With Merienda

Seaside News Sentinel 6/9/65.

Camera Masters Photo

Governor Edmund Brown placing bracelet on wrist of the Monterey La Favorita, Miss Julie Campbell, with Sombrero topped Ted Durein looking on.

The Governor of the State, Monterey County and City Officials along with hundreds of Monterey Peninsula dignitaries and friends took part in the 195th cutting of the City of Monterey's Birthday Cake.

In a ceremony as unique as time, Governor Edmund G. Brown along with his wife played a prominent part in the Monterey Merienda, Saturday, June 5.

Here, in the Memory Garden, Governor Brown served as official escort to La Favorita, Miss Julie Campbell, daughter of Superior Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell of Carmel.

After Governor Brown presented La Favorite in the traditional manner, he placed a bracelet on her wrist.

The gathering broke into applause when La Duena was presented, Mrs. Josephine Fussell, 88 years young, who sent the applause meter racing when she said "Isn't it wonderful we can all be here today." La Duena, a native daughter, is still spending her nights in the same bedroom in which she was born.

Next to be presented were the Las Doncellas, the Misses Nancy Hilby and Patricia Porter.

Monterey's own, first woman Mayor, Minnie Coyle was next presented and she was dressed in the typical blacklace of the Old Spanish period.

In addition to the Governor, the honored guests included: Don Adolfo Dominquez, Mexican Consul General of San Francisco; Don Antonio Vidal-Gabas, Spanish Consul General of San Francisco; Major General Edwin H. J. Carns, Commanding General, Fort Ord; Rear Admiral E. J. O'Donnell, Superintendent, Naval Postgraduate School; Charles A. DeTurk, Chief-Division of Beaches and Parks; the Hon. Fred S. Farr, State Senator 25th District; and the Honorable Alan Pattee, State Assemblyman 34th District.

For the Ceremonia y Pastel de Cumpleanos (The Birthday Cake Ceremony) the cake, marking the 195th Birthday of Monterey was presented by Senorita Anita Doud. It was cut by the Governor's Lady, Mrs. E. B. Brown. Cake bearers were Senor Emmet McMenamin, Nino Todd Bliss and Nino Jeff Magyar.

The guests assembled at gay, red covered tables, bedecked with a riotous assortment of beautiful flowers, bunting, and flags.

One of the more attractive tables was arranged by Mrs. Christine Ferguson of Pacific Grove. On it was a card which listed the history of the Flags which have flown over Monterey since 1542.

They included: The Spanish Flag, 1542; The Argentina Flag and a Pirate Flag which flew in 1818; a Mexican Flag, 1822; and the American Flag and the California Bear Flag which have flown since 1846.

MPH 6/8/65

Farr Loses Big Sur Park Plea

SACRAMENTO — The Senate Finance Committee today refused to include funds for purchase of 2,140 acres of land at Big Sur for park purposes in the Senate's version of the 1965-66 state budget.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, pleaded in vain for inclusion of the funds for an expansion of Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park.

But Finance Chairman George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, told Farr that the committee had too much work to make any more changes.

Meanwhile, in another legislative matter of importance to Monterey County, the Senate Committee on Local Government tomorrow will hear Farr's request for an amendment to allow formation of a smog control district before a smog condition exists.

Smog Control

Committee Aim

The legislation has been sought by the Committee to Form an Air Pollution Control District, headed by A. G. (Tim) Michaud of Pebble Beach. The proposed bill relates to Humble Oil Co.'s request for a refinery at Moss Landing.

Following the Senate Finance Committee hearing today, Farr told of his disappointment at the committee's action on the Big Sur project.

He said the Assembly also has refused to include funds for the acreage, formerly part of the Molera Ranch, in its budget version.

Farr said he will make another pitch for the funds when Senate and Assembly leaders hold a joint budget conference in a few days.

Magnificent Site

Farr told the committee that the Molera property represents one of the most magnificent recreational sites in California with its fine streams and several miles of seacoast.

He said that 50,000 people were turned away from Big Sur last year and that 85 per cent of these were from Southern California. He said that Big Sur is only an hour's drive for more than 100,000 people and only a day's drive for several million.

Funds for Pfeiffer Expected

MPH 6/12/65

SACRAMENTO — There still is a good chance of getting funds restored in the state budget to permit expansion of Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra, said today.

Pattee and State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, attended a conference committee meeting on the budget yesterday where they made a plea for restoration of funds to buy the 2,140 acre Molera Ranch which includes 3 miles of ocean frontage at Big Sur.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter, D-Los Angeles, a member of the conference committee, told Farr and Pattee that of all the beaches and parks he thought the Big Sur expansion was the one for which the state should appropriate.

Pattee again said he thought one reason the funds for acquiring 14 parks were cut from the budget was the poor manner of presentation by the division of beaches and parks.

"They did not give the legislature a true study of the feasibility," Pattee said of the division's presentation.

Twenty days ago Pattee said Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, had told him he expected the expansion of Big Sur to get back into the budget and that Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, told him curtailment of funds may simply be part of a Democratic strategy move.

Pattee also reported he managed to get on the consent calendar this morning a proposal that will start a feasibility study on a shellfish hatchery in Monterey as proposed by Monterey County Supervisor Andy Anderson of Seaside. The assemblyman said the study is to be made by the State Department of Fish and Game. He said a shellfish hatchery would be the beginning of a good industry.

In other business, the assemblyman said $900,000 has been restored in the Department of Agriculture budget for inspections.

Big Sur Park Fund Restored

Herald Cal 6/19/65

SACRAMENTO—A joint Senate-Assembly conference committee late Thursday night restored $2,210,000 to the 1965-66 budget for purchase of 2,500 acres near the mouth of the Big Sur River for a state park.

State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D.-Carmel, and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, R.-Salinas, both argued for restoration of the park purchase money, which earlier had been cut out of the budget.

The property is owned by The Nature Conservancy, an organization which purchases scenic areas for eventual sale to public agencies as parks and wild areas. The state may not purchase the property until the death of Miss Frances M. Molera, who sold it to The Nature Conservancy.

The park is to be known as the Andrew Molera State Park, after Miss Molera's late brother.

Sen. Farr said that the conference committee was pretty tight-fisted about restoring budget cuts made by the two houses of the legislature, and that getting money appropriated for purchase of the Molera property was "a doggone tough fight" for both Assemblyman Pattee and himself.

MPH 6/18/65

Big Sur Park Funds Reinstated

SACRAMENTO — Reinstatement of funds to buy a portion of the Molera ranch for expansion of Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park was approved by a joint committee of the legislature today, Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, reported.

Farr said both he and Assemblyman Alan Pattee appeared before a free conference committee of the Senate and Assembly that finally adjourned at 5 a.m. today. He said they were successful in their appeal to have the funds put back in the budget for park purchases.

The proposal is for the state to acquire 2,140 acres adjoining Big Sur State Park on the north, recently bought from the Molera ranch by the Nature Conservancy to hold until state funds are available.

Farr said the budget now will go to the Assembly and he is hopeful for its approval there.

In another legislative matter, Farr said his bill to permit formation of an air pollution district before the existence of pollution has been proved is on the governor's desk for signature. It is in the form of an amendment to a catch-all administrative bill making certain changes in health and welfare legislation.

Farr Sees No Chance Of Changing Highway

State Sen. Fred Farr said today that there is no chance that the Salinas-Monterey highway or California Highway 1 from Carmel Hill to the Carmel River bridge will be removed from the state freeway system this year or next.

Farr and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee are scheduled to discuss the matter with the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in Salinas next Monday. Two supervisors— chairman Tom Hudson of Point Lobos and Beauford (Andy) Anderson of Seaside— would like to see the two highways taken out of the freeway system.

Farr said he has been advised by the state's Legislative Counsel that highways can be removed from freeway system by the Legislature, not by the State Highway Commission.

And, of course, the 1965 legislative session ends tomorrow. The next general session is scheduled in 1967.

Farr pointed out that California 1 from Malpaso Creek to the San Luis Obispo County line is the only official scenic highway in California, but that a freeway can, in fact, be designated— and actually look like — a scenic highway.

Farr also said that his resolution to establish a marine research laboratory to be operated jointly by the state colleges of northern California and the Beaudet Foundation at Moss Landing has won Senate approval. Herald Cal 6/17/65

Farr's Bill Will Aid Classroom Television

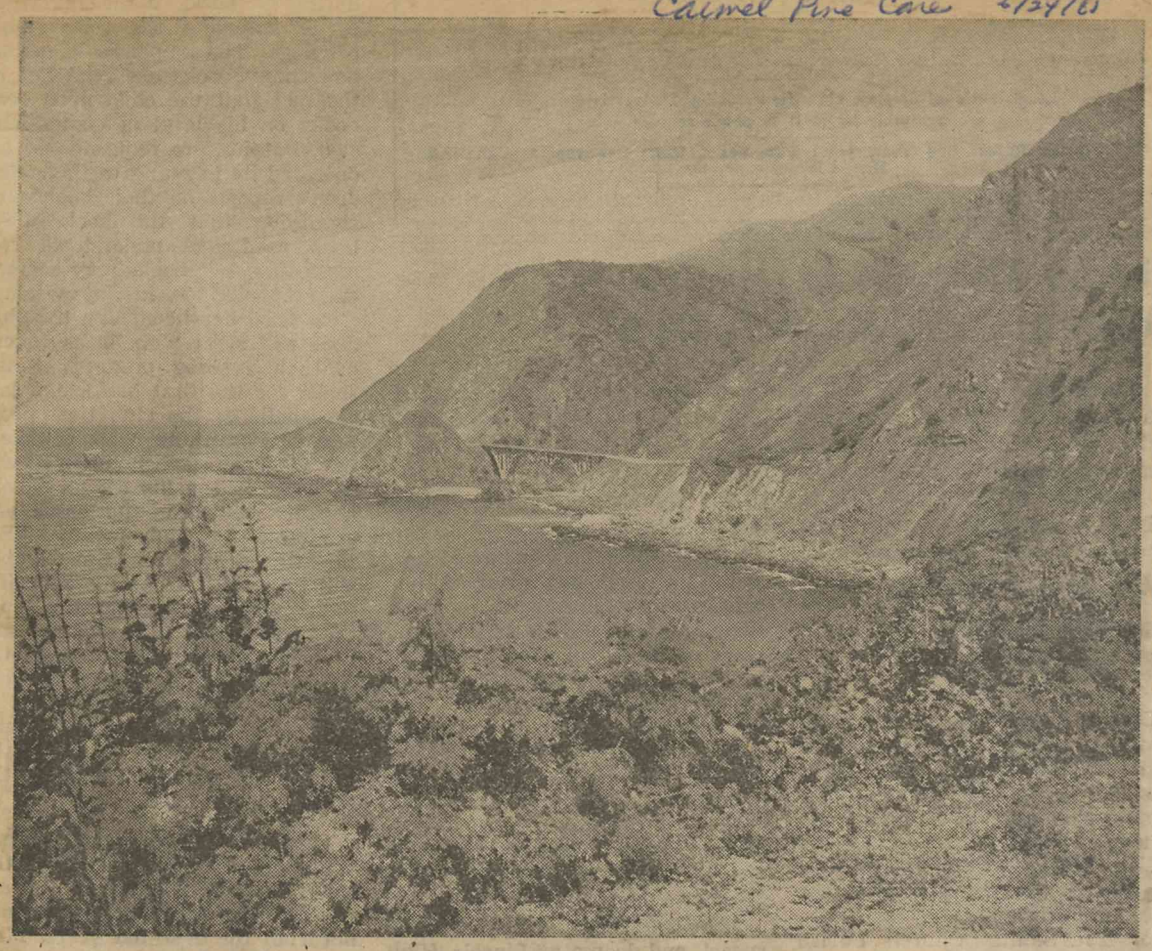

Several bills authored by Sen. Fred S. Farr have been passed by the Assembly in the last couple of days and are on the governor's desk.

Senate Bill 365 will enable California to make a major break-through for instructional television in the classroom by providing up to one-half of the local school district cost in producing instructional television programs.

It presently cost a local school district approximately one dollar per year per classroom viewer.

Herald Bee 6/23/65

Carmel Pine Cone 6/24/65

The stretch of coastline pictured above shows the bridge over Big Creek 50 miles south of Carmel on Highway One. From Carmel River to the San Luis Obispo County line, this road is the first official unit of California's State Scenic Highway System. This designation and that of future scenic highways depends, among other criteria, upon local governing bodies passing appropriate zoning and other regulations to insure the attractiveness of roads that will be preserved for future generations.

It is fitting that the coastal portion of Highway One in Monterey County should be honored by being the first unit of the state's scenic highway system. This county took the lead in preserving highway beauty. Five years ago, Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson proposed to save Highway One south of Carmel from despoliation by having it designated as a linear national park. As a result, the county's planning staff worked on the project. This study, coupled with the county's master plan for the coast, prepared with the help of Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur, led to appropriate zoning to preserve the coastal portion of Highway One in Monterey County.

The national park project for the coast road was abandoned when, in 1960, State Senator Fred Farr of Carmel, using for a basis the work done by this county, sponsored a pilot study for establishing a scenic highway system in California. The state legislature authorized such a study. Planning, design and conservation problems associated with the development of such a system were investigated and resulted in the adoption of a master plan for a statewide system of scenic highways last year.

On June 11, John Erreca, state director of public works, declared the 72 miles of Highway One south of Carmel River to be the first officially designated unit of the California State Scenic System.

The pioneering efforts of Monterey County and Senator Farr were thus rewarded, and as a consequence California "has pioneered the concept that a state be concerned with the preservation of the scenic values visible from its highways," Mr. Erreca said when he announced the scenic highway designation for our coast road.

Coast Road Now Scenic Highway

State Director of Public Works John Erreca, on June 11, declared Route 1 in Monterey County, between the San Luis Obispo County line and the Carmel River, to be the first officially designated unit of California's State Scenic Highway System.

The 72-mile stretch of Route 1 along the Pacific Coast which was honored by this action was the subject of the pilot study authorized in 1960 and sponsored by Senator Fred Farr of Carmel.

"This start in officially adopting routes in California's Scenic Highway System is particularly timely," Erreca said, "following as it does the White House conference of last month on natural beauty."

Senator Farr was a speaker at this conference which was also attended by Will Shaw of Carmel Highlands.

Carmel Pine Cone 4/17/65

MPH 6/9/65

Coast Route State's First Scenic Highway

SACRAMENTO — John Erreca, state director of public works, yesterday declared Highway 1 between Carmel River and the San Luis Obispo County line to be the first official state scenic highway in California.

In taking the action, Erreca affirmed a recommendation of the Advisory Committee on a Master Plan for Scenic Highways, made in Sacramento on May 27.

Erreca said, "I congratulate Monterey County on having the first official state scenic highway in California, in fact, the first of its kind in the nation."

He also said the committee took into account "that this scenic route conformed to the criteria and standards for a scenic highway as adopted by the committee. The committee noted also that the Cabrillo Highway served as a prototype study of what was necessary in developing a scenic highway."

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, wrote legislation leading to authorization for a system of scenic highways in California.

Farr recently said that Gov. Edmund G. Brown and other federal and state officials will be invited to the official dedication of Highway 1 as a scenic highway.

Sen. Grunsky Forecasts '66 Election Contest With Farr

Sal Cal 6/24/65

State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky told the Salinas Valley Republican Assembly Wednesday night that unless the United States Constitution is amended he'll be running for re-election next year in a district that includes Monterey County.

The Watsonville Republican, chairman of the Senate's Education and Judiciary committees and a veteran of 19 years in the Legislature, spoke at the community room of the Salinas Valley Savings and Loan Association building.

Grunsky, whose 23rd Senatorial District includes Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties, said it appears likely that he and Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, may be locking horns for election in 1966.

The Senate is under court order to reapportion itself on a population basis by July 1, but the two houses of the Legislature failed to agree on a reapportionment bill, although Grunsky voted for both. He said that a federal court, or a court-appointed master, is going to have to draw new senatorial district boundaries.

"A Wonderful District"

Grunsky explained that both the Senate and Assembly reapportionment bills lumped Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties together in one new district. Such a district, he said, probably wouldn't have enough population to win court approval. The addition of San Luis Obispo County to the district would make it "deal," Grunsky said. "It would be a wonderful district, and I'd like to represent it," he said.

One reason that such a district didn't appear on the Senate reapportionment plan is that Republican Sen. Vernon Sturgeon of Paso Robles sat on the committee which drew it up. "The last thing Sturgeon wants to do is run against me for re-election," Grunsky said.

What Grunsky really wants in the way of reapportionment is no reapportionment of the Senate at all. And if the Dirksen Amendment to the U.S. Constitution — permitting apportionment of one house of a bicameral legislature on bases other than population — passes Congress and is ratified by the California electorate, he'll get his wish.

"The longer the delay, the better chance we have to get the Constitutional amendment through," he said. "If that happens, I'll still be your visiting Senator from across the county line."

Favors Special Session

Grunsky said he is in favor of the special legislative session that Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown proposes to call in order to balance the 1965-66 state budget. He said that a six-cents-per-pack tax increase on cigarettes will bring in an additional $130 million in revenue and that another $13 million can be raised by a tax on leased personal property. He favors both. They will balance the budget.

The budget cuts proposed as an alternative to new taxes would be excruciatingly painful to most areas of California, Grunsky said.

Grunsky said that California's tax system cries out for responsible reform, but that the time to make the reforms is when the Republican party controls both houses of the Legislature.

Grunsky was introduced by Pacific Grove businessman Stephen G. Magyar, who was the Republican candidate for State Senate in 1964. Salinas attorney Jan Walker gave a report on the recent Young Republican national convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

State Sen. Grunsky Sets Salinas Speech

Sal Cal 6/21/65

State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, will be the speaker Wednesday, when the Salinas Chapter of the California Republican Assembly hosts a spaghetti dinner for members and friends.

The 7 o'clock dinner will be served in the Salinas Valley Savings and Loan community room. Reservations may be made by Monday by calling Norman Kerns, 424-3378.

Senator Grunsky is chairman of the senate judiciary committee and is a member of the senate committee on insurance and financial institutions, education, revenue and taxation. He has served as chairman of the senate fact-finding committee on education since 1959.

He was appointed chairman of the joint legislative committee for revision of the penal code this session and is the senate appointee to the judicial council.

The legislator has represented Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties in the state legislature since 1947, when he was first elected to the assembly. He served in the lower house until 1952, when he was elected to the senate.

Sen. Donald L. Grunsky

Reapportion Amendments Are Defeated

SACRAMENTO — The State Senate, by a vote of 31-7, rejected Assembly amendments to a reapportionment bill that would have given Southern California three more Senators shortly before noon today.

The deadlock over Senate reapportionment will cause the whole matter to be referred to a joint Senate-House conference committee. The Senate is under court order to reapportion itself on a population basis by July 1.

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, voted "no" on the Assembly amendments. Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, who represents Santa Cruz County, voted "yes."

Farr and Grunsky will, in all likelihood, be opponents in the race for the reapportioned Senate seat which is to include Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Luis Opispo counties.

Farr told the Californian he voted no "because the integrity of the Senate was at stake. . . There is no reason why we should accept a bill written by Southern California." Further, he said, approval of the Assembly amendments would have jeopardized the chance for Congressional passage of a constitutional amendment offered by Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen to permit election of one house of a state legislature from districts drawn up on bases other than population alone.

Farr said he feared that the whole matter might wind up in the courts.

Sal Cal 6/17/65

S. J. Mercury

Grunsky Sees Race With Farr

6/25/65

SALINAS—State Sen. Donald L. Grunsky (R-Watsonville) predicts he will face Fred Farr in a contest to represent Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties in 1966.

Farr, a Carmel Democrat, now represents Monterey County while Grunsky represents Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties.

Grunsky, who spoke here this week, said a contest between him and Farr was probable unless the U.S. Constitution is amended to eliminate the reapportionment orders of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Senate has been ordered to reapportion its districts on a population basis by July 1 but the assembly and senate have failed to agree on a bill.

Grunsky said a federal court or court-appointed master is going to be saddled with the job of drawing new district boundaries.

The Watsonville Republican also said a combination of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties probably would not contain sufficient population to meet with court approval.

He said adding San Luis Obispo County "would make a wonderful district."

Grunsky accused Sen. Vernon Sturges (R-Paso Robles) of blocking addition of San Luis Obispo to the district during committee hearings.

"The last thing Sturges wants to do is run against me for re-election," Grunsky said.

Grunsky admitted he would prefer no reapportionment at all.

"The longer we delay, the better chance we have of getting a constitutional amendment" which will permit a state with two houses to have one on a basis other than population.

Seaside News Sentinel 6/23/65

State Senator Fred S. Farr addresses Marina citizens and visitors at the Silver Shovel Ground Breaking ceremonies in Marina. Camera Masters Photo

MPH 6/22/65

Senator Congratulates

State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel congratulates Marina upon its Marina Village Shopping Center as heavy earthmoving equipment in background sits poised for action. Also attending yesterday's ceremony and offering his congratulations was Assemblyman Alan Pattee of Corral de Tierra.

Senator Farr, Peninsula Mayors And Editors Invited To Valley Synchronized Swimming Meet

Pine Cone 6/24/65

Synchronized swimmers from all over Northern California will converge on the Carmel Valley Community Pool this Friday night in preparation for the 1965 Pacific Association AAU Outdoor Novice Synchronized Swimming Championships, which will be hosted by the Cypress Swim Club.

The public is invited to the meet at no charge, and the schedule is as follows: 8:00 a.m.—coaches, judges, and officials meet at poolside — 8:30 a.m. — preliminary routine competition in solos, duets, and teams — 2:30 p.m.—stunt competition — 6:00 p.m.—final routine competition in solos, duets, and teams followed by presentation of awards.

Awards will be presented by Senator Fred Farr of Carmel. In addition to Senator Farr, the mayors of all Peninsula cities, and editors of all newspapers, are invited as guests of honor. School officials from the Carmel Unified School District have also been invited.

Entries from the Cypress Swim Club will include Jan and Sharon Roehl, with their duet entitled, "Fiddle-Faddle," and in team competition, two routines—"Toy Soldiers on Parade" featuring Bonnie Banker, Susan Blandin, Lindy Doud, Marnie Mark, Sheila McClain, Kathy Neill, Joann Padjen, and Susan Selfridge; and "Cotillion Waltz," with Sandy Avis, Lynn Campbell, Margaret Demarest, Jan Roehl, Sharon Roehl, and Judy Snyder.

Telegrams Urge Special Session Of Legislature

Sal Cal 6/25/65

A telegram sent Wednesday to Gov. Edmund Brown might have spurred his calling the state legislature into special session today, it was learned here. The telegram was sent by State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Monterey County, in behalf of the more than 1,200 state employes of the county.

"I feel the elimination of most important state employes' salary increase would be a great tragedy and that many other vital programs will be eliminated unless the legislature assumes fiscal responsibility by providing the income to support the budget," Senator Farr wired Brown in Sacramento.

Farr's telegram was sent on the heels of another, which was sent from here and containing the names of nearly all California Highway Patrolmen in the Salinas area command. Capt. Francis F. Simmons, area commander, was the first man to sign the telegram, sent to the governor, urging that he take steps to restore pay increases for the state's employes which were eliminated at the last minute by drastic budget cuts.

MPH 6/23/65

Farr Ready For Special Session

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today said he is ready and willing to return to Sacramento for a special session of the legislature in an attempt to balance the new state budget.

Farr said that he and other legislators today received word from Gov. Edmund G. Brown that the governor does not want to sign the present budget bill which involves a $140 million deficit.

The senator said the governor has three choices: 1—to "blue-line" (veto) certain items; 2 — to sign the deficit budget in the hope that revenues will equal expenditures and 3 — to call a special session.

Farr said he favors the special session because "I think we should face up to our financial responsibilities."

Farr said he was keenly interested in protecting several items now in the budget including $275,000 for capital improvement at Julia Pfeiffer Burns Park at Big Sur and $800,000 for educational TV which he said will be of direct benefit to many Monterey County schoolchildren.

The senator said Brown wrote he would not accept "the invitation to fiscal irresponsibility offered by the speaker of the State Assembly (Jesse M. Unruh)."

MPH 6/22/65

'Scenic Freeway' Seen For Salinas Highway

By STAN CLOUD

SALINAS — The word "freeway" — so long an unmentionable on the Monterey Peninsula and elsewhere — was admitted with reservations to polite society yesterday at the highway planning meeting held in the chambers of the board of supervisors.

For perhaps the first time, there seemed to be almost unanimous agreement among representatives of various areas and prejudices in Monterey County that the freeway is here to stay and that the task which lies ahead is making these super highways meet the needs of the population instead of the other way around.

Specifically, and with only a few exceptions, the participants in the discussion went on record as favoring freeway development on the Salinas-Monterey Highway and on Highway 1 between Carmel Hill and the mouth of the Carmel Valley, provided natural beauty is protected.

The only matter which divided those at the meeting — and it remained a significant division — was the design treatment to be afforded the two highways.

Unanimous

The two-hour meeting, attended by perhaps 75 persons, concluded with the supervisors voting unanimously to favor acquisition of land along the Salinas - Monterey Highway route for freeway construction, but contingent upon of a freeway agreement for the final portion of the road into Monterey.

Opening remarks were delivered by board chairman Tom Hudson, who said he hoped to clarify his position on the question of including the Salinas-Monterey Highway in the state scenic highway system.

Noting what he called "misunderstandings and misapprehensions" by the Salinas City Council over his proposals, Hudson said, "I have at no time ever suggested that it (the highway) come out of the state highway system."

What he did suggest, Hudson said, was that the highway be given "special status as a parkway or scenic road."

(According to press accounts and official board minutes, Hudson did, however, at the May 3 meeting of the supervisors recommend that the Salinas-Monterey Highway be removed from the state freeway system.

(A story which appeared in The Herald of March 19 reported that he made a similar recommendation to the Monterey City Council.

(He apparently then was making a distinction between the state's highway and freeway systems. Since that time, he has publically accepted the proposed freeway development of the highway, in in principle, but has continued to insist upon "special treatment.")

His main concerns at this point, Hudson said, are: the location of the proposed freeway, the elimination of some of its 11 interchanges and controls over design and landscaping. He noted that the original freeway agreement was approved by the board over his objection.

Similar Views

Supervisors Arthur Atteridge of Salinas, Harold Henry of King City and Andy Anderson of Seaside all expressed similar views to those which Hudson presented yesterday. Each of them spoke in favor of freeway development with consideration given the scenic qualities of the Salinas - Monterey Highway.

Both State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Assemblyman Alan Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra, who attended the meeting at Hudson's invitation, also said they favor freeway construction in the area.

Farr predicted that a plan to have the Salinas - Monterey Highway designated a scenic highway would not come before the State Legislature before the next general session in 1967.

A bill placing the highway in the scenic highway system — which is little more than a master plan for possible "scenic" designations — has already been passed by the legislature. The bill currently is on the governor's desk for his signature.

No Request

Farr said he is unaware of any request that the Hatton Canyon portion of the Peninsula freeway be included in the system.

Later in the meeting, Farr and Pattee insisted that the key to a scenic highway is not the highway itself, but the surrounding landscape. They urged thoughtful planning of the area near the Salinas - Monterey Highway and recommended that "honky tonk" developments be prohibited. Farr had praise for the Division of Highways which he said has been a "whipping boy".

Robert Datel, district engineer for the Division of Highways, made a lengthy presentation to the board in which he said at one point, "freeways are not incompatible with scenic highways."

Noting that, so far, only one highway in the state — Highway 1 from south of Carmel to San Luis Obispo, which is not in the freeway system, — has been designated a "scenic highway" — Datel said, "in my opinion many of the miles of freeways in this state are scenic highways."

He showed photographs of various freeways in California to illustrate his point.

"A decision not to build these routes (between Salinas and Monterey and in Hatton Canyon) would not be in the best interest of the user, the guy who's paying into this," Datel said.

He presented new plans for the Hatton Canyon portion of the Peninsula freeway which provide for a median which grows larger as the freeway progresses through the canyon. This plan will make it possible "to maintain some of the existing foliage," he said, predicting that "scars" from construction will disappear in a few years.

Protecting Beauty

Regarding the Salinas - Monterey Highway, Datel said that natural beauty in the area can be protected by providing separated road beds, by minimizing "scarring," by using contour grading and by replanting trees.

The result, he said, will be "a pretty good-looking highway 10 years after it's over."

He pointed out that both Highway 1 and the Salinas-Monterey Highway are included in the master plan for the state's scenic highway system.

According to Datel, the most important argument for a freeway, however, is that it is the safest type of road. For example, he said, in the past five years 19 people have been killed on the Salinas - Monterey Highway and, if the highway remains unchanged, 23 will be killed in the next five years based on the predicted number of cars which will be using the road.

This number of predicted fatalities could be reduced to 11 if a freeway were built, he said.

Cost of Study

He argued, too, that if freeway plans were dropped now, $540,000 which has been spent for engineering studies would be wasted.

Summarizing, Datel said the "key factors" of freeway construction are "safety, economy, utility and beauty."

"I do not believe that a controlled access highway — a freeway — will compromise the natural beauty of these areas," he said.

Hudson responded to Datel's new plans for the Hatton Canyon freeway by saying, "No matter how much planting you're going to do, you're not going to get that forest back the way it is."

Several residents of the area also asked that further studies be made to determine an alternate method of development.

Other Peninsula residents also urged that the proposed Salinas - Monterey Highway end at the municipal dump and that an expressway be used to carry traffic into Monterey.

Alton Walker of the airport district board of directors said such a plan would allow the airport sufficient land for future development and also would give customers better access to the airport.

Mayor Lawrence Struve of Salinas, representing what he called "the unanimous opinion of the city council," told the board that "there is very little scenic value left to be saved." He recommended immediate construction of the Salinas - Monterey freeway.

Division

Robert Beck, chairman of the Scenic Highway Advisory Committee, said his committee is divided 4-2, but that the majority is concerned that "if this (Salinas - Monterey freeway) is built to freeway standards the scenery will not be preserved."

Eugene Cuva told the board he is one of the two members of Beck's committee who recommend immediate freeway construction.

Finally, Assemblyman Pattee recommended that a Peninsula Highway Advisory Committee, similar to that in existence for the Salinas Valley, be formed to consider overall highway planning.

Caution Urged on Scenic Road Plan

Sal Cal 6/22/65

A freeway can be a scenic route, and the Salinas-Monterey Highway is no exception, a near capacity crowd was informed Monday at a public hearing held by the Board of Supervisors.

But caution was urged by— [illegible] that could possibly occur would be at the 1967 general session.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Assemblyman Alan Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra, to control development of "honky tonk" subdivisions adjacent to the highway.

"If you have honky tonk developments along the highway you're not going to have a scenic highway," Sen. Farr told about 100 people, mostly from the Monterey peninsula.

Pattee Agrees

Pattee was in agreement: "You've got to be very stringent with developments;" he said. "It's no good to look out on cheap developments."

The two legislators were guests at the hearing called by Monterey peninsula Supervisor Thomson Hudson, who sought exclusion of the highway from the state freeway system.

In contradiction, however, Hudson said he has never favored removing the highway from the freeway system. Monday he modified his position, stating such removal was not necessary if the highway can be treated as a scenic route with control by Monterey County.

OK's Recommendations

In simultaneous action the board, on the motion of Supervisor Arthur Atteridge of Salinas, adopted recommendations of the Salinas Valley Highway Advisory Committee asking for a continued study of the highway design and commencement of rights of way acquisition.

(State Division of Highways District Engineer Robert Datel told the board no funds have been provided in next year's budget for rights of way purchasing.)

Sen. Farr specifically repeated for the board and audience the much publicized advise that a freeway can only be taken out of the state system by act of legislature, and the next time

SCENIC Page 3, Col. 3

In speaking on control of "corridors" along the highway, Sen. Farr said criteria for a scenic highway is controlled by the Scenic Highway System and the Department of Public Works.

For the Salinas-Monterey Highway (California 68) to qualify as a scenic highway there must be controls on land adjacent to it, including subdivision developments and billboard construction.

He called for a dual responsibility on highway control between local and state governments, and cited California 1, the coast highway, as an example of a scenic highway. It is the state's only official state scenic highway.

Datel, in a prepared presentation to the board, said the state considers the Salinas-Monterey Highway a freeway, and at the same time has treated it as a scenic route.

Sen. Farr added that a bill is now before Gov. Edmund Brown, seeking inclusion of the highway in the state scenic system, which would not necessarily make it official.

The senator advised: "A highway just because it goes through a scenic area doesn't make it a scenic highway."

As for scenery Salinas Mayor Lawrence Struve went on the attack when he said there was very little scenery left between Salinas and Monterey.

"A freeway would not destroy what's left," the freely speaking mayor said.

He listed a four-point plan urged by the Salinas City Council, which is:

1—Make the highway four lanes and retain it in the freeway system.

2—Have limited access control.

3—Make it as scenic "as possible."

4—No delay.

"It's been the history on the Monterey peninsula that things have been delayed. . . .you have too many experts over there," Struve said. He said it was time to follow the recommendations of the state Division of Highways.

Sen. Farr suggested: "The thing to do is work with the Division of Highways and Monterey County Planning Commission. When they get through it will be a safe and beautiful highway."

State Sen. Fred Farr Sets Conservation Speech

Sal Cal 6/24/65

State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D.-Carmel, will speak on the topic "How Good Conservation Practices Pay Dividends" at a banquet being held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Franco Hotel in Castroville.

The banquet, sponsored by the Castroville Health and Safety Committee, is being held in conjunction with observance of the Clean-Up Month of July in Castroville. The public is invited to attend, and the charge will be $2.75 per plate.

The program agenda includes invocation by the Very Rev. Msgr. Vincent Richards, introduction of Health and Safety Committee members and dignitaries, and a statement of the purposes and accomplishments of this committee by Walter Wong, committee president.

"The Importance of Community Beautification" will also be discussed.

The Castroville Health and Safety Committee is represented by the following civic organizations: Castroville Chamber of Commerce, Castroville Fire District, County Health Department, County Building Department, County Planning Commission and Castroville Parent Teachers Association.

Sen. Farr Will Speak At Castroville Banquet

State Sen. Fred S. Farr will be guest speaker at a banquet being held by the Castroville Beautification Committee next Friday evening at the Franco Hotel in Castroville.

The subject of his speech will be "How Good Conservation Practices Pay Dividends." The banquet, being held in conjunction with Clean-Up month in Castroville to be observed in July, is open to the public. Charge will be $2.75 per plate, and the banquet begins at 7:30 p. m.

Civic organizations sponsoring the banquet include the Castroville Chamber of Commerce, Castroville Fire Department and Castroville PTA, with the cooperation of the Monterey County building and health departments.

Plan Fesitval To Celebrate 20th U.N. Anniversary

Pine Cone 6/17/65

International entertainment celebrating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations will be a feature of the U.N. Festival scheduled for June 27 at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. State Senator Fred Farr of Carmel will conduct the opening ceremonies at 1:30 p.m.

Displays will set forth the organization and purposes of the U.N. and its specialized agencies. The First Methodist Church of Pacific Grove will present the work of the Food and Agricultural Organization; the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey that of the International Civil Aeronautics Organization.

The Universal Postal Union will be interpreted by the Pacific Grove Post Office and the Human Rights Commission by the American Civil Liberties Union, Monterey Peninsula Branch. The local chapter of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF will present the work of that agency.

Refreshments, films, and a session of the model U.N. put on by high school students will supplement the songs and dances from many lands.

Sponsoring groups include the newly formed Peninsula chapter of the United Nations Association, the Monterey Peninsula Ministerial Association, the Monterey Unitarian Church, the Monterey Peninsula Peace Center, and local units of the Friends' Meeting, the League of Women Voters and the World Affairs Council.

U.N. Anniversary Festival Sunday At Fairgrounds

Pine Cone 6/24/65

Songs and dances of Mexico, Egypt, China, Japan and the Philippine Islands will highlight the United Nations Twentieth Anniversary Festival to be held Sunday afternoon in the Exhibition Hall at the Monterey County fairgrounds. The public is invited to attend without charge and encouraged to wear the national costume of any country.

The local celebration echoes a huge assemblage in San Francisco this weekend marking the same occasion, which will be attended by President Lyndon B. Johnson and dignitaries from all over the world.

Local officials who will address the group at the fairgrounds include State Senator Fred Farr, Supervisor Tom Hudson, Mayor Wilson of Del Rey Oaks, Mayor Pattulo of Seaside and a personal representative of Mayor Coyle of Monterey. Mayor Blanks of Carmel expressed his interest and support for the festival but regretted that his schedule would not permit him to attend. Assemblyman Alan Pattee also sent an enthusiastic response, regretting the previous plans would prevent his coming.

A special exhibit of materials from the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) will include the sale of note paper designed by famous artists and the 1966 engagement calendar for early shoppers.

Movies, displays and refreshments in a setting of flags of all nations will round out the afternoon.

Peninsula Notes U.N.'s Birthday

MPH 6/28/65

By TOM WIEDER

More than 400 Peninsulans crowded into the exhibit hall of the county fairgrounds in Monterey yesterday to celebrate the 20th birthday of the United Nations.

The festivities, sponsored by the United Nations Association's new Peninsula chapter, included commemorative speeches, exhibits, entertainment and nearly a dozen pickets.

The latter, who said they represented only themselves and no particular organization, stood silently outside the door of the big hall, holding signs bearing familiar messages and proferring leaflets to passers-by.

The signs demanded the answers to such questions as "What About Katanga's Right of Self-Determination?" and "Why Do the Soviets Have Three Votes in the General Assembly?"

See pictures on Page Five.

Before the festivities started, visitors circled the interior of the flag-decked hall to inspect exhibits, consisting mostly of stacks of pamphlets, telling of such world-wide groups as the World Health Organization, UNESCO, Food and Agricultural Organization, Universal Postal Service (UPU), International Labor Organization and UNICEF, to name a few. UNICEF members handled the bulk of arrangements of yesterday's festival.

Silent Prayer

Rev. George E. Ridgway, president of the sponsoring group, opened the formal portion of the afternoon by leading the audience in the pledge of allegiance to the American Flag and calling for a moment of silent prayer for world peace.

Then came the reading of congratulatory letters and telegrams from Peninsula mayors, nearly all of whom happened to be out of town. An exception was Mayor James Wilson of Del Rey Oaks.

Wilson called the occasion a memorable and historic one and added, "There has not been a substitute proposed by those who say the U.N. is not doing the job it's supposed to do."

Main Address

After Rev. Perry Swann explained the various exhibits that lined the walls, sponsored by dozens of civic, labor church and business organizations and private individuals, State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel delivered the main address.

Farr noted that since the UN Charter was signed in San Francisco in 1945 a new generation has been born into the world, one which has seen the emergence of nuclear power, men in outer space and the continuance of global unrest.

"We live in a world that is becoming smaller day by day. We have no choice but to keep the lines of communication open . . . Without the United Nations there would be no place to turn for mediation and pacification," he said.

Encouraging Steps

Farr said the UN has fostered such encouraging steps as the nuclear test ban treaty and agreement to place no nuclear weapons in outer space and done such valuable work through its member agencies.

Among the latter, he singled out the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) which, Farr pointed out, relies not on assessments but on voluntary contributions from governments and private individuals.

Under UNICEF, he said, 31 million children have been protected from malaria and 162 million from tuberculosis, while 37 million have been cured of yaws and a million of leprosy.

'Spread Gospel'

Farr said the most important thing its supporters can do for the U.N. is "spread the gospel" on its purposes and agencies.

"The United Nations, being human, isn't perfect," the senator acknowledged, "but I'd hate to see that particular forum taken from the field of human endeavor. I'd hate to see what the world would be like without it."

Before introducing an elaborate program of swirling, stomping folk dancers in native costumes and other internationally - flavored entertainment, Joseph Broadman, a Carmel teacher, likened the U.N. to a teen-ager.

Each, Broadman said, is awkward, noisy, argumentative, always broke, forward - looking, ritualistic, serious and friendly. And each, he said, hopes to correct the ills of the world.

Top Speaker

State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, the principal speaker, contended that our world has grown too small and complex to be without the mediatory and peace-making functions of the United Nations. "Without the U.N., there would be no place to turn . . ." Farr said.

Timber Industry Defends Stand On Redwood

Friday, July 2, 1965 — page 5
Arcata Union, Arcata, California

A spokesman of the timber industry replied this week to a charge by State Senator Fred Farr of Monterey county that the industry influenced the defeat of a resolution calling for federal establishment of a redwood national park in the North Coast area.

John Callaghan, Sacramento, secretary-treasurer of the California Forest Protective association, said this week that Farr's charge "ignores the interest" of the 175,000 people in Del Norte and Humboldt counties where 70-80 percent of the economy is based on lumber.

Callaghan stated that the industry is coverting from primarily a saw timber economy based on large old growth to one based on a diversified products base.

However, he noted that development of the industry needs to be assured of a good supply of raw material.

Callaghan reported that most of the best groves of redwoods are already in state parks.

"Large government expenditures for acquisition of less than top quality park lands would be poor public policy," he said.

"If the outstanding groves of redwoods are already preserved and the recreation economy can be developed with only limited public acquisitions", asked Callaghan, "why jeopardize the North Coast job producing industry by taking large additional forest acres out of production?"

Callaghan stated that better access and more development of recreational facilities in existing state parks with only small additions of redwood land is the primary governmental need for increasing tourism in the area.

Callaghan charged that the division of beaches and parks affirmed his stand that most of the good groves are preserved when it only advocated inclusion of 6,544 acres of virgin redwoods in state parks and reported that "this is the plan for all time".

Sac Bee 6/19/65

Three Farr Bills Clear State Assembly

Three bills authored by State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, cleared the Assembly this week and now are on their way to the Governor's desk to be signed into law.

One bill provides state financing for half the cost to a local school district in producing instructional television programs. Farr said that it presently costs school districts about a dollar per year per classroom viewer for instructional television.

Another Farr bill revises the Local Planning and Zoning section of the State Planning Law. It updates and simplifies the law and removes many ambiguities from it.

The third bill establishes the concept of a "parkway" in the Streets and Highways Code. (A parkway is an elongated park road designated for pleasure travel, together with roadside recreational facilities.)

Sac Bee 6/3/65

Timber Aide Replies To State Solon

The forest products industry has replied to a charge by State Senator Fred Farr of Monterey County that the industry influenced the defeat by the senate of SJR 29 calling for federal establishment of a redwood national park on the north coast.

John Callaghan, of Sacramento, secretary - treasurer of the California Forest Protective Association, today said Farr's charge "ignores the interest" of the 175,000 people in Del Norte and Humboldt Counties where 70 to 80 per cent of the economy is based on timber.

Callaghan pointed out the industry is converting from primarily a saw timber economy based on large old growth to a diversified products industry based on growing forests. He said investment of nearly $80 million in to pulp mills capable of maintaining at least 2,000 jobs under construction in Humboldt County is an example of this change.

"But such developments," he stated, "need an assured supply of raw material and the stretching out of the present saw timber supply is needed until new growth and new products can fill the gap."

Besides, Callaghan said most of the outstanding groves of redwoods already are preserved in state parks.

THE SACRAMENTO BEE Wednesday, June 2, 1965 Page D5

Spokesman Defends Timber Industry Stand On Redwood Park

The forest products industry has replied to a charge by State Senator Fred Farr of Monterey County that the industry influenced the defeat by the senate of SJR 29 calling for federal establishment of a redwood national park on the north coast.

John Callaghan, of Sacramento, secretary - treasurer of the California Forest Protective Association, today said Farr's charge "ignores the interest" of the 175,000 people in Del Norte and Humboldt Counties where 70 to 80 per cent of the economy is based on timber.

Callaghan pointed out the industry is converting from primarily a saw timber economy based on large old growth to a diversified products industry based on growing forests. He said investment of nearly $80 million in to pulp mills capable of maintaining at least 2,000 jobs under construction in Humboldt County is an example of this change.

"But such developments," he stated, "need an assured supply of raw material and the stretching out of the present saw timber supply is needed until new growth and new products can fill the gap."

Besides, Callaghan said most of the outstanding groves of redwoods already are preserved in state parks.

"Large government expenditures for acquistion of less than top quality park lands would be poor public policy," he said.

"Such lands can add to the public recreation potential through private development for both timber and recreation. Private areas of managed redwood forests amounting to more than double present state redwood park areas are being opened to recreationists."

Better access and more development of recreational facilities in existing state parks with only modest additions of area, he asserted, is the primary governmental need for increasing tourism in the area.

Callaghan stated the division of beaches and parks affirmed most of the redwood groves are preserved when it advocated inclusion of only 6,544 additional acres of virgin redwoods in state parks and said "this plan encompasses the state's needs for redwood parks for all time."

Then too, Callaghan related Resources Administrator Hugo Fisher in a letter to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, reported there are no areas of virgin redwoods of national park caliber of sufficient area for a national park.

"If the outstanding groves of redwoods are already preserved and the recreation economy can be developed with only limited public land acquisitions," asked Callaghan, "why jeopardize the north coast job producing industry by taking large additional forest acres out of production?"

As for Farr's warning that the industry will try to use action by the senate "as a lever" to oppose the proposed park at the federal level in Washington, Callaghan had this to say:

"The defeat of SJR 29 by the state senate will, of course, be used by the forest products industry as one argument against creation of a redwood national park.

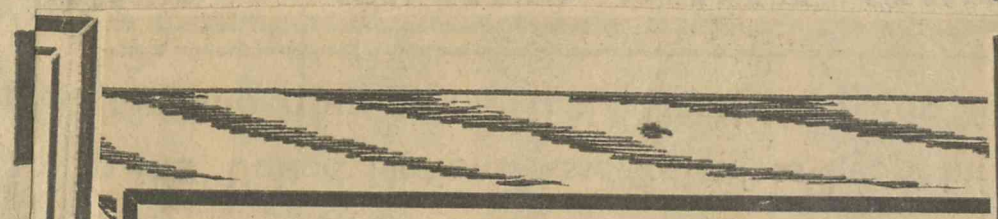

"So will resolutions against the park proposal by the boards of supervisors of Del Norte and Humboldt Counties.

"Should the actions of local and state legislative bodies familiar with the issues not be considered?"

Sunday, June

MONTEREY C

(E

2 OPEN HOUSES
SUNDAY
NOON UNTIL FIVE

B 2.—If you own a good Country Club lot and will trade on 2 B Home with separate Dining Room and a Family Room on a level ly located near Shore Course, you may move in with little or no . Shown by appointment only.

2.— OWNER WANTS ACTION — SALE, TRADE, OR LEASE! On ad between Forest Lodge and Congress Roads. 3 BR, 2 B home located, close to schools and shopping—all in Country Club privacy.

L—A short walk to town. New 2 BR, 2 B home with all-electric tural wood paneling, carpeting, shake roof. VALUE, CHARM, AND for $34,500.00.

MEADOWS—9 Ribera Road. A roomy, distinctive 3 BR, 2 B 2 Fireplaces and Family Room. Built in 1964. $39,500.00.

EREY PENINSULA COUNTRY CLUB—AN EIGHT IRON DISTANCE E CLUBHOUSE. A spacious three bedroom, two bath home of cap- esign. Brand new! On Club Road. $42,500.00.

IEL—From town take Monte Verde to Walker Avenue, right turn —second house on right. A delightful two bedroom, two bath home. view from patio privacy in the sunshine—at an asking price of ). COME SEE IT AND BE CONVINCED.

LL & RCHELL Realtors

sley Ball — Switzer
W. Bion Burchell
E. M. Fagan

Phone 624-8525
Anytime
7th & Monte Verde
CARMEL

on t

MONTEREY

TRI-CITY REAL ES

INCOME PROPERTIES are scrutinized by ou their worth for the enterprising investor. Ask to net expected after taxes . . . from land val use . . . we know the answers. Our service is u purchase and sale are followed every inch o chance or overlooked. Call on us now, and sta are in your favor if you deal with us today.

4 UNITS ON ½ ACRE, newly zoned R-4, perm 4 years old — each with 2 bedrooms, large l Garages separate each unit for maximum pri price — $42,500.

8 UNITS, FURNISHED. Six 1-bedroom, one stu off Fremont. Possible future commercial use o wait. Asking price . . . $59,500.

34 1-BEDROOM FURNISHED UNITS, plus 3-be swimming pool — own well supplies all the 13.3% today, and build up a half-million estat $330,000.

TRI-CITY REAL ES

375-2442 • 375-9541

Call us anytime—day

MOTEL: One year old. Six units. Each with kitchen an accommodate two double beds or living room and bedro year of operation. Asking $55,000 with not to exceed 2 DUPLEX & NUT SHOPPE: Two year old duplex which re Ample room for two additional units. Nut Shoppe has years. Features shelled, salted and candied nuts of al to eat fruits. Good mail order service. Wine and bee months during summer of 1964, but still grossed $10,90 and fountain service. Easy in and out for traffic on busy Most of which was recently black topped. Asking $38,0 be 80 years his next birthday, desires to sell as package,

George E. Dovolis 140
REALTOR

A CARMEL HOME WITH NO PROBLEMS — Only a few blocks to the business district, so no parking problem—almost brand new and sparkling, so no fixing-up and redecorating problem—a small, easy-to-care-for garden which can be a joy—three comfortable bedrooms, two baths, and a very pleasant living room with fireplace — a pleasant, efficient kitchen with stove and dishwasher — and

2 l
Livi
Kit

MPH 6/25/65

UN Ceremony At Fairgrounds Tomorrow

State Sen. Fred Farr and Supervisor Tom Hudson will be the featured speakers tomorrow afternoon at a festival commemorating the 20th anniversary of the United Nations which will get underway at the Monterey County Fairgrounds at 1:30 p.m.

Fourteen nations will be represented in a program of songs and dances by native entertainers. Guests at the festival, which is open to the public without charge, are urged to wear the national dress of any U.N. member.

Two of the Peninsula's mayors, James Wilson of Del Rey Oaks and John Pattullo of Seaside, will join Farr and Hudson at the speakers table. Sunday's commemorative festival is sponsored by several local civic organizations.

MPH 7/8/65

State Senate Pays Tribute To Mayo Hayes O'Donnell

SACRAMENTO — Mayo Hayes O'Donnell, longtime secretary of the Monterey History and Art Association, who is held in deep affection by a vast number of friends, has been honored by the California State Senate.

A Senate resolution, authored by State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, pays high tribute to the noted Monterey historian.

Mrs. O'Donnell lives at 314 Pacific St., in the Casa Soberanes (House of the Blue Gate), built by Don Jose Estrada. She has deeded the home to the State of California as a historical monument but retains life tenancy.

The resolution states that Mrs. O'Donnell was born and reared in Tulare County and moved to Monterey in 1925, two years after her marriage to the late William O'Donnell, former assistant publisher of The Monterey Peninsula Herald.

It declares that she and her husband "showed a deep and abiding interest in the history of Monterey from the time of their settlement there which has continued through years of leadership in the Monterey History and Art Association and the Monterey Foundation."

The resolution recalls that Mrs. O'Donnell helped organize the Casa Abrego Club, served for five years on its board of governors and planned the El Estero Rose Garden for the Garden Club which gave it as a memorial to her husband.

It adds that "Mayo Hayes O'Donnell, perhaps more than any other individual, has kept alive the spirt of 'Old Monterey' and delighted thousands of Californians who have read her column in the Monterey Peninsula Herald entitled 'Peninsula Diary' which has enriched their lives through her interesting and varied historical accounts of early California and the significance of Monterey in the early days of our state."

Closing, it declares that the State Senate "takes great pleasure in calling the attention of the citizens of this state to the unique contributions of Mayo Hayes O'Donnell to the understanding of exciting historical events of the past and to the enjoyment of things present, and in commending Mayo Hayes O'Donnell for her energetic and inspirational achievements throughout the years."

(Herald photo)

Honored by Senate

Mayo Hayes O'Donnell of Monterey is the recipient of a resolution of commendation passed by the California State Senate.

Farr to Address Club Tonight

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, will address the Monterey Peninsula Democratic Club in its meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Fiesta Room of the Hotel Casa Munras.

Farr will discuss accomplishments of the State Legislature.

The senator also is expected to discuss the recent White House Conference on Natural Beauty which he attended.

Also on the club's agenda will be a discussion of plans for a membership drive.

A moment of silent prayer in memory of Adlai E. Stevenson will be held.

All Peninsula Democrats, not presently affiliated with other Democratic organizations, are cordially invited to attend. There will be refreshments and door prizes.

(Herald photo)

Harbor Commissioners Feted

MPH 7/10/65

State and local officials mingled with visiting harbor commissioners and yachtsmen at a dinner given last night at the Hunt Club, Monterey County Fairgrounds, by the City of Monterey and the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club. Monterey Mayor Minnie D. Coyle (front) put Sen. Fred Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee on notice she expects their help to obtain $1½ million in state funds for the Monterey breakwater. Front row, from left, are Lachlan Richards, chief, California Small Craft Harbors Commission; Pattee; Farr; Mrs. Coyle; and Ralph Montali, chairman of the Small Crafts Harbor Commission of the California Parks and Recreation Dept.

The California Association of Soil Conservation Districts

Newsletter July, 1965

Senator Farr was instrumental in getting a bill passed the State Senate authorizing three million dollars for the State's assistance to the Alisal-Gabilan project. The Steering Committee of the Alisal-Gabilan project has appointed a recreation committee to assist them in the development and educational work in the recreation phase of the Natividad Reservoir and Sherman Park area.

Carmel Firemen Celebrate 50th Birthday With Three-Day Party

Oldtimers, newcomers, tiny tots, teen-agers and even tourists shared in the memorable three-day celebration put on by Carmel firemen last weekend in honor of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department. There were many firemen from neighboring cities involved in the community celebration, too.

Following the equipment demonstration on the Sunset ballfield on Thursday evening, Carmelites thronged to the open house at the fire station. Particularly in evidence were children of all ages sporting red fire helmets and junior fire marshal badges given to them by Carmel firemen. The youngsters also enjoyed ice cream, cake and "pop" served by Carmel Youth Center members from the Bingmobile loaned to the firemen by the youth center.

Members of the teen-age recreation center also prepared gallons of hot coffee for adults.

Carmel Pine Cone-C, 7/22/65

Friday evening's celebration started with a hosecart race. Carmel's team was beaten, by seconds, by the team from the Carmel Hill state forestry station which made the quickest dash from the fire station on Sixth street down Mission, along Ocean, up San Carlos, then hitched the hose to a gold-painted hydrant and used the resultant stream of water to knock a barrel off a trestle. They were awarded a big gold cup with white mice secreted in its base.

Hundreds of persons, many of them children, watched the races and remained for the street dance which followed. The Peninsula local of the musician's union provided a band for the spirited dancing on the gold-painted street in front of the fire station.

Placed on a fire truck, the band played music for older dancers of the community and the "very latest" for the lads and lassies who do the swim, the frug and such. Again youth center members served refreshments from the Bingmobile. And Fire Chief James R. Belvail distinguished himself as a dancer.

Saturday afternoon was the "Big Parade." Up and down Ocean Avenue fire truck after fire truck passed by interspersed with a young ladies drill team from Marina, Marty Artellan's accordion band of youngsters, and the city council in Al Hood's 1909 Pierce Arrow stage. Monterey sent a vintage turn-of-the-century wooden wagon, the Veterans of Foreign Wars their "voiture" and all Peninsula cities bright, red shiny fire trucks and chiefs' cars. A color guard from the Carmel American Legion led the parade and sitting in glory atop one of Carmel's trucks was Mrs. John Chitwood who remembers the days when Carmel didn't have a fire department. In the place of honor on another Carmel truck was uniformed Fire Marshal Robert J. Leidig, one of the founders of the department in 1915 and Carmel's fire chief from 1924 until 1940.

His successor, Vincent Torras, also rode in the parade. He returned from an Alaskan visit in time to celebrate "the fiftieth" with the men he led until 1957.

And as a grand finale, every siren on every truck sounded a salute to the town and its people.

Saturday evening the community gala ended with a dinner dance at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Honored on this occasion were members of Carmel's first fire company. Mayor Herbert Blanks, on behalf of State Senator Fred Farr, presented to these three men — Fire Marshal Leidig, Fred Leidig and Haskell Warren — framed resolutions passed by the Senate of the State of California praising their service to Carmel. Battalion Chief James Kelsey read the names of all firemen who served as volunteers during the past 50 years. Among those seated at the head table were three of Carmel's honorary fire chiefs, Pon Chung, J. O. Handley and Fred Godwin. Missing was Harrison Godwin.

Time and again the several hundred persons at the party resoundingly applauded the firemen who have unselfishly given their time to protect Carmel. Then almost everyone danced, past midnight.

And who was manning the fire station? Neighborly firemen from Pacific Grove.

★

Field Sanitary Facilities Law Signed by Governor

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Wednesday signed into law a bill requiring food crop growers with five or more employes to provide toilet and washing facilities for their workers in the field.

The bill, SB 899, was authored by Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr.

By terms of the bill, the State Department of Public Health is empowered to adopt regulations to put teeth in it, and local health departments are authorized to enforce the regulations.

But the regulations haven't been drawn up yet, although implementing legislation is now on the books.

The bill not only requires growers to maintain the sanitary facilities within a five-minute walk of the spot where field work is going on, but also requires the employes to use the facilities.

Farr introduced the bill after Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz's visit to the Salinas Valley last Spring. Wirtz came upon two fields where men and women were at work with no sanitary facilities located nearby.

Another Farr bill signed into law this week provides a maximum of $500,000 in state funds over a period of three years for work on the Monterey breakwater. Allocation of the funds is dependent on the appropriation of matching funds by the federal government. Just $90,000 has been appropriated by Congress so far.

Farr Bill OK'd

Mercury Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill by Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), requiring food crop growers with five or more employes to maintain toilet and washing facilities for them.

Farr Continues As Resources Committee Head

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, has been appointed to continue as chairman of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources.

Under his leadership, the committee has produced many bills pertaining to conservation and completed a major study into ownership of public lands in California.

The committee will meet in Monterey Sept. 29-30.

Farr on Trip To Florida, South America

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, has flown to Hollywood, Fla., to participate in the annual meeting of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

At the close of the conference this week, he will fly to visit his son, Sam, a Peace Corps worker in Medellin, Colombia.

Farr also plans to visit Ambassador Fulton Freeman in Mexico City and with Carmel attorney Laurence Horan in San Jose, Costa Rica.

At the Florida conference, Farr will report on uniform or model acts introduced in the various state legislatures during the past year. He is chairman of the conference legislative committee.

Sen. Farr Attends Florida Meeting

State Sen. Fred Farr, D. Carmel, flew Saturday to Hollywood, Fla., to participate in the annual meeting of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. Farr is chairman of the conference's Legislative Committee.

The Conference, now in its 74th year, seeks to promote uniformity in state laws on all subjects whee uniformity is deemed practical and desirable and to promote uniformity of judicial decisions in the United States. Sen. Farr has been a commissioner since 1957.

Senator Farr Again Chairman Of Resources

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred S. Farr has been re-appointed chairman of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources.

The Carmel Democrat also has received appointments for 1965-67 to the Education and Judiciary fact finding committees. He will continue to serve on the Constitutional Revision Commission and on the California Commission on Uniform State Laws.

Farr's appointments were made by the Senate Rules Committee.

As chairman of both the fact finding and standing committees on natural resources, Farr has won a reputation as the leading conservationist in the California legislature.

Costa Rica Peace Corps Report From L. P. Horan

The U. S. Peace Corps program in Costa Rica, second smallest of the Central American countries, has been so successful that it is being expanded, according to Laurance P. Horan of Carmel, who became its director a year ago.

Horan, a member of the law firm of Farr, Horan, Wilsdon and Lloyd of Carmel, took a leave of absence to accept the Peace Corps assignment. He was visited in late February by State Sen. Fred S. Farr, one of his partners, who toured the country with him and is now en route to see him again.

Writing in the June-July issue of the Peace Corps Volunteer, Horan stated that there is no danger of the corps reaching a numerical ceiling in Costa Rica.

Volunteers have been working as teachers in the colegios (high schools) in urban community development in the cities and in rural community development in outlying villages, Horan explained.

Housing projects for slum clearance have given an opportunity for married couples among the volunteers to live and work together, with home economics, family care and nutrition taught by the wives, while the husbands work with members of the community on such problems as garbage disposal, sanitation, recreation and carpentry.

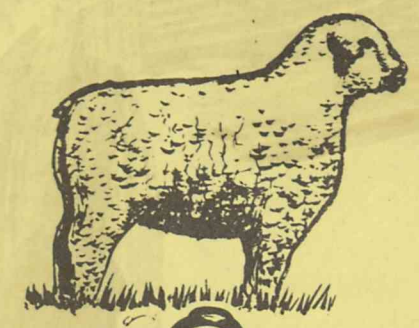

The aim is to balance the community development programs with the companion teaching programs in the University of Costa Rica and the colegios, and in the future in the normal, vocational and agricultural schools, Horan wrote.

"The friendliness of the Costa Rican people and the spirit of cooperation which they have shown. . .convinces me that the Peace Corps need not worry about. . .a saturation point," he said.

Farr assigned to committees

State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel has been reappointed by the Senate Rules Committee as chairman of the Senate fact-finding committee on natural resources.

Farr also was assigned to the fact-finding committees on education and the judiciary for the 1965-67 period and will continue on the constitutional revision commission and the California commission on uniform state laws.

4-H & FUTURE FARMER OPPORTUNITY SALE

PRIZE WINNING FAT LIVESTOCK. . . . . .

MONTEREY COUNTY FAIRGROUNDS
SATURDAY, AUGUST 28, 1965 AT 10:00 A. M.

ART BAYER

BANK OF AMERICA

HELPING THE YOUTH OF MONTEREY COUNTY

WAYS TO PARTICIPATE . . . .
(Fill in Card and Return)
a. WILL ATTEND SALE
AUGUST 29th - 10:00 a.m.

BUY BY ORDER . . . . . .
(Fill in Card and Return)
a. Can't Attend - Buy for me.
b. Don't want animal, resell, bill me for the difference of Market and Auction price paid.

BUYERS HAVE THREE OPTIONS IF THEY BUY LIVESTOCK . . .
a. The animal will be slaughtered and carcass returned to your locker (free delivery)
b. Buy and Resell
Pay margin between market and Auction price, or --
c. Buyer take live delivery of animal at Fair Grounds.

SLAUGHTERING CHARGE (extra)
BEEF . . . . . 10.00
LAMB . . . . . 4.00
HOGS . . . . . 4¢ lb. dressed
Wt. 6.00 Minimum

COST OF CUTTING AND WRAPPING . . . . . .
BEEF . . . . . 10¢ per lb.
LAMB . . . . . 10¢ per lb.
HOGS . . . . . 8¢ per lb.

Assemblyman, Alan Pattee - Auctioneer, Art Bayer - Senator, Fred Farr
HELPING THE YOUTH OF MONTEREY COUNTY

FLASH! This is your opportunity to share your good fortune by bidding and buying some 4-H'ers or Future Farmer's animal at the Monterey County Fair, August 28, 1965. Their eagerness cannot and must not be ignored. There is no juvenile delinquency among these youngsters. They deserve that chance for a better future which only you can give them.

ANDREWS & WEBSTER, INC., Seaside

Farr Sees New State Senate District As Equal To Congressional in Size

Sal Cal 8/11/65

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr says in his current news letter that he believes the reapportioned Senate district of which the county will be a part is going to be coterminous with the 12th Congressional District.

"It is my opinion that our new Senatorial District if and when we are reapportioned, will be as large as our Congressional District, and will include Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties," he writes.

The Carmel Democrat's 25th Senatorial District presently is comprised only of Monterey County.

In the legislative session recently ended, the Senate and Assembly found each other's reapportionment bills mutually distasteful.

But both bills included Monterey County in a rather small Senatorial District (Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties); smaller, at any rate, than Farr thinks would be legal.

"It is the hope of all of us in the Legislature that we be given another opportunity to work out our own reapportionment rather than have it done by the Court or by the State Reapportionment Commission," Farr writes.

If Monterey County is included with San Benito and Santa Cruz counties in a new senatorial district, Farr will be matched against Watsonville Republican Sen. Donald Grunsky in the 1966 special election. If San Luis Obispo County is included in the new district, there will be TWO Republican Senators in the race, Grunsky and Sen. Vernon Sturgeon of Paso Robles.

Area Legislators Draw $30,509 Total for Work

Sal Cal 8/19/65

Monterey and Santa Cruz County state legislators drew a total of $30,509 during calender year 1964, Controller Alan Cranston announced today.

Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, received the highest amount of the three area legislators, $11,370. Assemblyman Alan Pattee, R-Salinas, drew $9,898 and Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, drew $9,241.

Legislators receive $6,000 a year in salary, $21 a day for days in attendance at Sacramento sessions, $25 a day for attendance at committee meetings between sessions and 15 cents per mile for travel not made in state-leased cars provided them.

Major difference in the legislators' expenses was in the travel allowance. Farr, as chairman of the Natural Resources Committee, turned in travel expenses of $2,458. Pattee had $1,056 in travel claims and Grunsky $896.

Farr Director of Fishing Retreat

SJ Mercury (cont)

(Continued from Page 1F)

side business people and outdoor advertising firms.

Last year the Monterey County attorney favored allowing canners to turn anchovies into fertilizer — a stand which stirred the wrath of sport fishermen.

For the 1964 primary and general elections, Farr raised a total of $20,218.35 — including donations from lobbyist Sherman Trusty (California Barber College Assn.), COPE ($500), fellow Senator Virgil O'Sullivan ($200), Southern California Retail Dealers, some restaurant and fish canning companies and many individual contributors ranging up to $1,000.

In 1963, Farr's total state compensation, including $6,000 salary and expenses, was $10,555.35; in 1964, $11,244.80. He has a state-leased car with credit card privileges.

MPH 8/20/65.

LBJ Urges County to Keep Natural Beauty

SALINAS — President Johnson has urged, in a letter to the chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, that Monterey County continue to provide "inspiring and healthful living conditions" for its citizens.

Dated Aug. 14, the letter was personally signed by the President. Enclosed was a pamphlet, reporting the results of the White House Conference on Natural Beauty, which was held May 24-25 and which was attended by a number of county representatives.

"During the conference," Johnson said in his letter, "the decisive role of local governments, such as yours, in providing inspiring and healthful living conditions for its citzens was stressed again and again."

Noting the recommendations contained in the pamphlet, Johnson continued, "These recommendations point to local planning and zoning programs and to intergovernmental cooperation as specific 'tools' which can be effectively used by county and city governments to bring natural beauty into our lives."

"The quality of our nation's achievement will depend upon conscientious action by leaders like yourself in providing for a better and more beautiful America.

"Our national goal should be to incorporate the concept of natural beauty into every official action which is taken by all governmental bodies and private sectors of our economy," the President concluded.

Monterey County was represented at the White House Conference on Natural Beauty by Planning Director Ed DeMars, State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, noted architects Will Shaw and Nathaniel Owings, Owings' wife, Margaret, and Nicholas Roosevelt of Big Sur.

Farr Has Stocks, Bonds And Apartment House

San Jose Mercury 8/19/65

Sen Fred Farr, D-Carmel, 25th District, Monterey County.

Farr is an attorney and says, "The bank and I own an apartment house which is being bought with some money from my wife's estate." His wife, Janet, died early this year.

Also, he says, he has some stocks and bonds as the result of his wife's estate. His highly successful law practice is run by two partners.

He is trustee of several non-profit corporations and director of a "ranch" owned by six persons. It is a non-profit recreation and fishing retreat, he says.

Farr has been active in fostering legislation on state planning, scenic highways, probation and correctional facilities.

During World War I he was with the U.S. Maritime Commission in Washington, DC., and in 1944 was appointed labor relations representative by the War Shipping Administration for the Port of New York.

After the war, he was an industrial relations consultant for the Puerto Rico Development Co. in Puerto Rico.

FRED FARR

He was elected to the Senate in a special election in 1955. He co-authoried a 1961 bill giving supervisors the right to control billboards and designate any highway as scenic. This was opposed by motel and hotel owners, road-

(Continued on Page 4F)

Fred, Here's the column I promised to send. Harry

San Jose News Thanks for the great column

CAPITOL CORNER

With Our Man In Sacramento

By HARRY FARRELL
News Political Writer

By signing Senate Bill 965 last week, Gov. Edmund G. Brown quietly brought about a great upheaval in the California way of death.

After Sept. 17, it will be possible, legally, to have one's cremated remains scattered over the ocean. It has been illegal up till now.

Senate Bill 965 went through the Legislature, causing scarcely more of a ripple than — to coin a phrase — a handful of ashes falling on the sea.

Not a single voice against the bill was raised in committee, and it passed both legislative houses on the "consent calendar" — without even an individual roll call.

This was little short of amazing.

LOBBY VICTIM

Four years ago, when Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel first tried to pass such a bill, the powerful cemetery lobby — to coin a phrase—battled it to the death.

The bill just enacted is less drastic than the one Farr tried for in 1961, but this year the lobbyists gave in with scarcely a whimper. A lot of missionary work had been done in the meantime.

Until now, generally speaking, it has been required that human ashes be entombed or inurned in a cemetery, mausoleum or columbarium, ostensibly for reasons of public health.

This has been necessitated by Section 7055 of the Public Health and Safety Code, which has been a monument to lobbyist efficiency. It has provided, among other things, that if human ashes are transferred from one cemetery to another, they must be carried in a funeral director's car.

In 1961, Farr tried for a major reform which would have allowed scattering of ashes either on land or at sea, or from a plane.

LIMITS

This year's measure is much more limited. It allows non-cemetery disposal of cremated remains only from an airplane which must fly at an elevation exceeding 5,000 feet and must be outside the three-mile limit offshore when the ashes are dropped. Furthermore, the remains of only one person may be scattered on each flight. And this must be done within 45 days of cremation. Ashes which are already inurned must stay put.

Nevertheless, Farr's bill represents a major breakthrough in the battle for civil rights of the deceased.

The Senate Public Health Committee hearing on Farr's 1961 bill stands as unique in legislative history. If Erle Stanley Gardner had written the script for it, it would have been called "The Case of the Cremated Witness."

Many persons testified before the committee that day, but the star witness didn't say a word. He had been dead for a year.

ASHES

Farr came into the committee room carrying a box, measuring 8 by 8 by 10 inches. Removing its lid, he told his Senate colleagues, "Just so you'll know what we're talking about, gentlemen, I happen to have some human ashes here with me."

He exhibited a few pounds of gray dust, mingled with bone chips. Then, noting that his bill required cremated remains be "reduced to fine particles," Farr opened another container.

"Here are some ashes reduced to fine particles," he said. "They were ground in a coffee grinder only half an hour ago. See, gentlemen, they look about like white bone meal."

As the second box passed from senator to senator, some of the dust from "John Doe" wafted from the container, hung in the air for a few seconds, and then settled on the polished top of the committee table.

'GRANDPAPPY'

Sen. Jack Thompson, of San Jose, since retired, was presiding at the time. When Dr. Ellis Sox, San Francisco city health officer, testified that the ashes were sterile. Thompson asked incredulously:

"Then Grandpappy in that box there is not in any way a health hazard?"

Sox said no.

"Grandpappy," by the way, was never identified, except as a Bay Area man whose remains had been loaned by Home of Peace Cemetery in Colma.

The arguments raised against the Farr bill four years ago were imaginative, to say the least.

One witness foresaw a water pollution hazard, if ashes were dropped into reservoirs.

He regarded ash-scattering as a violation of the anti-litterbug law. And he said if an airplane were used, air pollution would be intensified.

A representative of the state's coroners said ash scattering would prove a handy way for murderers to get rid of arsenic traces.

CREMATED REMAINS

MPH 9/27/65

Senator Fred F

For four years, State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel sought to have one of California's most restrictive statutes removed from the lawbooks. Last Sept. 17, he was quietly successful.

Henceforth, California, like 49 other states, will permit the disposal of cremated remains of human bodies by burial at sea.

Previously, anyone so doing was guilty of a misdemeanor. If more than one person was involved in a conspiracy to scatter the ashes of a loved one on the ocean, both or all were guilty of a felony.

Argumentative Years

The law required the burial or inurnment of cremated bodies in cemeteries or columbaria. And during years of angry argument in Sacramento, the scattering of ashes elsewhere was ruled an air pollution hazard and a violation of health laws.

Senate bill 965, introduced by Farr, does not permit indiscriminate scattering of the ashes. It provides that their "burial" at sea must be done from a plane flying at a height of more than 5,000 feet and at a point not less than 3 miles from the nearest shoreline. It further provides that not more than one person's ashes may be thus disposed of by any one plane.

Why this latter provision was inserted, Sen. Farr isn't sure, but one funeral director suggested that it was to prevent "mass burials" at sea by commercial pilots.

Furthermore burials at sea will still require a permit from the County Health Department, and both a flight log must be filed giving the details, and a statement from survivors certifying the identity.

Not Perfect

"The bill is not perfect by any means," said Fa

today. "But it's a ... the right direction ... ly, there is no reas... the plane should not fly over land. The ashes would be dissipated just as effectively at a 5,000-foot altitude. People should be able to do what they wish, just so that the disposal is not a health menace and is not offensive."

Farr recalled that when he originally introduced the bill in 1961, it never got out of the Senate Public Health Committee, largely due to an impassioned plea by a city attorney for a small Southern California community which has many cemeteries, and who protested that it was against all health laws. A similar bill was killed in the Assembly, Farr said.

One sheriff objected that murder by arsenic could still be proved through cremated remains, but that

This ye... bill had 25 co... authors in the Senate and there were no objections from the "funeral lobby." One or two compromises were worked out to meet the latter's objections, he added.

Savings

Whether there will be much monetary saving due to the new bill, is a question. Cremation costs will be the same, but an urn will not be required, nor will burial of the urn in a plot of ground or its installation in a columbarium niche. Principal new cost will be the plane, rates depending on the distance of that plane from the ocean.

Possible future amend-

University ... Medical Center ... were expected to issue a report ... today on the condition of a ... boy hospitalized with bubonic plague. ... Attendants at the hospital declined Sunday to ... divulge the condition of ... John Cox, 5, son of Mr. and ... Mrs. Charles Cox, Shingle... town.

Plan Next Step

Clean Air Advocates Comment

By STAN CLOUD

SALINAS—Charles B. Kramer, leader of the Citizens for Clean Air Committee, looked very tired.

But he was smiling—he has managed to smile throughout most of the long, bitter battle against a refinery at Moss Landing—and was already beginning to think of the next steps his committee could take.

The County Board of Supervisors has just approved by a 3-2 vote the issuance of a special permit to Humble Oil Co. to build a 50,000-barrel-a-day refinery.

While Kramer was talking to a reporter, a photographer asked him to pose for a picture with attorney Paul Hamerly, who herded Humble's application through county government.

Both Kramer and Hamerly gamely agreed. Neither seemed particularly

After the Decision

Salinas Attorney Paul Hamerly, left, Humble's "l off man in the hearing before the board of supervis with Charles B. Kramer of Pebble Beach after th Kramer was co-chairman of the Citizens Committ the permit.

it appears that we are at the crossroads of our future."

Blinding Industry

Dr. Bruce Meyer, president of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club: "We Church Inc.: (Referring the "scare tactic" cha proponents hurled at ponents and noting damage in San Bernar County) "I have seen w has happened in that a

Indicted by Grand Jury

Wolden Declares He's Innocent of Charges

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Assessor Russell L. Wolden declared he is innocent of charges filed against him in an indictment by the grand jury investigating the acrimonious property tax scandal.

Wolden was to be arraigned today on nine counts of accepting bribes and one of conspiracy before Superior Court Judge Norman Elkington.

The indictment against Wolden contained the first criminal charges filed following a statewide investigation of the business transactions of tax consultant James C. Tooke of Castro Valley.

Nine Bribes

Wolden was charged with accepting bribes on five occasions from Tooke and four times from others. One of Tooke's former employes accused the consultant of paying employes in assessor offices for preferential assessments for Tooke's clients.

"I gave no favors and accepted no bribes," said Wolden Thursday when he surrendered to police.

"Of course this is a terrible ordeal," he told newsmen. "But I will fight these charges all the way and I expect complete vindication."

Seven counties beside San Francisco have been investigating Tooke's activities.

Alameda Action

The Alameda County Grand Jury is scheduled to meet Sept. 7 to hear testimony from two of tax assessor Donald E. Feragen's aides.

Alameda Dist. Atty. J. Frank Coakley said the aides, Earle Parrish and Michael J.McLaughlin, have admitted taking bribes.

San Francisco Mayor John F. Shelley said he would consult with the city attorney on whether Wolden should be suspended from office.

Wolden said he had no intention of resigning and said he planned to be a candidate for the office in 1966.

He issued this statement:

"I have done and will continue to do everything within my power to serve—not injure—the interests of the taxpayers of San Francisco."

He was released on $27,500 bail.

Surrenc

San Francisc Thursday aft dicte

More Mil

Enlis

WASHINGT Voluntary en the armed se jumped sinc Johnson orde boost in the learned today.

Figures for first full mon President's ac cate a gain forces.

Marines re per cent in Army a 19 pe Both the Navy Force said th to go well b goals for the final reports a

The draft served as a pr men to sign service of thei

To Jul

Voluntary had lagged, pa the Army and Johnson annou 28 that Selec goals would be about 35,000 a part of the mili growing out of Viet Nam.

In data mad to the AP, reported that 1 enrolled volunt gust — an incre

New Electronics

PARTS CATALOG

COME IN FOR A FREE COPY.

OR MAILED FREE TO OUT OF TOWNERS.

ZAC KIT CORP.

Store Hours: Mon. thru Fri. 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Saturday 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

350 Del Monte — 375-3144

TV & Radio Parts Across from Greyhound — Hi-Fi & Amateur Gear

Seaside Fire Department or

Monterey Peninsula Herald

Available at the Complete Flag Kit

...the Flag on national holidays. We also believe more homes ...where to get one. Failure to fly the Flag, it has been found, is ...rt of Americans who love Old Glory as much today as Amer- ...orn. Because of this we make this fine Flag set available as a ...Russell Pratt ...xpressed grati- ...your courage, ...ality through and through. It meets every standard the ...dition, the stripes are double stitched, a hallmark of ...ces. We include with the big 3x5-foot Flag all the equip- ...les of Flag etiquette. These Flags are available to all . . . ...recognize the ...the clear and the ...values of life in ...basic cost . . . and fly one on your home on important ...that home will show the world that the Spirit of '76 is as ...irth of the first 4th of July . . . nearly 200 years gone

...n's Birthday — August 14th — V-J Day

...ber, 1st Monday — Labor Day

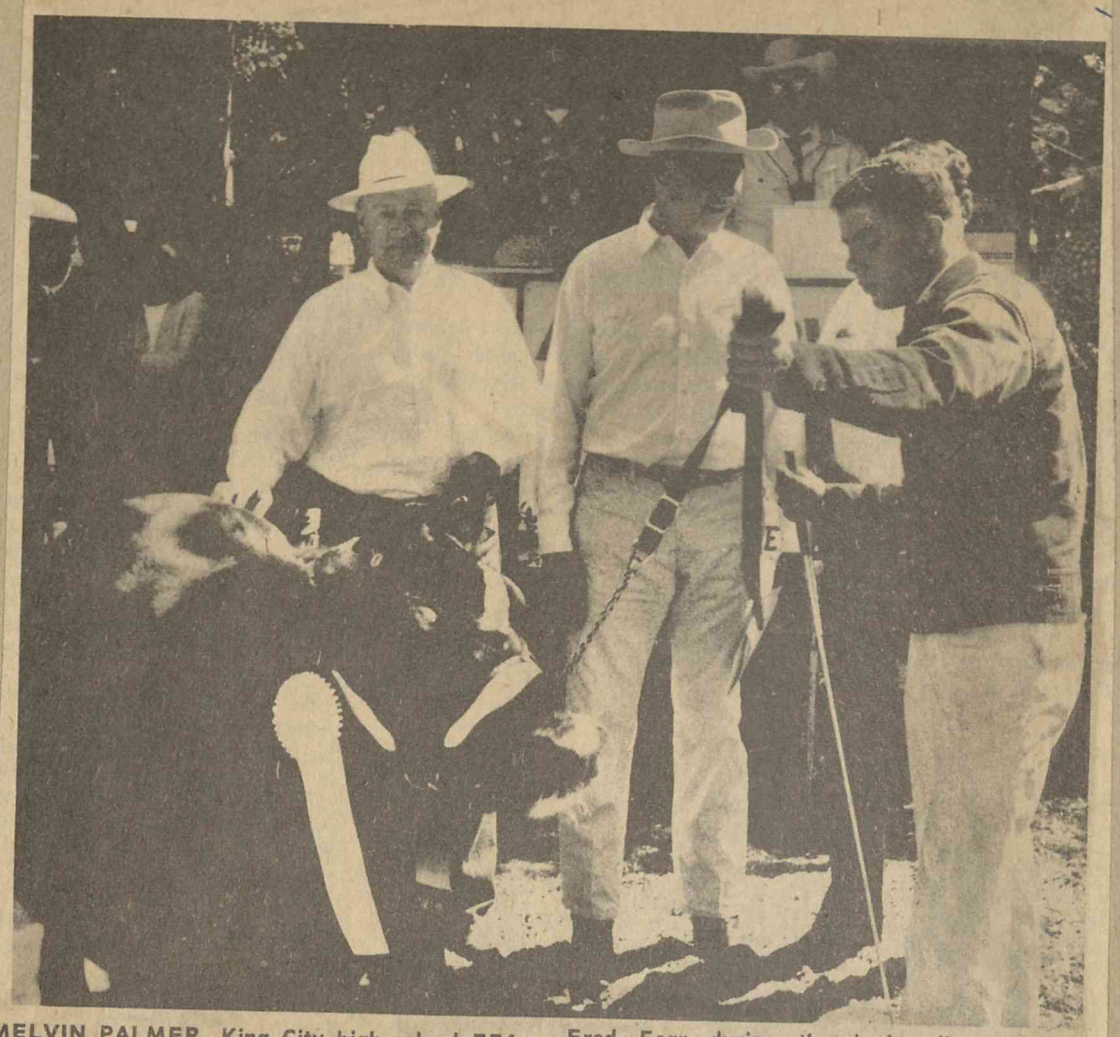

...ber, 4th Thursday — Thanksgiving Day

...ber 11th — Veteran's Day

...ber 7th — Pearl Harbor Day

...ber 25th — Christmas Day

Pine Cone 9/.

MELVIN PALMER, King City high school FFA member from Lonoak, shows off his Monterey County Fair reserve grand champion steer to Assemblyman Alan Pattee (left) and Senator Fred Farr during the junior livestock auction. Auctioneer Art Bayer (right background) prompted a bid of 47c a pound from the Italian Villa in Salinas for the 905-pound Angus.

Press 9/11/65

Senator Farr Is Honorary Drive Chairman

State Sen. Fred S. Farr yesterday accepted the honorary chairmanship of Monterey County's 1965 Dollars for Democrats drive. His acceptance was announced by steering committee chairman James T. May of Salinas.

The drive is to be conducted on the precinct level throughout the county on Oct. 2-3. Goal is one dollar from every registered Democrat in the county.

Other members of the steering committee are treasurer Ted Fletcher of Salinas, secretary Keith McKillop of Salinas and Castroville chairman Mrs. Joe Gambetta.

MPH 9/11

Democrats Name Farr Honorary Fund Drive Head

SALINAS — State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, has been named honorary chairman of Monterey County's 1965 Dollars for Democrats drive.

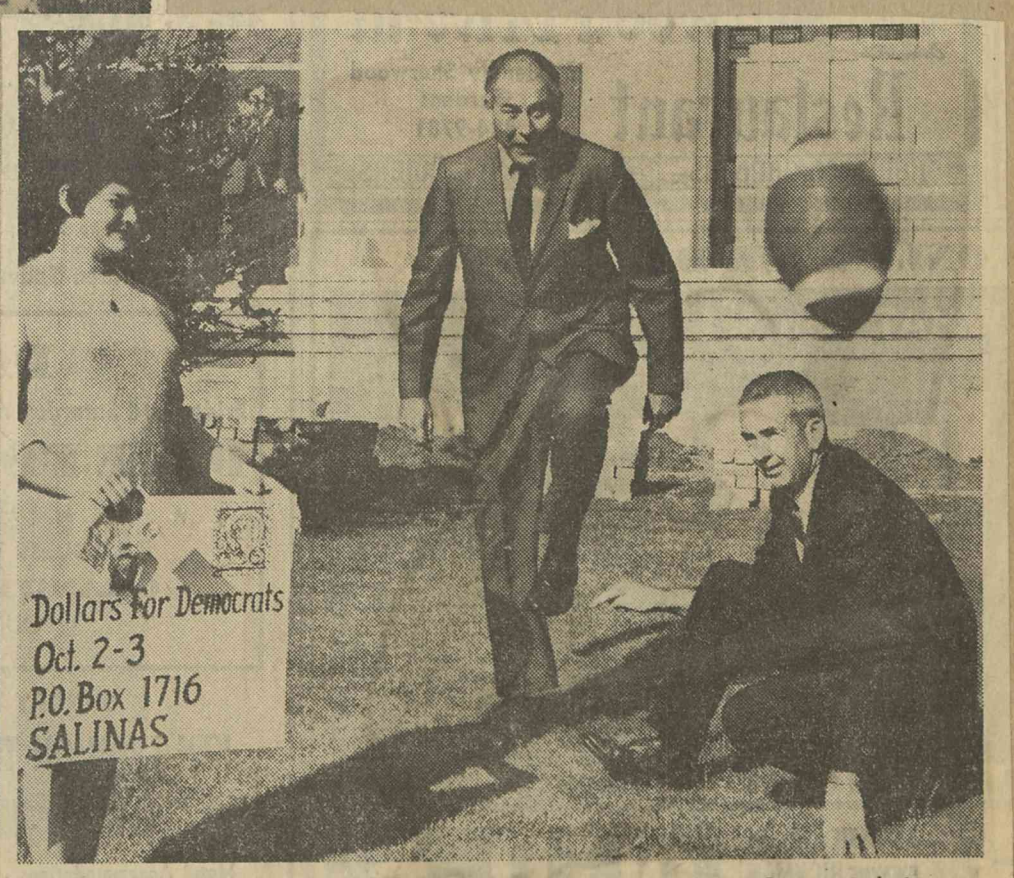

Jim May of Salinas, steering committee chairman for the event, announced the appointment. He also announced that Ted Fletcher of Salinas

Kick Off

MPH 9/30

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, kicks off the annual Dollars for fund drive in Monterey County. Gerald A. McGrath of Seaside h while Paula Fontana, secretary to Monterey attorney Allan Murph Farr is honorary county chairman of the drive, set for Oct. 2-3.

KICKOFF—The annual Dollars for Democrats drive in Monterey County is being conducted today and tomorrow under the honorary chairmanship of Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel. Here Farr kicks off the campaign. Gerald A. McGrath of Seaside held the ball while Paula Fontana looked on.

Sal Cal 9/30/65

MPH 9/23

Senate Committee To Hold Hearings In Monterey

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today said the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources will hold hearings in the Monterey Council Chambers next Wednesday and Thursday.

Farr, committee chairman, said testimony will be received on the subject of licensing power boat operators.

Farr said requests for such licensing have come from operators of deep draught vessels and others who have reported congestion and erratic operation of small craft in shipping lanes.

The senator said there is a trend toward more and more high - powered outboard motors which require increased skill in operation and specific knowledge of waterway rules.

Power Boat Hearings Conclude

9/30 MPH

Pointing toward possible legislation in the 1967 session of the legislature, the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources today ended a two-day hearing in the Monterey Council Chambers on the subject of licensing of power boat operators.

During the hearing, proponents and opponents of licensing were about equally split. Proponents feel that licensing is needed to bolster water safety while opponents feel that licensing would constitute harassment and would result in administrative costs unjustified by gains.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, the commission chairman, this morning suggested that improvements in water safety could be reached by:

1—Requiring local agencies to give assurance of adequate law enforcement as a condition of receiving state small craft harbor loans and

2—By a state-wide meet-

(Continued on page 2)

ing of law enforcement officials to discuss uniformity in water safety regulations.

Lachlan Richards, chief, state division of small craft harbors, agreed to take up Farr's suggestions with his commission.

Richards, without committing himself on the licensing question, did say that increased education of boat owners, particularly novices, would result in more benefit for water safety than licensing.

Committee members present today were Farr and Senators Aaron W. Quick of Imperial County, Eugent G. Nisbet of San Bernardino County and Alvin G. Weingand of Santa Barbara County.

Boat club representatives and those of maritime concerns were on opposite sides of the fence yesterday afternoon during the hearing.

The former spoke unanemously against proposals for state licensing of power boat operators, while the latter, called for tighter regulation of pleasure boats.

Farr is conducting the hearings to gather testimony for a report to the 1967 session of the Legislature on safety aspects of one of the state's mushrooming outdoor pastimes.

Edward J. Twohig, proprietor of Santa Cruz Boat Rentals, told Farr's committee that state licensing of amateur navigators could cripple businesses such as his while doing little or nothing to improve water safety.

Twohig said education programs of the Coast Guard Auxiliary and U. S. Power Squadron have helped cut the incidence of fatalities. He said education and enforcement of laws now on the books are the keys to further improvement.

His stand was backed by Jan Mower of Rodeo, managing director of the California Boating Council; Fred Lifton of Chicago, executive director of the Outdoor Boating Club of America; John Gilchrist, Northern Division president of California Marine Parks and Harbors; Larry Nygaard, legislative representative of the Fresno Boat Club, and A. K. Knapp, spokesman for the South Tahoe Boat Club.

Enforcement

Lifton said that while participation in pleasure boating has doubled in the past decade the annual number of fatalities has remained constant. Deaths have dropped dramatically, he said, in states with active enforcement programs.

"I don't think that in California your enforcement has been good," Lifton told the committee, calling licensing a "crutch" and contending that no other state is considering it seriously at this time.

But George Fay, executive vice president of River Lines Inc., said his experience on San Francisco Bay area water ways has produced innumerable incidents with ignorant, inexperienced boatmen.

"I feel that some type of licensing is necessary at this time," Fay declared, "to ensure that individuals operating boats would be exposed to the rules of the road and the laws of safety."

Hardly a day goes by, Fay complained, "that we don't have some incident with a boat that involves ignorance of rules of the road and basic seamanship." Only the other day, he said, a water skier grazed the side of one of his barges.

"Small boats cause us trouble," agreed Capt. William Figari, operating manager of the Ship Owners and Merchants Tugboat Co. of San Francisco. He urged the committee to "seek some way of more intelligent operation" of small power boats, reporting that he continually finds ship channels clogged with bass fishermen.

(Herald photo)

Hot Topic for Senate Unit

MPH 9/29/65

The controversial topic of licensing pleasure boat operators brought a State Senate fact-finding committee on natural resources to Monterey today for two days of hearings. From left are Sen. Frank S. Petersen of Ukiah; Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, chairman, and Ford B. Ford, committee secretary. See page 1 story.

MPH 10/7/65

Asilomar

Disney at Rangers' Convention

An impressive list of honored guests today was announced for the first annual convention of the California State Park Rangers Association which opens Sunday at Asilomar.

Heading the list is movie producer Walt Disney, scheduled to arrive at Monterey Peninsula Airport about 5 p.m. Monday. Disney, a leading conservationist, is expected to show a film to the convention.

Other guests will include Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson, due to arrive Sunday; Newton B. Drury, former chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks and former director of the National Parks Service; and Mrs. Joseph R. Knowland, wife of the former chairman of the State Park Commission.

Through Tuesday

The convention, to be attended by about 140 persons, will run through Tuesday. Park rangers from throughout California will be present.

Feature of the meeting will be the presentation of scrolls on Monday night to honorary members of the association. Mrs. Knowland will accept one of the scrolls on behalf of her husband, former publisher of the Oakland Tribune. His health will not permit him to make the trip.

Other scrolls will be given to Drury, Mrs. Verna Dunshea, Lee Blaisdell and E.P. French, all noted conservationists and Everett Powell, the first employe of the Division of Beaches and Parks, now retired.

Other Guests

The guest list also will include: State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel; Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra; Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D Sacramento; Hugo Fisher, administrator of the State Natural Resources Agency; Fred Jones, director of the State Department of Parks and Recreation; Ed Dolder, deputy director of the department.

Alfred D. Stern, chairman of the parks committee; Charles DeTurk, chief, Division of Beaches and Parks; Earl Hanson and Jack Knight, both deputy chiefs of the division; and possibly Ira B. Lykes, director of the National Parks Service.

With Rangers

Disney at Asilomar Dedication

MPH 10/12/65

Made Honorary Ranger

Walt Disney, right, shakes hands with Al Salzgeber, vice president of the California State Park Rangers' Association at a press conference in front of the Asilomar administration building. Disney was made an honorary member of the association, which was holding its first annual meeting.

Movie producer Walt Disney was among some 75 persons attending the dedication of Asilomar's new housekeeping headquarters building yesterday.

In presenting the $117,000 facility to the State of California, Arch Balchin, president of the Pacific Grove-Asilomar Operating Corp., noted that it was constructed without cost to the taxpayers.

In accepting the building, Earl Hanson, deputy chief of the planning and control section, Division of Beaches and Parks, described Asilomar as "a credit to the state" and "the state's only self-supporting conference grounds."

Appreciation

Alfred Stern, chairman of the State Park Commission, echoed Hanson's appreciation of the self-supporting status of Asilomar and added "it is probably the only facility in the state park system of which this can be said."

The talks followed conducted tours through the 3,958-square-foot building, which is the new headquarters for the 40 maids and two janitors who service the conference ground's 13 buildings.

Disney was at the grounds for the first convention of the newly-formed California State Park Rangers Association, which also participated in the dedication.

The famous movie magnate was one of seven persons presented with honorary memberships in the association at a banquet last night.

Disney was described by the rangers as one who "has made an outstanding contribution to conservation and the promotion of the state park system."

Especially appreciated was his film, "The Golden Opportunity", credited with helping to pass the $150 million state park bonds last year.

Disney told The Herald he was "very flattered" to be so honored by the rangers and noted that "we worked together to get Proposition 1 across."

He added that "I've been working with wildlife groups for years."

dedication was State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, well known for his efforts in behalf of conservation. Assemblyman Alan Pattee of Corral de Tierra, sent his regrets, explaining that he had to remain in Sacramento for an important vote on redistricting.

Balchin noted that "it's the fourth time since 1956 that buildings have been constructed out of surplus funds" and added that the board of directors is dedicated to "revamping the entire area while retaining the scenic beauty."

Praises Manager

He praised Mrs. Roma Philbrook, manager, as "instrumental in the rebuilding of Asilomar" and paid tribute to architect John Carl Warnecke, who he said "has accomplished everything we desired in each stage of the master plan."

Pacific Grove Mayor Earl D. Grafton welcomed those present and said "the City of Pacific Grove is very fond of Asilomar." He estimated the facility brings nearly $1 million a year into the community.

Hanson expressed the state's appreciation "for the work done by Pacific Grove, the Asilomar Corporation, and Mrs. Philbrook."

Replaces Quarters

The new housekeeping building, constructed on a site formerly occupied by tennis courts, replaces crowded quarters in the Scripps Building.

The redwood structure contains separate rooms for linen sorting, housekeeping supplies, equipment, circulating linen, new linen storage, laundry, boiler, trash, sewing and an office, besides public restroom, locker and employes' restrooms and an employes' dining room with outside wooden deck.

R CHEVROLET COMPANY
MONTEREY
FR 5-5115
04-5621

MPH 10/8/65

State Hotel, Motel Group To Convene

An attendance of 250 is expected at the 54th annual convention of the California State Hotel and Motel Association scheduled to open Sunday at the Mark Thomas Inn.

Highlights of the four-day convention will be a panel discussion Monday on "The Innkeeper's Stake in Tomorrow's California" and a black tie dinner Wednesday night.

Scheduled to participate in the panel discussion at 10 a.m. are State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, Assemblyman Edwin Z'Berg of Sacramento, and George Dean, vice president of the Pacific Telephone Co. Moderator will be Proctor Mellquist, editor of Sunset magazine.

The luncheon Monday will feature an address by Willard Abel, president of the American Hotel and Motel Assn.

The banquet at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club is scheduled for 8 p.m., and will be preceded by a president's reception and cocktail party at 6:30 p.m.

General chairman of the convention is William H. Hubbard of Del Monte Lodge, and vice chairman is Howard Allen of the Mark Thomas Inn.

Rustler 10/14/65

Senator Farr Reports to Constituents

State Senator Fred Farr, in his report to the people of this senatorial district, commended the Salinas Valley Highway Advisory Committee for "its able presentation to the California Highway Commission in Sacramento of the major highway deficiencies in Monterey County."

Senator Farr said, "Particular emphasis was placed on the completion of the freeway on Highway 101 between King City and San Ardo, this being the last remaining link of our major coast highway between San Francisco and Los Angeles that still remains a two-lane road."

In his news letter Senator Farr also commented upon the senate reapportionment matter. He points out that Los Angeles County will gain from 12-15 new senators and these must come from northern California."

"Just what our district will include in addition to Monterey County is difficult to say," remarked Farr. "I am in hopes that our congressional district of Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo Counties will be our new senatorial district, as it not only contains sufficient population, but there is a real community interest among these four counties. One plan suggested would put Monterey, Santa Cruz and the western portion of San Mateo County into a single senatorial district, while a district suggested by the supreme court would include Monterey, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Kern County with two senators to be nominated and elected at large.

"The Senate Reapportionment Committee and staff are diligently struggling to come up with a program that will meet the California Supreme Court's standards by Dec. 5," Farr concluded.

MPH 10/19/65

AAUW To Hear Senator Farr

"The Citizen and the Legislature" will be the subject of Senator Fred S. Farr's talk to the Monterey Peninsula branch of the American Association of University Women at the October general meeting.

A 12:30 luncheon, to be held at the Spindrift Restaurant on Saturday, Oct. 23, will begin the 1965-66 year of study and discussion of the group's chosen topic "The Law and the Citizen."

Senator Farr, who has represented California's 25th Senatorial District of Monterey County in Sacramento since May of 1955, lives on the Peninsula and practices law in Carmel. He was born in Oakland and received his bachelor degree from the University of California at Berkeley. His studies leading to his degree in law were taken at Boalt Hall of Law at the University of California. He has been admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

He has been active in many civic matters in his county and community, where he has lived since 1948. He served as president of the Monterey County Tuberculosis and Health Association and was the first president of the Monterey County Citizens Planning Association. He has been a director of the Red Cross, Community Chest and Rotary Club.

In 1960 he was a delegate to President Eisenhower's White House Conference on Children and Youth and this year, a delegate to President Johnson's conference on the Preservation of Natural Beauty.

Fred Farr is an honorary life member of the Sierra Club. As a member of the State Legislature he is on the Senate Education, Elections, Judiciary, Legislative Representation and Transportation committees and is chairman of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources. He was largely instrumental in getting Asilomar adopted into the State Park System.

Mrs. Joseph Wythe is program chairman. Reservations may be made through Mrs. David Reed (624-3121).

Latest Remapping Bill Liked by Farr

Herald 10/19/65

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, is delighted with the latest reapportionment bill introduced in the Senate.

The bill, SB 6, introduced by Sen. Hugh Burns, D-Fresno, and co-authored by Farr, joins Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties in a single senatorial district, the 17th.

It is the district Farr has been recommending since it first became known that the State Senate was going to have to reapportion itself on a population basis.

The proposed district has boundaries coterminous with the 12th Congressional District.

Farr told the Californian that SB 6 "provides a cohesive senatorial district for the Central Coast Area."

He said that "having worked for many months to get a senatorial district that would have a community of interest, I am delighted with this bill as far as Monterey County and our neighbors to the north and to the south are concerned."

If the legislature fails to enact the bill, and a plan proposed as a mandatory alternative by the State Supreme Court goes into effect, Monterey County would be lumped in with Santa Barbara, Kern and San Luis Obispo counties in a two-seat senatorial district.

Farr isn't fond of the court's plan. But he said today that he believes "whatever changes may be made in the bill (SB 6) during its evolution through the legislature, I feel sure that our new senatorial district will remain intact."

If the 17th District proposed in SB 6 becomes a reality, Farr's opponent in the 1966 special election will be either Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville or Sen. Vernon Sturgeon of Paso Robles—or both. Both Grunsky and Sturgeon are Republicans.

Sen. Farr Invited To Signing

Herald 10/22/65

Monterey County's State Sen. Fred S. Farr, today is attending ceremonies in Washington, D.C. at the signing of the Highway Beautification Bill at the White House.

The Carmel Democrat was invited to the ceremonies by President Johnson.

Before leaving for Washington yesterday, Farr said, "I am gratified that Monterey County will be represented at this significant occasion, particularly in view of the fact that our State Highway No. 1 has been designated the first official scenic highway in the nation, and that Monterey County has been a pioneer in highway beautification."

Farr participated in the White House Conference on Natural Beauty last May and was one of four panel chairmen who presented the conference recommendations to the President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House. He chaired the panel on scenic roads and highways.

Many of Farr's panel's recommendations are included in the newly - passed Highway Beautification Bill, which provides for screening junk yards, controlling billboards and providing roadisde landscaping and beautification funds.

Los-Pajaro-W 10/22/65

Farr to attend signing ceremony

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today was in Washington, D.C., to attend White House ceremonies in the signing of a highway beautification bill.

Sen. Farr's aides said the invitation to attend came from President Johnson.

Farr, chairman of the state Senate's Natural Resources Committee, took part in a White House conference in May on natural beauty. Several of the recommendations resulting from that conference have been incorporated into the highway beautification bill.

Sal Cal 11/22/65

Special Assignment

3 Respected Central Coast Senators Vie for New Seat

By ERIC BRAZIL

Sen. Fred S. Farr

Sen. Donald L. Grunsky

Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon

The race for the new 17th district seat in the state Senate will probably be the center ring attraction in the Central Coast area's 1966 political circus

Three incumbent senators, all highly respected by their Senate colleagues and powerhouses at the polls in their own constituencies, told the Californian yesterday afternoon that they definitely intend to make the race.

The 17th senatorial distirct takes in Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties. Its boundaries are the same as those of the 12th Congressional District.

These are the candidates, who have been thrown into the pit against one another by Senate reapportionment:

— Sen. Fred S. Farr, D. Carmel, who has represented Monterey County in the Senate since 1955. Farr is chairman of the Natural Resources Committee.

— Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R. Watsonville, Senator for Santa Cruz and San Benito counties since 1952. Grunsky is chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

—Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon, R. Paso Robles, the Senator for San Luis Obispo County since 1960. Sturgeon is vice chairman of the Transportation Committee.

The man who is elected state senator from the 17th district will serve a two-year term.

Grunsky - Sturgeon Clash

Grunsky and Sturgeon will clash head-on in the June 7, 1966, primary election for the Republican nomination. At this early date there is no Democratic opposition on the horizon for Farr in the primary.

Farr and Grunsky both voted in favor of the Senate reapportionmnent bill yesterday. Sturgeon voted against it, and he spoke against it on the floor.

Sturgeon, a milk distributor and former Mayor of Paso Robles, won 62 per cent of the San Luis Obispo County vote last year while being reelected over a supposedly strong Democratic candidate, Donald Q. Miller.

But Grunsky, an attorney, did even better. The Democratic party couldn't even scare up a candidate to run against him, and he won in a walkover.

Neither Grunsky nor Sturgeon are considered hard-line conservatives. They are moderate Republicans. In fact Grunsky's voting record during the 1963 legislative session rated high with the liberal California Democratic Council. Sturgeon has authored social welfare legislation.

Grunsky said yesterday that "I hold Sen. Farr and Sen. Sturgeon in the highest regard, and as far as their legislative abilities go, likewise . . . That's why this campaign is going to be a difficult one and an unhappy one for all concerned."

Of Grunsky, Sturgeon said that "I respect him, and I admire him. I say this knowing he'll probably clip this out of the paper" to use in the campaign.

Grunsky Better Known

Grunsky is much better known that Sturgeon in Monterey County, the population center of the new district. He has tried cases for many years in Monterey County Superior Court. And the multi-million dollar recreational grant for San Antonio Dam was obtained —by Sen. Farr—under legislation authored by Grunsky, the Davis-Grunsky Act.

Grunsky was no happier than Sturgeon over the court order for Senate reapportionment, but he said yesterday that "there shouldn't be any question about the (Republican) nomination." He thinks he'll win it.

"A practical political analysis," Grunsky said, indicates that "there is no question that the people in Santa Cruz and San Benito counties will wholeheartedly support me in the primary. If I do no more than split in Monterey County — and I should do better than that — I'll be okay." Grunsky pointed out that he has spent 19 years in the state legislature (more than six as an assemblyman), as against five for Sturgeon.

Won't Back Away

Sturgeon, as a member of the Senate Rules and Reapportionment Committees, tried hard to avoid being thrown into a district with Grunsky. But now that the match has been made, he doesn't intend to back away from it.

"I don't underrate the man in the least," Sturgeon said. "But I was elected to represent San Luis Obispo County when I came up here, and, although I know it's going to be difficult, I owe it to the people to try."

Sturgeon says he plans to start spending some time meeting the people in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties to "let them examine my thoughts and my record and my philosophy."

Grunsky and Sturgeon come from opposite ends of the new Senate district, but neither seems to feel that the geographical location of their homes will work against them in the 1966 election — or against the interests of the people they want to represent.

Sturgeon comes from the lightly - populated northern portion of San Luis Obispo County, and he told the Californian "I know from experience that I have to give that extra service because I don't live in a populous area."

Grunsky said that "Sen. Farr is no more centrally located (in Carmel) than I am." Besides, he said, "I have felt right along that this was the best possible district. These counties belong together."

New Faces?

Farr, who recently said he was "delighted" with the new district, told the Californian that "I don't know that I'm going to be unopposed" in the June 6 primary. In fact he said "I think there will be a lot of new faces in this whole political picture."

But it seems rather unlikely at this point that Central Coast area Democrats would try to jostle Farr, who for several years has been their only elected representative in the state legislature.

More likely, it would appear, is another Republican senatorial candidate from Monterey County. The man most often mentioned in this connection is Tom Hudson, chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, who has been banging his head on the ceiling of courthouse politics for a long time.

For the 1964 general election, there were 98,311 registered Democrats and 78,380 registered Republicans in the four - county 17th senatorial district, which voted for a Democratic President (Johnson) and a Republican Congressman (Talcott).

Capitola's beach problem won't go away

It was an impressive array of polticians.

There was a congressman, a state senator, a state assemblyman, a county supervisor, and several city councilman.

And they had all come to Capitola yesterday to talk about the disappearing beach there, and about the eroded cliffs along East Cliff Drive between Capitola and the Santa Cruz Yacht Harbor.

Rep. Burt Talcott, R-Salinas, Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, Assemblyman Alan Pattee, R-Salinas, and supervisor Tom Black, all of whom represent Capitola in their respective agencies, and all of whom are Republicans, decided Capitola should apply for emergency federal funds under an obscure section of a 1962 rivers and harbor bill.

To which decision, Capitola city administrative officer Ray Abicht commented, "We're no better off than we were before they came."

Abicht said Capitola has known about the bill, which could provide up to $400,000 in funds to do something about the beach, for months.

Its main drawback, however, is that estimates run from three to eight months on how long it would be before something would actually be done for the beach in Capitola.

Capitolans, and residents of East Cliff Drive, want something done now, before their areas, unprotected by a beach, are severely damaged by heavy winter storms.

The whole problem, say Capitola officials and experts, stems from the jetty that was built at the Santa Cruz harbor two years ago. Paul Stephenson, consulting engineer for Capitola, says the jetty has blocked the natural flow of sand along the coast, so that points between the harbor and Capitola are not receiving their due share of sand.

Capitola specifically blames the Army corps of engineers for the problem. Officials say the enineers put in the harbor and the jetty, but did not provide for by-passing the sand around the jetty.

Yesterday, Jack Stirton, a corps of engineers representative, said that it would take between six and eight months for something to be done for the beach, even if the federal money could be appropriated immediately.

He said the only emergency measures that can be taken were to bring sand to the beach, either by dredge or by truck. He said that because of potentially stormy seas, he could never get a dredge to sit in the water at this time of year to do the work. He said this leaves trucking in sand as the only alternative.

"And," he commented, "this does not seem very practical."

Capitolans are talking about 100,000 cubic yards of sand, he said, and there are about 10 yards to a truckload.

That's 10,000 truckloads of sand.

There were several other problems brought out at yesterday's gathering.

One was who, besides the federal government, is going to put up the money? Under Section 103 of the rivers and harbors act of 1962, federal money is available up to $400,000 if state and local agencies involved will match the amount.

Grunsky said that state money at the moment is not available for Capitola. But he said, if Capitola will initiate the request for the federal funds, and then the corps of engineers makes a study and finds that the request is justified, the state could probably come up with some money.

Abicht said Capitola money is not available for Capitola, either. He said he sees no reason why Capitola should put up money to pay for something that was not its fault, and over which it had no control.

Talcott said this is a matter of opinion.

Black didn't say how the county felt about matching the federal money. He did say that it would probably be possible for the supervisors to initiate the application, since the East Cliff Drive area falls within the county's jurisdiction.

(The East Cliff problem is different from Capitola's. There the cliffs are eroding, creating the danger that houses on top will lose their support and fall into the sea. Black called this problem immediate, while he said Capitola's was only "imminent.")

Grunsky suggested that both Capitola and the county apply for the funds as two separate problems, and that perhaps $800,000 could be obtained from the federal government this way.

He asked Abicht if he understood what it was Capitola should do.

WATSONVILLE
Register-Pajaronian
AND SUN

Watsonville, Calif., Friday, October 29, 1965 16 Pages 10 Cents

Winton . . .

Continued from page 1

vote for the one who can do the best job in Sacramento."

He said he hopes to establish an office in Santa Cruz County within the next two or three months.

Winton so far is the only announced candidate for the assembly from the newly-created assembly district.

He was introduced by Henry Mello, chairman of the county Democratic Central Committee, who was instrumental in arranging for Winton's visit.

On a visit to Watsonville yesterday afternoon Winton said if he's elected to represent the new assembly district that he would establish the district office in Santa Cruz County.

It's not only good for the district, but it's good politics, he said.

Winton, a Merced attorney, has faced only nominal opposition from Republicans in his district, and is now serving his fifth consecutive term in the Assembly.

He said he had not supported Assemblyman Alan Pattee's bill for a state lottery.

Earlier in the day he appeared at a luncheon given for him at the Smorgette Restaurant in Capitola. He had just returned from a tour and discussion of the Capitola beach problem.

About 25 persons at the luncheon heard him say, during a brief statement, that there is a connection between Merced and Santa Cruz Counties.

"About half of the people from Merced County move over to Santa Cruz County at some time," he said.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported ...sterday that Forrest B. Chris...nsen, 74, who died Wednesday, ...t four daughters. Instead, he ...t one daughter, Mrs. John ...wyer of Berkeley, and three ...sters, Mrs. Etha Edling of ...chmond, Mrs. Irene Work of ...rraltos and Mrs. Lillian ...nd of Colorado.

...egister-Pajaronian
WATSONVILLE
AND SUN
...ublished daily except Sunday, ...ristmas and New Year's day by ...tsonville Newspapers, Inc. at 18 ...st Lake Avenue, Watsonville, Cali... Telephone PArkway 4-0611 or ...rray 8-2114. Frank F. Orr, editor; ...k M. Banks, business manager; ...d Bushee, managing editor; ...rles R. Peebles III, advertising ...ector. Jerry M. Elliott, circulation. ...ered as second class matter April ...1903, at the post office of Watson..., California, under act of June 8,

Capitola's spirits boosted by Democrats

Capitola, which listened to the Republicans Thursday, let the Democrats have their say about the city's beach problem yesterday.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Assemblyman Gordon Winton, D-Merced, neither of whom currently represent Capitola, but both of whom hope to someday, took a look at the beach and cliff erosion problem along the coast from San Lorenzo Point in Santa Cruz to the Capitola beach.

This made Capitola city officials happier right from the start with the Democrats. Yesterday they had a tour planned for the Republicans—Rep. Burt Talcott, R-Salinas, State Sen. Donald Grunsky, R - Watsonville, and Assemblyman Allen Pattee, R-Salinas—but the three decided that since time was short, they should dispense with the tour and simply discuss the problem.

But Farr and Winton went on the tour, and said they were impressed with what they saw. They stopped at the home of Richards on East Cliff Drive and observed his problem briefly.

Both Farr and Winton have the opportunity of becoming the two state legislators to represent Santa Cruz County as a result of the recent reapportionment bill passed by the legislature.

Under the reapportionment bill, the state senate district will comprise Santa Cruz, Monterey, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties. The Assembly district will be composed of Santa Cruz, San Benito and Merced Counties.

At the conclusion of the tour Winton made Capitola officials happy when he said, "When you actually look at the beach, it impresses you as a much greater problem than photographs of it showed."

Capitola's beach has virtually disappeared, as have those along East Cliff Drive between Capitola and the Santa Cruz Yacht Harbor. Capitolans say eight months to be implemented because a jetty at the harbor, built by the Army Corps of Engineers, has blocked the flow of sand down the coast. City officials want to help than some of the gentlemen here yesterday (Thursday). Nothing transpired here yesterday that we weren't already familiar with."

The officials were disappointed Thursday because the only action Republicans recommended would take at least six to eight months to be implemented.

Although the Democrats came up with nothing more specific than the Republicans, Capitola City Councilman Frank Layton said, "They were more eager to help than some of the gentlemen here yesterday (Thursday). Nothing transpired here yesterday that we weren't already familiar with."

Asked whether he thought the beach problem was being turned into a political football, Sen. Farr said he didn't, that he felt the cooperation of everyone was needed to find a solution to the problem.

Layton, however, did do a little scrimmaging when he likened the Republicans' visit to "putting in your second team."

What the two Democrats did propose was to work hard to get funds from somewhere to come to Capitola's aid immediately. They said both the state and the corps of engineers have money for emergencies, "but it's pretty hard to tap."

Farr said that as chairmatn of the state natural resources committee, he might be able to get some state money. Thursday, Grunsky had said state money was not available without

Continued on Page 2, Col. 6

Future voters

Assemblyman Gordon Winton, upper left, and Henry Pardo, a leading Watsonville Democrat, stopped to chat with newsboys Carl Johnson, lower left, and Phelix Ortiz yesterday while Winton was touring the city. Winton gave the boys his card which has a picture of the state capitol on the back of it.

Winton in Watsonville—he'll run for office

Gordon H. Winton Jr., democratic assemblyman from Merced, got his first real look at Santa Cruz County, and the county at him, on a day-long tour here yesterday.

Winton, who has served in the assembly since 1957, gains Santa Cruz County and loses Madera County under the re-apportionment plan adopted by the legislature at its just-concluded special session. The new assembly district, which comes into being in January of 1967, will be made up of Santa Cruz, San Benito and Merced counties. Santa Cruz County is presently represented by Alan Pattee, R-Salinas, who, after reapportionment takes effect, will represent only Monterey County.

Taking wry note of the fortunes of reapportionment, Winton, speaking to a gathering of non Sturgeon, R-Paso Robles, all of whom are expected to run for the one senate seat representing the newly-formed senate district made up of Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Luis Obispo counties.

Winton told his partisan audience, "I wouldn't expect you to vote for me just because I'm a Democrat. I'd expect you to vote for me because I'm the best represented county in California. I'd expect the senators and Assemblymen."

The senators would be Donald Grunsky, R - Watsonville, Fred Farr, D-Carmel, and Ver-

Capitola . . .

(Continued from page 1)

special legislation.

Winton noted that when the corps of engineers built the harbor, money was set aside for setting up a sand by-pass system, but that nothing had been done about this yet.

"Maybe," he said, "the by-pass money can be used for temporary relief here."

As for funds on the state level, he said "I will do my utmost to get to an emergency fund. I will not say it is not available until the last door has been closed."

Paul Stephenson, consulting engineer for Capitola, estimated that the amount of money needed would be either $100,000 or $250,000. The smaller figure, he said, would be for just bringing in sand to replenish the beach. The larger sum would add a breakwater south of the beach so the sand wouldn't be washed away again.

Winton called for "expedited activity on the part of the corps of engineers." He said Capitola should feel fortunate because under reapportionment, it has five legislators working for it—Winton, and Pattee in the Assembly, and Farr, Grunsky and Vernon Sturgeon, R-Paso Robles, in the Senate.

"All five of us should get together," Winton said, "and apply as much pressure as we possibly can on the state level."

City Administrative officer Ray Abicht distributed a letter received yesterday by Mayor Andrew Antonetti from Gov. Brown, who met with Capitola officials last week.

Said the governor's letter: "Frankly, I was impressed by the merits of the case presented by you and your associates:" The letter added that he had his staff working on the problem, and if the report they come up with is not optimistic, he intends to make a "personal effort to get approval of a cooperative approach to solve the problem. I agree that immediate action is required."

Said Abicht of yesterday's meeting with the Democrtas:

"The atmosphere was more optimistic today. I think we have a lot of people working for us. Most of what we heard Thursday is not new to us, and besides it doesn't solve our immediate problem."

Several persons after yesterday's meeting asked the question, "What does?"

Senator Farr Was At White House For Bill Signing

Pine Cone 10/28/65

Senator Fred S. Farr of Carmel, chairman of the California Senate Natural Resources Committee, was invited by President Lyndon Johnson, and attended, ceremonies at the signing of the Highway Beautification Bill at the White House last Friday.

Senator Farr stated, "I am gratified that Monterey County was represented at this significant occasion, particularly in view of the fact that our State Highway One has been designated the first official scenic highway in the nation and that Monterey County has been a pioneer in highway beautification."

Senator Farr was a participant at the White House Conference on Natural Beauty in May of this year and was one of four panel chairmen who presented the conference recommendations to the President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House. He chaired the panel on scenic roads and highways. Many of this panel's recommendations are included in the highway beautification measure. The provisions of screening junkyards, controlling billboards and providing roadside landscaping and beautification funds were included in the report authored by Senator Farr.

Senator Farr at White House for Scenic Road Bill

Reveille 10/29/65

Senator Fred Farr chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, attended the ceremonies at the signing of the Highway Beautification Bill at the White House last week.

Senator Farr stated, "I was gratified that Monterey County was represented at this significant occasion, particularly in view of the fact that our State Highway No. 1 was designated the first official scenic highway in the nation and that Monterey County has been a pioneer in highway beautification."

Monterey Peninsula Herald
Friday, Oct. 29, 1965. 2

Farr Urges Support of 'Trick-Treat'

State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel today urged generous support of Peninsula youngsters who will go from door-to-door tonight and tomorrow night in UNICEF's Halloween "trick or treat" program.

"Each year millions of American children show their concern and friendship for their neighbors around the world by collecting coins for UNICEF at Halloween," Farr said.

"With our help, these coins add up to health and hope for three-quarters of the world's children who suffer poverty, disease, chronic hunger and ignorance."

Farr also expressed the hope that the recent Nobel award to the UNICEF program "will hold off such boycotts and campaigns of intimidation by local extremists of the right as occurred last year during the Christmas season."

Peninsula Notebook

The Golden Girl Turns Tomboys Into Ladies

"A 10-year-old tomboy isn't too young to learn how to be a lady," said Miss California sagely. After Sandra Lynne Becker was crowned at Santa Cruz nearly five months ago she started teaching little girls to be ladies, so she should know what she's talking about.

Sandi made an official visit to Monterey on Thursday and was having lunch at the Jolly Roger restaurant-by-the-sea when we dropped in to meet her. Miss California is obviously everyone's dream of the girl of the golden west—tall and comely, with burnished blonde hair (her own) and sweeping eyelashes (not quite her own), a toasted gold complexion and eyes the color of dark honey.

She started her charm classes last summer with five girls in the family garage at her home in Covina. Now her own class has grown to 20 10-to-15-year-olds, and she also teaches 25 more at nearby St. Catherine's Catholic school. She meets her classes about three times a week, for one or two hours at a stretch, between her official tours. "They think it's sort of exciting to be taught by Miss California," she admitted. And, "Yes, I make them walk around with books on their heads," she says, just as young ladies were made to do in finishing schools of another era.

We asked Sandi how long she had been lured by the idea of competing for Miss California. "It happened suddenly," she said. "I was homecoming queen at high school. Then my home town — it's a very small town — made me its queen, the first time Covina had ever had a queen, and wanted me to enter the national orange show at San Bernardino. Then they suddenly switched and had me running for Miss Los Angeles, and I won that and then came the Miss California pageant. I'm the first blonde Miss California, and the youngest. I was 18 only a month before I was crowned.

"It's really hard work and exhausting having to remember every minute that you're a queen. The image, you know. But it's worth it. One thing though, they made me cut my hair. It used to be almost long enough to sit on; I wore it in a long pony tail. It's naturally blonde because I spend so much time on the beach. I think I'll grow it again later on."

Most of Sandi's time is spent traveling around California in promotion and public relations duties (she had opened Olympia Plaza Thursday morning). "Very good discipline because you always have to be just as nice to everyone as you can possibly be. And they are all so nice to me!" Not a bit surprising, we thought.

As we left the Jolly Roger we passed Sen. Fred Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee going in for a smile from the golden girl.

Sandi Becker

Crowd of 500

A portion of a crowd of more than 500 persons is shown at last night's GOP $50-a-plate fund-raising dinner at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. The event, with

CRED
R TV
choi

tured New York strip roast beef.

(Herald photos)

Friends and Rivals

Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, center, of Corral de Tierra, has a bit of campaign advice for the men expected to fight it out for the Republican nomination for State Senate in the new 17th District next year. At left is Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon of Paso Robles. At right is Sen. Donald Grunsky of Watsonville. Under recent reapportionment, Sturgeon and Grunsky have been tossed together in the same district along with Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel. Sturgeon, Grunsky and Farr all plan to run.

Bypass Opens in North Salinas

Sal Cal 10/30/65

A cavalcade of antique cars was the first "civilian" traffic over the North Salinas bypass yesterday as civic officials opened the city's newest freeway.

Federal, state, county and city dignitaries rode smilingly in the vintage vehicles of the Salinas Antique Car Club to inspect the ultra - modern four-lane bypass prior to ribbon cutting ceremonies presided over by Salinas Mayor G. Sid Gadsby.

Regular traffic began flowing in the southbound lanes of the bypass about 5:30 p.m. Northbound lanes were not open last night because of heavy fog, but traffic was moving on all lanes of the bypass by 9 a.m. this morning.

Preceding their inspection tour and ribbon cutting, dignitaries met at the Capri Restaurant for luncheon and a round of speech making.

A Happy Day

Mayor Gadsby set the speakers' tone as he opened talks saying, "All I want to do is welcome you here and tell you how happy we are this day has finally come. We want to offer our congratulations to the State Highway Division for the beautiful freeway that is to be opened today."

Fred Bagshaw, State Highway Division deputy director of public works, replied, "We are always pleased when a community shows its appreciation of what we are trying to do by having a celebration (in connection with a freeway). He reminded his listeners that in the 1966-67 budget "there is an item that is going to beautify this highway," referring to a $105,000 landscaping appropriation.

Supervisor Warren Church, in

BYPASS Page 2, Col. 4

FREEWAY OPENS—Salinas Mayor G. Sid Gadsby cuts ribbon to open officially the newly completed North Salinas freeway bypass in ceremonies yesterday afternoon. From left Supervisor Arthur Atteridge, State Sen. Fred S. Farr, Supervisor Warren Church, Gadsby and Cong. Burt L. Talcott.

whose district the new highway lies, said "This very important link that is being opened bypasses one of the most dangerous sections of roadway in Monterey County, Santa Rita. This is the first phase of a freeway link from Salinas to the Monterey County line."

Jack Bias, Salinas Chamber of Commerce vice president, said, "We are proud of the Chamber's Highway and Transportation Committee. We know where we are going, and we haven't had some of the disputes other communities have had (in reference to freeways.) We wish to cooperate with the State Highway Commission."

Supervisor Arthur Atteridge picked up the same theme, "This marks a fine step in the development of the highway program in Monterey County. It shows the excellent relationship that has existed between the people of the Salinas Valley and the State Highway Commission."

A Hanry Reminder

Supervisor Harold Henry, conceding that, "This is a very important link," took the opportunity to remind state highway officials that, "I think the most important link is the 21 miles (of present two-lane 101) between King City and San Ardo."

Henry added, "I want to thank the Salinas Chamber and the Salinas Valley Highway Advisory Committee for bringing about the fine relationship we have with the State Highway Commission."

Robert Datel, State Highway Division District V engineer, returned the compliment, "You are one of the best groups to work with because you want highways." Datel also praised contractors Granite Construction Company and resident engineer Al Jorge for their work on the project.

State Sen. Fred S. Farr raised the point of "highway aesthetics" and said, "I hope we will work not only for efficient highways, for safe highways but for beautiful highways as well."

This gave Salinas Chamber Secretary - Manager Robert Elking an opportunity to say, "We look at our ice plant jungle and we look at the Carmel Hill and we wonder if the squeaking wheel doesn't demand more oil."

Having said their say, dignitaries climbed into vintage cars and behind a California Highway Patrol car bearing Capt. Francis Simmons and Salinas Police Chief Ray McIntyre drove off to look over the freeway.

After their ribbon cutting ceremony they stepped aside to permit regular traffic to get used to the idea of going around North Salinas and Santa Rita.

Period of Adjustment

Engineer Jorge this morning reminded motorists it will take some getting used to for the next few weeks. For about three weeks construction work will continue on the Espinosa Road tie in and there will be workmen all along the freeway path tidying up and clearing up loose construction ends.

On Monday, Jorge said, the Main Street off ramp from the freeway will be closed for a three - week period to permit reconstruction which will allow a return to two - lane traffic across the Main Street overcrossing for northbound travelers.

Farr, Pattee Like Redistricting Bill

MPH 10/19/65

State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, a co-author of the senate reapportionment bill introduced yesterday, today expressed confidence that "whatever changes may be made in the bill," the proposed 17th District embracing Monterey County will remain intact.

"Having worked for many months to get a senatorial district that would have a community of interest, I am delighted with this bill as far as Monterey County and our neighbors to the north and south are concerned," Farr said.

He noted that, should the legislature fail to enact the bill, a court plan will go into effect linking Monterey County with San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Kern counties.

Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, R-Corral de Tierra, said the Senate bill provides a fine district for Monterey County. It would put Monterey County into a Senate district which is the same as the 12th Congressional District (Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito and San Luis Obispo counties).

However, Pattee said that while he is pleased, a number of other assemblymen are very unhappy with the Senate's bill. Thus Pattee said he does not think the Senate bill will pass the Assembly.

Cattlemen Hold Meeting In Soledad

Soledad Bee 11/3/65

Meeting at the Soledad Inn last Thursday night, Monterey County Cattlemen's Assn., dedicated the session to the memory of the late Frank Echeberria, ex-supervisor and longtime member of the association, who died in August.

Presiding at the meeting was Floyd Grigory, association president.

Marcel Layous, south county cattle rancher, was named to serve out Mr. Echeberria's unexpired term on the board of directors.

Ticket sales for the cattlemen's state convention banquet to be held in Monterey Dec. 4, are in progress, with Soledad's Bob McCandliss in charge.

Speakers at the session were Bill Inness and Mark Schroder, state and Federal meteorologists respectively. They explained many facts about California weather and what makes it behave the way it does.

About 80 cattlemen and guests attended the meeting, including State Sen. Fred Farr.

The Brief Case November 1965

Uniform Law Commissioners

The California Commission on Uniform State Laws represented the largest delegation, at the 74th annual meeting of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, held in Hollywood, Florida, during the week of August 2nd-7th. The full complement of seven, all of whom attended, consisted of two members of the State Legislature, the Legislative Counsel, and four appointees of the Governor. They were part of a delegation of about 122, representing fifty states. Fourteen proposals were considered, among which were Civil Rights, Consumer Protection, Land Mail Frauds. L. to r.: Hon. Edwin L. Z'Berg, Assembly; Sol Silverman; George H. Murphy, Secretary, California Commission and Legislative Counsel; C. P. Von Herzen; George Richter, Jr., Chairman, California Commission; Alvin J. Rockwell; Senator Fred S. Farr, member, National Conference's Executive Committee.

2-Willows Daily Journal, Thursday, Nov. 4, 1965

EDITORIAL

Cow Counties' Solons Excel

IT TOOK A BIG-county legislator to put into proper perspective the importance of the so-called "cow county" senators in Sacramento.

Senator George Miller Jr. of Contra Costa county, addressing a group at a dinner in Sacramento Tuesday for Senator Virgil O'Sullivan, referred to him and a group of his colleagues in saying: "Our very best men in the Legislature come from the 'cow counties.' Why? Because the people can come to know them and to judge them."

This was no mere testimonial oratory.

Outstanding examples of the truth of his comment sat and listened as he spoke. And there was an aura of an Irish wake about the whole affair as you looked from one to another of these dedicated public servants and wondered how many would remain in the Senate after running in large population centers of reapportioned districts.

FORMER SENATOR Stanley Arnold of Susanville, whose thinly populated three-county district has been expanded to encompass most of the Sierras, had already made his decision and accepted a judgeship.

Matching his mountains in outspoken ruggedness, Judge Arnold was a member of the Senate "Turks" of whom Senator O'Sullivan is an outstanding member--dedicated to the public interest, and to hell with the lobbyists when they get in the way.

Senator Stephen P. Teale, whose three Northern Sierra counties have been incorporated into the same 12-county district, has announced he will run for re-election, but faces a tough fight, since the district, extending more than half the length of California, is weighted population-wise at the extreme south end.

A doctor of medicine, he, as Arnold, is fiercely independent and scrupulously honest to his public trust.

THEN THERE WAS Senator Joseph A. Rattigan of Santa Rosa, whose one-county district is being expanded to cover all costal counties, plus Siskiyou and Lake, from Sonoma to the Oregon border.

Painstaking and dedicated, Rattigan, too, is among the most effective senators in Sacramento.

Senator Rattigan, who presumably would run in the Democratic primary against Senator Randolph Collier, is reported to be undecided. Collier has made great contributions to the state, primarily in its highway system, but whatever dedication to the public welfare he may feel cannot be measured by the same yardstick as applies to the O'Sullivans, Arnolds, Teales, Rattigans and Petersens.

Senator Rattigan will be making a far greater contribution to the people of California than perhaps he realizes if he decides to run for re-election, as Senator O'Sullivan has decided to do.

Although from more populated areas, Senators Fred S. Farr and George Miller are of the same caliber as the group of progressive, dedicated "cow-county" legislators. What they represent to California in independence, scrupulous honesty and public service is very much worth keeping to as great an extent as reapportionment permits.

--E.F.D.

Herald 11/3/65

Welfare Case

The Chain Of Poverty Is Strong

BY STAN CLOUD
(Second of Two Parts)

Mrs. Marie Furtado of Monterey lives with her four children in a small, two bedroom house with three beds—one of which is nothing more than a mattress on the floor.

The house is in a pleasant enough neighborhood in an older section of Monterey. It is neat and clean and—although sparsely furnished—it seems reasonably comfortable in spite of its size.

There is a television set which seems to be the family's only luxury, if, indeed, it is a luxury. The Furtados have no car.

Mrs. Furtado has been a welfare case in Monterey County. She has been receiving public funds for most of the three years she and her children have lived here.

Before that, she was on welfare elsewhere. In fact, she has been receiving welfare checks for seven and a half years since just before her husband was committed to a Veterans Administration hospital with brain damage caused by excessive consumption of alcohol.

Income

During those seven years, her only sources of income have been Social Security benefits, VA allotments, welfare and what money she could earn working part-time as a practical nurse.

Currently, she is receiving only $190 a month—$140 from Social Security and $50 from the VA. Until this summer she also received about $160 a month from the County Welfare Office.

However, several weeks ago she received the following note from the welfare office:

"(Your) July and August warrants have been cancelled because your income was more than your budget during those months. The September warrant has been rewritten in the amount of $97. Your September budget includes: $10 washing machine payment, $91.58 for bunk beds and $8.32 for a bed frame."

That meant that Mrs. Furtado was temporarily dropped from the welfare rolls because she requested and received a total of about $700 from her husband's pay in three checks during April, May and June.

Then last month, Mrs. Furtado received another note from the welfare department:

Adjustment

It read: "Your October warrant has been withheld effective 10-1-65 because it is necessary to adjust overpayment from September."

Thus, Mrs. Furtado was dropped for another month because she did not use the $97 she received to pay for the washing machine, bunk beds and bed frame. She says she used the money instead to pay, among other things, part of her back rent, which is now two months past due—a total of $220.

Marie Furtado first came to Monterey from Arkansas with her family during the depression. As a young girl she worked in the canneries and attended schools in Monterey and Salinas.

Later, she met Albert Furtado, married him and eventually bore him six children. Albert Furtado has no trade. However, except for military service during the war, he worked steadily in several states until he was hospitalized.

Mrs. Furtado returned here with her four youngest children three years ago when her husband was transferred to the Palo Alto VA hospital.

She has a number of relatives in this area, including two sons, one of whom is working his way through a Northern California junior college. However, the relatives are not in a position to help, Mrs. Furtado says.

"I come from a long line of poor people," she said.

Breaking the Chain

Does Mrs. Furtado have any chance of breaking that chain of poverty? Probably not. Certainly not when the welfare department applies its standards as rigidly as it apparently has done in her case.

John Mockler, State Sen. Fred Farr's legislative assistant, who has tried to help Mrs. Furtado, inquired about her problem in Sacramento and told The Herald that income standards used to determine eligibility for welfare are purely a local matter.

"The counties could pay $10,000 a year if they wanted to," Mockler said.

However, County Welfare Director William Leach says that Mrs. Furtado received more than the local limit and—regardless of her back debts—that makes her ineligible for payments until the books are balanced. He adds that she may appeal the decision to Sacramento if she feels it is unfair.

No Appeal

Mrs. Furtado has not appealed. She says an appeal would take too long, that her need is immediate and that—in any event—"all of the welfare people stick together."

She has received some assistance, however. The Family Service Agency, the Salvation Army, the Hilltop Grocery near her home and her landlady have, at one time or another, helped her.

But it has not been enough. Her debts are mounting. She is in poor health and overweight and faces an operation which will reduce her weight.

"When you don't have adequate income, you're always behind, behind, behind," she said.

Mrs. Furtado's case seems, on the basis of the evidence I have been able to gather, a partial indictment of the philosophy of welfare in this county.

The rules obviously were adopted to discourage malingering. However, it appears that they are applied equally to all cases and that approach would seem to defeat what should be the primary goal of welfare—to get people off the rolls and on their feet.

No Provision

There seems to be no procedure whereby the social workers can apply the rules differently in different cases. Or, if there is such a provision, it has not been applied in Mrs. Furtado's case for a reason which has yet to be explained.

Perhaps popular distaste for growing welfare costs is encouraging unnecessarily rigid standards in certain cases. And, on the other hand, the standards seem to act to keep people on welfare and, thus, account at least partially for the increasing costs.

It is truly a vicious circle and it has its effect as well on the recipients of welfare. It is not an easy thing for a proud person to admit that someone else is paying his bills.

Mrs. Furtado admits receiving the extra money, but insists it was only to pay debts she had already incurred. The welfare department has not denied this.

"I want to get off welfare," Mrs. Furtado said. "Your life is not your own . . . You have to report everything you do. You're watched and you get into trouble. I'll tell you it's the good people who get into trouble."

"There's so many technicalities," she said, "there's so many loopholes and that's why people that's on welfare turn to crime. What else is there for them?"

It is a good question.

Sen. Farr Hails Freeway Decision

State Sen. Fred Farr, D. Carmel, today hailed the decision of the State Highway Commission to route a freeway around Prairie Creek State Park and to consider alternatives to its adopted route through Jedediah Smith State Park.

Farr said the Commission's decision to spare the north coast redwoods is a milestone in the efforts and planning of all public agencies concerned and conservationists in working together "to insure that publicly financed projects are executed in the greatest public interest." Herald 11/19/65

Re Rock Freeway around Prairie Creek State Park

MPH 11/20/65

Farr Praises Decision on Roads Plan

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today applauded the decision of the State Highway Commission to route a freeway around Prairie Creek State Park in the Redwoods.

He also praised the commission's decision to consider alternatives to adopting a routing through another big trees park — Jedediath Smith State Park.

Farr called the actions a milestone in the efforts of planning agencies and conservationists to insure that publicly financed projects are executed in the greatest public interest.

"I wish to publicly commend the highway commission in its decision with respect to protecting the integrity of these two great public redwood parks," he said.

"I know the decision was a difficult one and it promises to be an historical one inasmuch as the same consideration involving the protection of natural resources in highway projects must, and I am now confident will be, applied to other pending and projected highway routings."

Farr said the commission's decisions were in "complete consonance with the recommendations of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources and the desires of the multitude of conservationists nationwide."

Farr Hails Anchovy Reduction Permit

Granting of a permit by the State Fish and Game Commission for the reduction of 10,000 tons of anchovies north of Point Conception during the forthcoming season, should make it possible for Monterey Bay's two operating canneries to stay in the black, State Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel reported today.

The two canneries are the Hovden Food Products Corp. of Cannery Row and the Santa Cruz Canning Co. of Moss Landing.

In a compromise agreement, the commission, meeting Friday in San Diego, granted commercial interests the right to take 75,000 tons of anchovies annually; 65,000 tons south of Point Conception and 10,000 tons north. The Northern California fishermen had applied for 15,000 tons.

Led Fight

"I believe the action, which is the result of 4½ years of struggle, will mean a lot to the fishing industry here," said Farr, who has led the fight on behalf of Monterey and Santa Cruz County commercial fishermen.

Scientists have said that 111,000 tons could easily be taken without causing any appreciable depletion, but Southern California sports fishermen have opposed this consistently, with the result that such applications have been denied in the past. The new permit allows reduction of anchovies to fish meal for poultry and livestock and should supplement the earnings of local fishermen."

Both Farr and John (Bricky) Crivello, business agent for the Seine and Line Fishermen's Union, confirmed reports that Russian trawlers have been sighted moving southward from the Bering Sea toward California waters, where they are believed to be harvesting anchovy and reducing the fish to meal aboard their specially designed ships.

"Under international law," said Farr, "they can operate 25 or 30 miles offshore, perfectly legally."

Crivello pointed out that the anchovies are believed to be keeping down the sardine population by feeding on sardine spawn.

"Where anchovies now dominate the sardines by perhaps 100 to 1 in mixed schools, fishing of the anchovies might result in a comeback for the sardines," Crivello said. "The only way you can find out is by trying it.

"You can bet that the Russians are studying this, all along the coast."

Season Set

The new permit allows netting from Oct. 11 through April 30, with all commercial operations to be conducted outside the three - mile offshore limit.

"We feel happy that we've got this going, but we'd like the season to open in August," Crivello added. "There's a great resource out there which could put a lot of unemployed fishermen back to work. The 10,000 tons includes San Francisco also, and since the Fish and Game Department has regulatory powers, presumably they'll blow the whistle when the 10,000 - ton mark has been reached.

"Meanwhile, Monterey Bay fishermen will be able to add to their earnings from squid."

(Herald photo)

Harbor Commissioners Here

Members of the State Small Craft Harbor Commission boarded the Coast Guard's new 44-foot launch in the marina yesterday afternoon for a tour of inspection of Monterey's harbor. At left is Lachlan Richards, director of the state bureau; beside him, Commissioner John Reginato; Monterey City Manager John Nail; Commissioner Don Loker; and Monterey City Atty. Bill Marsh. The group was especially interested to trace the location of the projected breakwater which will run from Monterey beach to a point near the present Coast Guard pier.

Harbor Funds In Next Budget

As the State Small Craft Harbors Commission opened a meeting in Monterey today, Monterey City Manager John Nail said he has learned that the division of Small Craft Harbor plans to include $825,000 in Monterey harbor funds in its 1966-67 budget.

Final approval of the budget rests with the commission which is the policy-setting board for the division. Action on the budget is not expected until next year.

Earlier this year, Monterey requested state funds in the amount of :

1—$500,000 for a part of the local share of the cost of a 9 million federal companion breakwater.

2—$325,000 for two projects: A — an extension of the bulkhead wall along the shoreline between the municipal wharves and B—construction of berthing facilities for larger boats along the frontal wall of the marina.

During the meeting in the council chambers, the commission, on request of State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, agreed to sponsor a statewide law enforcement meeting dealing with matters of water safety.

The commission directed its staff to work out details for the meeting. Sen. Farr, acting in his capacity as chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Commission, said he hopes the meeting can be held in Monterey.

Farr first proposed such a meeting during a session of his committee in Monterey on Oct. 6-7. He said that a lot of confusion currently exists over the enforcement of water safety regulations. He said that district attorneys, sheriffs, Coast Guard representatives, police, harbormasters and others should be invited to the conference.

The commission, headed by chairman Ralph Montali of San Francisco, planned both morning and afternoon sessions here today. The agenda featured a number of requests of communities for state funds.

MPH 11/20/65

Pro-Viet Nam Rally Tomorrow in Monterey

State Sen. Donald Grunsky (R - Watsonville), will join a corps of speakers at the Victory in Viet Nam convocation to be held in front of Colton Hall tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Sponsored by a group of students from Monterey Peninsula College and endorsed by a number of veterans and service organizations, the demonstration to which everyone is invited is to thank servicemen who are fighting and dying for freedom in Viet Nam. It will be moved to the American Legion Hall at the top of Jefferson street in the event of rain.

In announcing the convocation, the students said they were concerned with a minority on the extreme left who they feel are attempting to undermine the principles of freedom and liberty in America.

Latest organization to lend moral support is the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee. This morning Dr. Robert Bowersox, a member, said the central committee recently rejected a request to support a resolution urging immediate halt to further bombing in North Viet Nam. He said, "The Central Committee voted against the resolution and in favor of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy."

Other organizations who have indicated support or sympathy for the rally include the United Veterans, Carpenters Union, Young Americans for Freedom, Sons of the American Revolution, Teenage Republicans, Young Republicans, Association of the U.S. Army, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Seaside Kiwanis Club and the American Legion.

The program will begin at 1 p. m. tomorrow with a welcome from Monterey Mayor Minnie

(Continued on page 2)

Coyle who will lead in the Flag Salute.

Master of ceremonies will be Steve Magyar. Rev. Burkett Cree of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula will give the invocation.

Mayors in Support

There will be brief talks by Mayor James W. Wilson of Del Rey Oaks, Mayor John M. Pattullo of Seaside, Mayor Earl D. Grafton of Pacific Grove and a representative for Mayor Herbert Blanks of Carmel.

Dick Berg, an MPC student, will read a letter from a priest in Viet Nam. A letter from Supervisor Andy Anderson will be read by Diane Hall, MPC student.

There will be entertainment by Janet Green, folk singer, and then Ed Hunt, an MPC student, will read a letter from State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel).

Robert Lynch, an MPC student will speak, followed by the reading of a telegram from U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel (D-Cal.). Maj. Gen. Frank L. Culin (USA ret) of Monterey Peninsula Country Club will speak, followed by Supervisor Tom Hudson

A letter from Dr. Jack Leach, an MPC instructor, will be read and then Sen. Grunsky will speak.

Daniel M. Rosenthal, an MPC student, will give a short talk, followed by the benediction and a question and answer period.

Students sponsoring the convocation have urged the public to atetnd.

Pioneer South County Lady Celebrates 100th Birthday

The Rustler 11/25/65

Mrs. Catherine Casey, a pioneer resident of the south county, will celebrate her 100th birthday Tuesday, Nov. 23.

She now lives in Pacific Grove with her two daughters, Miss Marie Casey and Mrs. Ada Harris. Her birthday will be marked by a quiet family gathering including her daughters and her two sons, William of Long Valley and Harry of King City, and their wives.

During the week friends and relatives have been dropping in to visit at intervals in order not to tire Mrs. Casey, who enjoys reasonably good health considering her years. Her mind is alert and she takes pleasure in hearing from old friends and visiting, although her hearing is impaired.

She's been living with her daughters at 110 Carmel Ave., Pacific Grove since an illness which hospitalized her about five years ago. Prior to that she lived in Long Valley with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Casey.

For 40 years Mrs. Casey has been a widow, her husband, William P. Casey, having passed away in 1925.

She came to Monterey County from her native Humboldt County, having been born in Petralia the year Lincoln was assassinated. Her father Judge Mike Hoalton had holdings in Sargent Canyon near San Ardo.

It was in 1890 that she married Bill Casey who then lived in Long Valley. In 1893 the couple moved with their young family to what for years was known as the "Casey place" on the Trescony grant near San Lucas, where Bill Casey farmed for 25 years. He also farmed a portion of the Brandenstein at San Ardo and his own place in Long Valley, which he purchased in 1911.

During these years Casey was elected supervisor from the fourth district, serving from 1904 until 1916, and as The Rustler reported in 1915, "Mrs. Casey's tactful but vivacious temperament and charm of manner have contributed their share to the supervisor's success."

She was renowned for her hospitality, for the table she set, and for her skill in gardening that made the Casey place a shady oasis of ornamental trees and vines.

In 1918 the couple moved to Long Valley into a large comfortable house on the home place, which was Mrs. Casey's residence until she moved to Pacific Grove.

In addition to her sons and daughters, Mrs. Casey has four grandchildren — Mrs. Jean Stone of Pacific Grove, Mrs. Olive Coutant of Auburn, Mrs. Dorothy Poggi of Willows and Harry F. Casey of King City. Her 10 great-grandchildren are Mrs. Robert Murray and Bill Stone of Pacific Grove, Karen and Bill Coutant of Auburn, Anna Jean and Tony Poggi of Willows and Sharon, Patty, Richard and Bill Casey of King City.

In addition to the many cards and letters from friends throughout the county, letters of congratulations on her 100th birthday have been directed to her by President Johnson, Congressman Talcott and Senator Farr. She'll be honored on her birthday by a resolution passed by the county board of supervisors, which her late husband served for 12 years, part of the time as chairman.

Hearing on Geothermal Energy Set

MPH 12/1/65

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, chairman of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources, today announced he has called a public hearing for Dec. 8 in Palm Springs on the subject of geothermal energy and associated mineral resources.

Farr said the geothermal industry uses the heat of the earth as its source of energy.

It manifests itself in many forms, from geysers which produce pure steam in Sonoma County to the subterranean mineral rich brine fields in the Salton Sea area, he declared.

Farr said his committee will seek to determine the potential for developing more power geothermal sources in California. "Our major power producers state that power service must be doubled in the next ten years . ."

Beautification Conference Set Jan. 11-12

Herald 12/17/65

LOS ANGELES — More than 1,000 Californians will meet Jan. 11-12 at the Ambassador Hotel to launch Gov. Edmund G. Brown's Conference on California Beauty.

State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, is a member of a 34-man citizens advisory committee which has been working for many months in preparation of the program.

This meeting will represent the largest group of citizens ever gathered in California for the purpose of discussing preservation of California's natural heritage.

About 100 nationally-recognized conservation leaders, including Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, also will attend.

The Mercury

★★★★ SAN JOSE, CALIF., TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 30, 1965 49

Help May Be Available For Battered Capitola

CAPITOLA — This surf-battered city Monday got the happy word that state funds are in fact available to protect its "exposed" waterfront.

And prospects are bright that aid is in the offing—maybe by Christmas.

Members of a special state-fact-finding committee Monday all but bowled over Capitola officials by saying state money is available if the city's waterfront problem is declared to be an emergency.

Local officials had been told no state funds were available.

Purpose of the committee's daylong visit here, members said, was to provide Gov. Brown with information on whether an emergency here ixists.

Committee members, in talks with Capitola officials, strongly indicated they felt an emergency exists because of the city's weakened seawall and the fact that the city's main sewer line is only a few feet behind the wall in some places.

Committee members, however, indicated that state money would be provided only for stop-gap measures, such as bringing in rock to protect the seawall.

Heading up the committee were James Trout, official of the State Department of Finance; Robert Penny, official with the State Department of Water Resources; and Paul Roberts, official with the State Division of Beaches and Parks, which owns Capitola beach.

Penny, in a conversation with State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), said, "There is no doubt but that there is a potential danger here."

"If it (the seawall) gives way, the sewer line no doubt would go," he said.

Farr, along with Capitola City Councilmen and other officials, went on a tour with the state committee.

Capitola officials contend the Army Corps of Engineers is responsible for the city's beach washing away. They contend an emergency exists because without the beach there is no protection from the surf.

City officials say that a rock jetty the Army designed for Santa Cruz Yacht Harbor is blocking the downcoast flow of sand to Capitola.

City officials have asked the Army to bring in 100,000 tons of sand to rebuild the beach and to build an offshore groin to help block downcoast flow of sand.

The Army has said it has no funds for such work.

Penny Monday said he doubts that the state would finance such a project. He indicated, however, that some aid would be made available.

"I have nothing to say in this," said Penny. "This is up to my superiors and Gov. Brown".

Gov. Brown has promised the City of Capitola to do whatever is possible to help. A delegation of Capitol officials met with the governor two months ago.

sunken ground above Capi- are Mayor Andrew Anto- ncilman William Morrison nan Frank Layton. They ion party damage done to the sea.

give birth control information to anyone in the foreign countries they were aiding. This policy was based on an emphatic press conference statement by President Eisenhower, Dec. 2, 1959: "I cannot imagine anything more emphatically a subject that is not a proper political or government activity. . . . This government will not, as long as I am here, have a positive political doctrine in its program that has to do with this problem of birth control. That's not our business."

* * *

HANGES MIND — It took some time to reverse this. Strong positions taken by India and Pakistan earlier in favor of fertility control programs helped the reversal. President Kennedy made a cautious approach toward reversal, April 24, 1963, when he said that we should know more about the whole reproductive cycle and this information should be made more available to the world so that everyone could make his own judgment.

By October of 1963 the world was becoming so alarmed over the population bulge that Eisenhower, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, reversed himself.

One year later Ike became co-chairman of the Council of Planned Parenthood, World Population, Inc.

What caused him to change his mind was various population studies showing that by the year 2000 the world would be so crowded that water would be a serious problem, that people would be reduced to taking common baths and in some areas would have to sleep on the floor so bedrooms could be used for other purposes during the daytime.

DENSITY — Some of these problems have been outlined by Constantine Doxiadis, the Greek city planner, who has projected a typical city, "Ecumenopolis," for 2050 A.D., when he estimates the density of population in Canada and the United States will be 250,000 per square mile.

Doxiadis estimates that residential city blocks one square kilometer in size will house 100,000 persons. Private homes will not exist, suburban life will be impossible. There will be no garden space for anyone.

All this was why Bobby Kennedy's statement in Peru shocked many people in Washington. It should not have been a surprise, however.

ry Driver Has The # ings of a Statistic

Ann Landers Has Answers

Landers: My a terrible henever we argument he of the house 'I'm too mad ride it out of ." Then he the street in heads for the ay.
it be better if and talked I worry that ave an acci- ys he's a good that this is a y to get over . Comment, RUSELLA
: He would be if he parked l took a brisk e ven ran block. And so yone he meets d. An angry a dangerous ope you can cross to him becomes a d takes a few him.
Landers: My nd I just re- m a vacation st coast. Last e wanted to iet hour in a orship. appalled at saw. Several children were laughing and h other during They popped peanuts and dy bar wraps about seven ay down in the retended to be bicycles. One left for the right in the the Lord's husband and I the parents this will ask if they are allowing their behave in this ul manner.— ITY, MON-les City: Par- permit such disclose a ack of respect eligion. It isn't st to take chil- church. They ow why they re and they taught how to n Landers: Be- ng sentence on gers convicted eft an Illinois d some things eel are worth ge said, "You g men have icted of a fel- ony is a crime has no criminal record.

"In a few years you will be 21. Others your age will be allowed to vote. You will be denied this privilege.

"I am granting you a parole. A parole is in no sense a pardon. Your conviction is now a matter of record. It will be with you to the end of your days."—M.M.B.

Dear M. M. B.: The judge's words are sobering, indeed. Only a full pardon from the governor or the President can restore citizenship rights to a felon. But even if a pardon is granted, the record stands forever.

P.S. My legal eagles tell me that if the sentence is served and the individual is not on probation, a passport can be secured.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, gives authoritative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Eight of us girls get together every two weeks to play cards. One of the girls who has been married three years announced in April she was expecting a baby on Oct. 12. Well, on Aug. 18 she gave birth. Her child weighed 6 lbs. 8 ounces and had a full head of hair. She made a point of explaining to everyone that the baby was premature.

Please tell us how in the world a premature baby can weigh more than most nine month babies? When we told her she must have miscalculated the date of birth, she stubbornly insisted that she did no such thing.

Since this woman is so obstinate we decided to ask you to check out the facts and settle the argument.

—SEVEN DISBELIEVERS

Dear Seven: It is unusual for a premature baby to be so large but it is not unheard of. What baffles me is not the size of the child, but the size of your interest. Why do you dames concern yourselves with such trivia?

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 years old, a high school graduate and I have one more year of Navy duty.

I went steady before I joined up. Mae and I were both in high school. She told me I was the first boy she had ever been intimate with but I never believed her.

I haven't seen Mae for over a year. She didn't write for a long time, then six weeks ago I got eight letters from her all at once. She is pregnant and wants me to marry her by mail so the baby will have a name. This baby can't be mine and we both know it. Mae says since I am the guy who started her on sex I owe her marriage. She says we can get divorced later if I want to.

My folks know about this and have told me to make my own decision. I need your help. — SAILOR AT SEA IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE

Dear Sailor: You need this marriage like you need a hole in your hull. The word from here is no, no, no!

Social Security and You

Widows Must Be 65 To Receive Medicare

By ROYCE A. CARBAUGH

Q—Will I be protected under Medicare as a widow age 63?

A—No. Only those persons age 65 or older will be eligible for health insurance benefits.

Q—Can I draw retirement benefits at age 60 now because of the amendments?

A—No. The change made by the amendments provide only for widow's benefits at age 60. Retirement benefits still start at 62.

Q—My dad died 10 years ago and had worked about one year under social security. Mom is 80. Is it possible she could draw widow's benefits now?

A—Your mother should file a claim for benefits immediately. The recent changes in for food

(Herald photos)

of friendship to me and onterey Peninsula," said t), Quota Club president.

"Tonight I saw my friends," Mayor Coyle said as she thanked the 212 guests who attended the Woman of the Year dinner despite the temperamental exhibition by the weatherman that night.

Woman of Year Honored

Dignitaries from the ilitary and civilian ommunities, civic offi- als, family members nd "just plain friends" ere there to say thank ou to Minnie for her 20 ears of volunteer work behalf of her less rtunate fellow men and r the betterment of her mmunity, county and ate.

'We're all a little bet- r off because she's en the den mother of r community," State nator Fred Farr said ednesday night, and (health and money and love and the time to enjoy them).

Assemblyman Alan Pattee, a member of "the world's most exclusive club, the 12-12 Club with only four members," shares that membership with Minnie, with Mrs. Henry Ragsdale and with Talma Wolfe, all of whom have Dec. 12 birthdays.

"We meet just once a year at Neptune's Table," Alan said, "and so what happens? I come home from Sacramento friends, and I look at TV and see Minnie greeting Princess Margaret. So let's make the Princess an honorary member of 12-12 Club. If she'll go up on a mountain and eat pork with Fish, there's no reason why she won't go out on the wharf and eat fish with us."

As a member of the 12-12 Club, Assemblyman Pattee assigned Minnie the task of "bringing the Princess back. And I know you can do it," he concluded to the delight

brooke elgie
natural light photography of children and young people
your inquiry invited 373-2368

them for an evening of Schoool.

Marine Corps with a formal ball held Nov. 10 at the Beach Club.

The 100 couples attending included officers on active duty at the U. S. Navy Postgraduate School and the Defense Language Institute, as well as retired Marine officers living in the area.

Guests included Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Earnshaw (USMC ret.) and Mrs. Earnshaw, and Dean and Mrs. Robert Rinehart of the Postgraduate School. Capt. and Mrs. Henry F. Lloyd represented Adm. and Mrs. E. J. O'Donnell, who were out of town at the time.

Col. Alexander Kositch, Marine Corps representative at the Naval Postgraduate School, presided at the traditional cake-cutting ceremony.

Chairman in charge of the ball was Maj. Curtis E. Caudell, a student at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Dancers Schedule Holiday Par

Rounds-4-Fun dancers will have a Thanksgiving party on Tuesday, Nov. 23. The welcome mat is always out for rounds-of-the - month enthusiasts who would like to join dancing at the Ju brillo School from 10:30 p.m.

Monterey Peninsula

Saturday, Nov. 20, 1

Ben Zuckerman's double-faced wool suit with jacket and skinny skirt is a major hit in his coll

State Politicos on Peninsula Tomorrow

MPH 11/29/65

The Monterey Peninsula tomorrow will feel the hot breath of the 1966 state election campaign in both the Democratic and Republican camps.

Robert Coate, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, will visit as will former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, Republican candidate for governor.

Christopher will address the Carmel Republican Women's Club at the group's annual meeting at Carmel Highlands Inn. The program will open with a social hour at noon with luncheon to begin about 1.

Christopher is expected to arrive about 1:15 p.m. Club president Mrs. Lincoln Noelle said the club would like to see a large turnout of men. Christopher's speech will precede an election of officers and other business to be transacted by the club.

Tickets are $3. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Giles Short at 372-9026 or Miss Marion Eley at 375-6965.

Coate, who succeeded Roger Kent as state chairman a few months ago, will attend a reception at State Sen. Fred Farr's home in Carmel from 5 to 7 p.m.

At 8 p.m., he will be guest of honor at a dinner at the Hotel Casa Munras in Monterey.

The reception is being sponsored by the Carmel Women's Democratic Club and the women's division of the Democratic State Central Committee in Monterey County. The Monterey County Democratic Central Committee is taking care of the dinner.

Democrats To Hold Reception Tuesday For Robert Coate

Pine Cone 11/25/65

On Tuesday, a reception and dinner are planned in honor of Robert Coate, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. Mr. Coate has been treasurer for the Democratic Party in California for the past two years and for 14 years has been active in politics in the fields of voter registration, getting out the vote and fund raising.

The reception, from 5 to 7 p.m., will be held at the home of Senator Fred S. Farr, with Carmel Women's Democratic Club members acting as hostesses.

Dinner will follow at 8 p.m. at the Casa Munras in Monterey. Reservation requests with checks ($5.00 per person) should be sent to the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee, P.O. Box 306, Monterey.

Sen. Farr's Home Scene Of Reception

MPH 11/29/65

A reception to introduce Robert Coate, chairman of the state Democratic Central Committee, to Monterey County residents will be given tomorrow from 5 to 7 p.m. at the home of Sen. Fred Farr, 9th and Carmelo streets, Carmel.

The Carmel Women's Democratic Club and the women's division of the state central committee will be sponsor of the event to take place from 5 to 7 p.m.

Hospitality chairman is Mrs. George Barron, assisted by Mmes. Edgar Viall, John Robotti, James May, Irby Bourriage, Sue Allen, Kim Canavarro and Miss Ruth Dodds.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Robotti, 624-1113.

Following the reception, the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee will give a dinner honroing Robert Coate at the Casa Munras at 8 p.m.

State Demo Chairman Sees 1966 'Battle of Fantasy'

MONTEREY — California Democrats will have to battle fantasy in the 1966 elections, the chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee said last night.

Robert L. Coate, 41-year-old Castro Valley investment counselor, who became state chairman last September, addressed leading Monterey County Democrats at a dinner in his honor at Casa Munras.

He said that the Republican party "will have Ronald Reagan and right wing candidates all across the boards, and they'll all talk childlike platitudes — conversation stoppers —that we don't know what to do with."

The problem, Coate said, is "We get hung up when we talk to these people," because their political and economic statements are "totally devoid of meaning."

'Fantasy World'

Therefore, "We will have to develop ways of taking on what they say." And it won't be easy, he said, for "We will be talking in a vacuum if we talk about reality. We'll have to learn to live in this fantasy world."

Coate said that "any serious (political) dialogue should revolve around the growth of the state" and the problems attendant to that growth.

But it probably won't happen, he said.

Coae said that Republican candidates will probably concentrate on "third grade" economics and on blaming Gov. Edmund G. Brown for "crime and terror in the streets." Neither will be a legitimate issue, he said, but there they are.

Coate said that Democratic legislators made a bad mistake in creating some "safe" Democratic districts in 1960. Sound Republicans won't run in them, he said, and as a result "we have opponents you simply can't believe." And these defeated GOP opponents win the right to appoint members of the Republican State Central Committee, "and that is why Ronald Reagan is going to be (the) candidate. The nuts now control the Republican party."

Coate said he considers Reagan a "preposterous" candidate, who "hasn't learned his second speech yet." But he will be a formidable candidate nevertheless.

The election of Republican U.S. Sen. George Murphy, whom the Democrats considered a joke early last year, proves that "it CAN happen here," he said.

Coate said that, frankly, he would prefer former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher as the Republican gubernatorial candidate, because the consequences of a Reagan victory "are greater than anyone realizes." He said Reagan's principal aim seems to be to dismantle government altogether.

Legislative reapportionment has "rent the fabric" of politics in California, Coate said. "courthouse gangs" are out and the individual approach to voters is definitely in.

He also said he believes that the California Democratic Council (CDC) will be ineffective as an endorsing arm of the Democratic party next year, because of the controversy its president Si Casady has aroused.

State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D—Carmel, introduced Coate and said that he is "breathing new life into our party."

New State Demo Chairman Coate To Be Honored

Sal Cal 11/29/65

New California State Democratic Central Committee chairman Robert Coate will be honored tomorrow night at a reception and dinner on the Monterey peninsula.

Coate will be guest of honor at a reception at the home of Monterey County's State Sen. Fred S. Farr in Carmel from 5 to 7 p.m. The reception is being sponsored by the Carmel Women's Democratic Club. He is also scheduled to attend an 8 o'clock dinner at Casa Munras, sponsored by the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee.

Demo Leader Coate Tells Campaign Tactics

By EARL HOFELDT

The state chairman of the Democratic Central Committee last night in Monterey said that next year Democrats must be prepared to face the "simple-minded tactics" of "right-wing opponents."

Robert Coate flatly said that actor Ronald Reagan will be the Republican candidate for governor and that "we will have right-wing opponents across the board."

In a dinner meeting at the Hotel Casa Munras, Coate, 41, said that the opposition will talk in "child-like generalities. . . " However, he warned that Democrats should not sell the enemy short.

"Proof"

"It can happen here. We have George Murphy as proof of that — actually sitting in Clair Engle's seat."

Coate, a San Francisco investment counselor who lives in Castro Valley, said the intellectual content of Republican campaign statements next year can be likened to such comments as, "I know a girl who went to work for the telephone company" or "It was supposed to rain yesterday but it didn't."

Coate said the opposition will: 1 — ask why government can't be operated on a pay-as-you-go basis like private business; 2 — charge that taxes are too high and that more local control is needed and 3 — charge that federal government is too big and spends too much.

The chairman said that rational people know that "every business is dependent on debt, borrowing and bonded indebtedness;" that in the past 25 years taxes on the local level have increased four times as much as on the federal and state level and that the bigness and spending of the federal government is mainly due to the fact that the majority of tax dollars goes for military purposes.

Coate, who had been Democratic state treasurer, was named chairman by the executive committee of the state central committee on Sept. 18. He succeeded Roger Kent who resigned to take an active hand in Governor Edmund G. Brown's expected campaign for reelection.

He has been active in various Democratic campaigns in northern California for more than 13 years.

Prior to the dinner, Coate and his wife attended a reception in their honor at the Carmel home of State Sen. Fred Farr. Coate said the main purpose of his Monterey County visit was to get acquainted with central committee members and party workers in this area.

Raps Casady

In a press conference at the Casa Munras, Coate said:

That he feels the California Democratic Council (CDC) will not be an effective force in politics again until it is rid of Simon Casady as president. (Casady is an outspoken critic of American policy in Viet Nam).

That he does not think Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty will oppose Brown for the Democratic nomination for governor next year but that Yorty might want to run against Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., in 1968. Yorty would get "slaughtered" in a contest with Brown, he said.

That he is a "strong advocate of the strong political party. . . I regard people who say that they vote for the man, not the party, as being simple minded."

That he feels there is wide room within the Democratic Party for dissenting thought and that there is no need for an edict in the Democratic camp such as issued by GOP State Chairman Dr. Gaylord Parkinson that "Thou shalt not speak ill of any Republican."

Weakened

Coate said the CDC, the party's volunteer club organization, will be in a weakened position next year because candidates will not want the CDC's endorsements as long as Casady is president.

State. Sen. Farr, who must run for reelection next year in a new four-county district created under reapportionment, said he will not seek the CDC endorsement although he has had it in the past.

(Herald photo)

Demo Chairman Visits

Robert Coate of Castro Valley, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, last night met with Monterey County party leaders during a reception at the Carmel home of State Sen. Fred Farr. From left: Dr. Robert Bowersox, chairman of the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee; Miss Ruth Dodd, president of the Carmel Women's Democratic Club; Coate; Mrs. Marion Robatti, chairman of the Monterey County section of the women's division of the state central committee and Farr.

County's Candidates File Campaign Costs

SALINAS — Candidates in the Nov. 3 election yesterday completed filing statements of their receipts and expenditures with the county clerk.

The largest expenditures and receipts were shown by Republican Congressman Burt Talcott, who conducted a successful campaign for reelection in the four-county 12th District.

According to Talcott's statement, $34,423.41 was spent and $30,637.67 contributed.

Talcott's Democratic opponent, Sanford Bolz, showed expenditures of $19,427.95 and contributions of $19,551.69.

State Senate

The campaign for state senator brought the next highest amount of spending, with the Democratic incumbent Fred Farr showing expenditures of $16,693.75 and his Republican challenger Stephen Magyar spending $16,980.46.

Farr showed contributions equal to his expenditures, and Magyar showed contributions of $17,081.75.

In the state assemblyman contest, incumbent Republican Alan Pattee spent $7,331 and his Democratic opponent, Irby Bourriague, $5,051.

Pattee shows contributions of $6,670 and Bourriague of $2,055.

In the 4th Supervisorial District (Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and Fort Ord, the winner, Beauford Anderson, showed expenditures of $3,086.77 and his opponent, Gerald McGrath, of $1,681.57.

Anderson shows contributions of $1,969.04 and McGrath of $1,187.

In the 1st Supervisorial District (Marina and North County), the winner, Warren Church, shows expenditures of $1,484.34, and his opponent, incumbent Chester Deaver, of $951.34.

Church lists contributions of $893 and Deaver of $300.

Main Contributors

Some of the principal contributors to the various campaigns were:

Talcott — A. Brooks Firestone of Pebble Beach, $500; S. F. B. Morse of Pebble Beach, $150; Maurine Church Morse of Pebble Beach, $150; American Medical Political Action Committee, $1,000; Louis A. Benoist of San Francisco, $500; Monterey County Republican Central Committee, $5,429; National Republican Congressional Committee, $500; San Luis Obispo County Republican Central Committee, $5,880.53; Citizens Finance Committee of Watsonville, $1,800; Physicians for Talcott of Monterey, $1,063.06; Santa Cruz County Central Committee, $1,800.88.

McGrath — Dr. Robert Bowersox, $100; Lou Haddad, $250; John Sigourney, $75; Dick Searle, $150; Bud Marshall, $140; Frances Anderson, $50; Cecil Bindel, $18.

Bourriague — Carmel Democratic Women's Club, $500; State Democratic Committee, $200; Frances Anderson, $100.

To Monterey Institute

$44,000 Grant

Rep. Burt L. Talcott, R-Salinas and State Sen. Fred Farr, D-Carmel, today jointly announced the awarding of a three-year federal research grant to the Monterey Institute for Speech and Hearing at 969 Pacific St., Monterey.

The initial check is for $17,000. Over the three-year period, the grant will total $44,000.

The money, allocated through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will be devoted to developing new techniques in working with individuals from 13 to 30 who stutter or stammer.

Dr. Burl Gray, in charge of speech pathology research at the institute, will be in charge of the program. He will be assisted by Dr. Gene England, institute director.

Talcott attended a short ceremony in the institute offices this morning formally denoting the award of the grant. He said he hoped that the grant would be a step toward development of a training program for volunteer speech therapists.

"I am trying," he said, "to encourage people to make a contribution to their community by 'tithing' their talents.

"A volunteer speech terapist could make such a contribution by providing help to people who really need it.

"A training program for such therapists could be an outgrowth of this institute.

"Trained volunteers are needed who can go into homes and hospitals to assist those with speech defects and impediments. . ."

Brown Signs Funds Bill For Recreation Lake Near Salinas

Gov. Edmund G. Brown has signed a bill by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel, authorizing up to $3 million in Davis-Grunsky Act funds to help pay costs of the proposed Alisal-Gabilan Watershed Project planned for Monterey County.

The quasi-official watershed project, which would provide a 180-acre recreational lake for the Salinas area, was partially sanctioned two months ago by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

At that time the board unanimously voted to direct the staff of the Flood Control and Water Conservation District to work with the project's steering committee toward to establishment of a district zone. Officials of the proposed zone will handle the administration of applications for federal and state funds to aid the project.

The board has indicated approval of the water conservation and irrigation portions of the watershed project, but joined the Salinas City Council in insisting that a recreation district be established to pay the costs of operating and maintaining a recreational lake.

According to Sam Chinn, chairman of the steering committee for the project, the initial cost of $17 million would be broken down to $4 million for recreation, $12 million for flood control and $1 million for irrigation.

Further hearings on the project undoubtedly will be held in the future. In the meantime, district engineer Loren Bunte and his staff will work toward the formation of a special zone.

A number of long-time residents of the Alisal-Gabilan area have testified that there is not enough water in the area to support the project. However, federal and state engineers have said that there is enough water and that the project will save the 1,500-acre Carr Flats area north of Salinas from periodic flooding.

Licenses for Power Boat Operators?

Senator Fred S. Farr (D., Monterey), chairman of the senate fact finding committee on natural resources, announced that the committee is holding hearings in Monterey this Wednesday and Thursday in the city council chambers to receive testimony on the subject of licensing power boat operators.

Senator Farr advised that the committee had been requested to examine the need for licensing, especially by operators of deep draught vessels who have reported extreme congestion and erratic operation of small craft in shipping lanes, as well as by law enforcement personnel in some other areas of the State.

Farr noted that the trend is to more and more high-powered outboard motors which require increased skill in operation and specific knowledge of waterway rules.

MPH 12/2/65

State Parkway System Study Plan Presented

Fred L. Jones, state director of parks and recreation, yesterday presented before the State Advisory Committee on a Master Plan for Scenic Highways the details of a proposed study for the planning of a state parkway system for California.

Jones said an application will soon be made for a $100,000 federal grant of the planning study. If the study can begin next March the completed parkway plan can be submitted to the legislature for action at its next regular session in 1967, Jones added.

The California Parkway Act, authored by Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel and signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown during the 1965 regular session of the legislature, directed the Department of Parks and Recreation to develop a system of parkways in the state.

The act describes a parkway as an elongated park including a road designed for pleasure driving, together with scenic turnouts, roadside rests, picknicking and camping facilities, and riding and hiking trails.

"The recreational and scenic opportunities offered by such a parkway system would complement and unify the state federal and regional parks envisaged for California," Jones declared. "The entire area of sight seeing and driving for pleasure has received too little attention in California's planning to date."